U.S. AND BRITISH SEE MAC DONALD
VISIT CLINCH IT5 Power Conference Likely in London.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—British and American officials

now are so close to tentative agreement on the cruiser tonnage question that a formal naval reduction conference attended by three and most likely five major naval powers virtually is assured for this winter, possibly in December.

Official announcement in London

that Ramsay MacDonald, the British premier, would sail from London on Sept. 28, to confer with President

Hoover, was followed by admission here in authoritative quarters that an agreement between the United States and Great Britain on the preliminaries to a formal naval conference now is in sight. Washington officials are confident accord on the naval principles can be reached within two weeks.

Submit Plan to Other Nations.

The presence of Premier MacDonald in Washington is expected to be clinched by the announcement that the preparations for holding a naval reduction conference have been completed. The date of the projected pa-rley probably will not be announced until after Washington and London

officials have submitted the naval principles upon which they have tentatively agreed to the governments of Japan, Italy, and France for approval.

The prospects are the call will be issued by Great Britain and that the conference will be held in London.

The final terms of the preliminaries for the formal naval conference have not yet been arranged for, as it was not until late last night that the response of the United States to the latest British proposals for reducing cruiser tonnage were cable to London following prolonged conference

among administration officials.

Carroll, Ia., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Tommy

Craig, Des Moines, pilot, and Miss

Faith West of Fairlin, Ia., were burned to death when a plane in which they were flying crashed and caught fire near the airport here. Another passenger, James Farrell of Je-and injured.

As the plane took off it struck a pylon marking the boundaries of the racing course for planes participating in the airport dedication ceremonies.

It turned over and burst into flames

as it struck the ground. The bodies of Craig and Miss West were burned

so badly that identification was dif-Indictments

in Beer Flat

On Wednesday night a police squad

raided a luxurious beer flat at 813

Cass street. The flat was conducted under the proprietorship of Lester

Elliott, known to his intimates as

"Curley." Yesterday officials of the Chicago police station thumbed over the evidence taken. They were astounded to find among some papers

two indictments, both voted by the Cook county grand jury.

The indictments named James N.

O'Brien, designated colloquially as "High Pockets," as guilty of receiving stolen property and of bribery.

The indictments, which were supposed to be reposing in the vaults of State's Attorney Swanson, are held by police awaiting Mr. Swanson's orders.

While these indictments were being brought to light "Curley" Elliott was boasting at the police station that the case would be fixed, inasmuch as his brother was an assistant state's attorney.

Hope Fades as Planes Fail to Find Lake Boat

The fate of 28 men aboard the gravel carrying ship Andaste remained a mystery early this morning. As airplanes and boats returned to Chicago last night from fruitless searches over the southern half of Lake Michigan fears that the boat had sunk with all aboard were strengthened. At 7 o'clock this morning the boat, which left

Grand Haven, Mich., on Monday morning, was nearly three days overdue in Chicago, and no word had been heard from it since it left port.

Officials of the Andaste Steamship company of Cleveland, the vessel's owners, had virtually abandoned hope that the ship had survived the storm which it encountered a few hours out of Grand Haven, but the search went on, not only from Chicago but from every port along the southern rim of the lake.

Four Planes Aid Search.

Four airplanes from the Great Lakes naval station spent all of yesterday

flying out over the Andaste's course, but no trace of it was found within a radius of 100 miles from Chicago. A coast guard crew under Capt. J. O.

Anderson left at noon in the private yacht Marj III, owned by J. H. Oberfelder, 110 South Dearborn street, with the intention of sailing along the missing ship's course to Grand Haven.

LATIN AMERICA REVEALS PLAN TO UNIFY ITS STATES

Would Follow France in Federation Idea.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Copyright, 1929, by The Chicago Tribune.)
GENEVA, Sept. 12.—A United States Latin America may be another development of the league of nations, it was revealed today. Like the United States of Europe, such a federation of the South Central American states would not be aimed at America, a spokesman insisted.

The Venezuelan minister to Bern, Cesar Zumeta, hinted of a coalition in a speech before the world court committee today, when the Root protocol was adopted to ratify the United States senate's reservations for adhering to The Hague Convention.

Zumeta's statements were significant because they followed a banquet last night when the delegates of 15 Latin American states had Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, as guest of honor. Enrique Olaya, Chilean ambassador to Rome and Chilean delegate to the league council, disclosed the fact that representatives of Central and South American republics are now engaged in conferences for closer cooperation and collaboration.

Guided by French Plan.
The delegates of the central South American states decline to make public the extent to which the conversations of the Latin American federation have proceeded. It is learned that they will take guiding lines from the French plan for a federated Europe. With the Root protocol adopted by the commission, it now goes before the assembly for official approval.

BRAND MAY QUIT
BY ROBERT SAGE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, Sept. 12.—The French cabinet met today. After approving Premier Brand's work at Geneva, the cabinet agreed that the political committee of the League of Nations should be subordinated completely to Germany's strict observation of the financial clauses.

Discourage War by Loans.
GENEVA, Sept. 12.—(P)—The proposal to discourage war by giving economic aid to a nation which is at war or menaced came to the dismemberment committee in the form of a resolution drafted by the finance committee of the league. The scheme provides for the formation of a loan fund supported by nations which subscribe to the plan and from which the victim government might be granted credits.

Employment of this aid would rest entirely in the hands of the council of the league, whose action would require a unanimous vote. A member of the council representing a party to the dispute would be exempted from the vote. Lord Cecil of Great Britain, however, the project vigorously. He said that it would enable nations to sell up stocks of munitions and other goods for a partial reduction of armaments.

Onst von Bernstorff of Germany supported this position. He said, however, that "threat of aggression" as well as the resolution, would need a special definition.

It is now obvious that the destiny of Premier Brand's twelfth cabinet is very uncertain. With strong opposition from both the right and left factions, Premier Brand's majority is at present dangerously weak.

Wants Police Back.
There is no question of the cabinet resigning, but at the same time Premier Brand is fatigued from sessions at The Hague and Geneva and is ready to step down from the presidency. He hopes to find a capable successor.

He hopes to find a capable successor to the government and would like to see the return of the former premier's health.

DIPLOMA MILL WITNESS GIVEN THREAT OF BOMB

Woman Told Home Is
in Danger.

Gang tactics of threatening with bombs are being used in behalf of the indicted members of the so-called diploma mill. Mrs. Dora B. Sparber, 1306 South Kedzie avenue, mother of four children, reported yesterday afternoon to Assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows. She is one of the witnesses against Col. W. H. Miller, L. Mitchell Blaine and others recently indicted in connection with the sale of fake medical licenses.

"Some man called me on the telephone this afternoon and said, 'If you see State's Attorney Bellows again I will blow up your home,'" Mrs. Sparber reported to the prosecutor's office. Mrs. Sparber was perturbed by the threat and to assure her that no harm would befall her family, two detectives were sent to keep the home under observation.

The fact that Mrs. Sparber and her husband, Samuel Sparber, an orderly at a hospital, had been taken before the grand jury on Wednesday apparently was communicated to some one interested in the defense. They both made statements to Prosecutor Bellows and were secretly, it was thought, taken before the jury.

Sparber and his wife testified that $500 was paid to Blaine, who said he was the agent for Col. Miller, former head of the department of registration and education. They said they had been advised to see Blaine by Dr. Harry Adcox of St. Louis, who has also testified against the diploma ring.

Sparber graduated from a St. Louis medical college, but was not qualified to pass the Illinois requirements. It was for this reason that he negotiated for the sale of a license, he said.

CLEVELAND HEIRESS IS SLAIN BY GARDENER SHE HAD DISCHARGED

Woman Told Home Is
in Danger.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 12.—(P)—Mrs. Barbara Diebolt, 53, heiress of the Diebolt brewing fortune, was shot and killed at her Euclid Village home today by a gardener angered because he had been dismissed, police said.

Michael Di Tirro, the gardener, walked into the village police station shortly after the killing, and admitted slaying the woman. He had been employed at the home for seventeen years prior to his dismissal two weeks ago.

Servants said Di Tirro, when discharged, threatened to shoot the family. Di Tirro said he went to the home today and asked Mrs. Irv for his job again. The woman threatened to call police. He then shot three times.

Mrs. Irv was the wife of Joseph Irv of the Cleveland Billiard Supply house. She was a member of the Diebolt family which long owned the Diebolt Brewing company before prohibition.

The committee will meet to begin the work of drawing up a charter bank at Brussels, Sept. 23.

TRAYLOR TO AID CREATION OF NEW BANK OF WORLD

J. E. Reynolds of N. Y. Is

(Copyright, 1929, by The New York Times.)
PARIS, Sept. 12.—Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, and Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the First National Bank of New York, will be the American members of the committee for the organization of the international bank for payments under the Young plan. The committee will meet to begin the work of drawing up a charter bank at Brussels, Sept. 23.

The two have been invited to serve on the committee by Governor Emile Moreau of the Bank of France in the name of all the central banks interested in setting up the new international bank. It is believed here that Traylor and Reynolds will sail from New York in time to be in Brussels for the opening meeting.

Young Plan Provides Method.
This method of inviting the bankers was provided for in the Young plan, in which account was taken of the possibility of the governor of the federal reserve or any other central bank being unable to designate members of the organization committee. As the United States government hasn't given the necessary authorization to the federal reserve bank, Governor Moreau, in accord with the governors of each of the five other central banks, has designated these two as "persons versed in banking and the work of the present committee."

Thus once more American members of the committee will be "unofficial" delegates not representing their country or their national institutions but playing a large role both in defense of American interests and the settlement of international problems.

The two French members of the committee, dominated by Governor Moreau are Moret, assistant governor, and Pierre Quenay, who acted as secretary to the French delegation during the labors of the Young committee. Young, Morgan Suggest Americans.

It is stated here that the names of the two American bankers, Traylor and Reynolds, were suggested by Owen D. Young and J. Pierpont Morgan, who were asked to suggest two of their compatriots for the task. Their suggestion was approved today by the governors of six banks.

Three other committees set up by the Young plan will begin meetings in Paris next Monday. These three committees will deal with the settlement of state property, liquidation of past accounts, and delivery in kind. Although the location of the international bank for payments will not be decided until after the report of the organization committee has been submitted, it is fully expected that a final decision will favor Brussels.

sumably the invitations were made by cable, since J. Pierpont Morgan is in Scotland shooting grouse, and Owen D. Young is on a business trip in Canada.

Mr. Reynolds was at his desk today at the First National bank and was reported making arrangements for his departure with Mr. Traylor for Brussels, where they will meet the other delegates.

Mr. Traylor was reached tonight by long distance telephone at the Indian Hills Country club at Wilmette, Ill., and confirmed his selection. He had just completed a round of golf.

Chicagoans Accepts Job.
"I have accepted the invitation to serve as one of the members of the committee with Mr. Reynolds," said the Illinois banker, "and will be glad to do what I can to help in the situation."

The appointment of Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Traylor as American members of the world bank committee emphasizes the leading part which will be taken by the United States in the discussions. Both men are typical "headliners" in the banking field. Mr. Reynolds of the east, Mr. Traylor of the west, are representatives of the best American banking thought. Both are accustomed to handling tremendous banking affairs, are directors in many American corporations and enterprises of importance, and both are wealthy.

Pola Negri Slips Back to

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 12.—(Special.)—Pola Negri, film star, back in Hollywood unharmed, was discovered today residing in a few rooms of an apartment building she owns here. "I am not back in Hollywood to return to American pictures," she was quoted by her secretary. "I am here to attend to some business, and shortly will return to Europe."

The secretary explained Miss Negri will go to Paris to obtain a divorce from Serge M. D'Yan in November. Afterward she will do her work for the films in Europe.

PEORIA JUDGE LIBERATES TWO CHICAGO FELONS

Grants Writs on Pleas of Downstate Counsel.

Two Cook county convicts, both possessors of long criminal records, have been freed within the last five days from Illinois penal institutions on orders of Circuit Judge T. N. Greene of Peoria, county.

In each case Judge Greene gave the prisoner his freedom through a habeas corpus writ, the proceeding conferring not a parole but a complete discharge upon the convict.

George Barker, the sole survivor of the notorious Reilly-Clifford-Cawley-Barker gang, was the first convict to profit by the leniency of Judge Greene. Last Saturday Barker was freed from the Pontiac reformatory on a writ issued by Judge Greene upon petition of State Senator Victor P. Michael of Peoria, Barker's counsel.

Acquitted in Murder Case.
Barker had been returned to Pontiac for parole violation on March 2 following his acquittal along with Michael Reilly and William Clifford, in the murder of a north side garage attendant when Policeman Walter Hoder repudiated in court his former identification of the three as the killers. Hoder's conduct at the murder trial created a sensation and was the subject of an inquiry begun by all judges of the Criminal court.

Edward Kill, sent to Joliet penitentiary in 1921 for 10 years to life after conviction for robbery with a gun, was the second Chicago convict to be set free by Judge Greene. The judge acted yesterday in the Kill case on a petition presented by G. W. Sprenger, a Peoria lawyer.

Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin of the Chicago crime commission revealed Kill's criminal record as follows: June 20, 1905, sentenced to 6 months in the Bridewell; May 6, 1907, sentenced to 10 months in the Bridewell; Nov. 28, 1907, sentenced to Chester penitentiary for burglary; Oct. 16, 1918, sentenced to 6 months in the Bridewell; November, 1921, bonds forfeited in an assault to kill case.

State is Represented.
Assistant Attorney General Merrill F. Wehmhoff represented the state at each of the hearings before Judge Greene. In the Kill case, Attorney Sprenger argued that his client should receive the benefit of the "good time" clause in the statute, though upon two occasions the state parole board had overruled this argument, refusing recently to grant leniency.

Judge John P. McGoorty held that Barker violated his parole by going to California and being found there in company with known notorious characters. Senator Michael argued that Barker wrote seeking permission of the parole board for the trip a month in advance, and receiving no answer to his letter, took it for granted that leave was given.

One inquirer was curious as to the apparent sudden influx of Cook county criminals cases in Peoria county. Attorney Sprenger explained that, though living in Peoria, he has a Chicago law office.

CITY HALL BEGS 50-50 BREAK ON JUDICIAL TICKET

Wants Nominees to Run Under Own Party Flags.

Facing a dozen or more withdrawals of nominees from their judicial ticket, leaders of the Thompson Republican organization were ready yesterday to propose to the Democratic-Democrat fusionists a general agreement to cut down the size of the fight that now confronts them in the November election.

Their plan is to bring about a situation in which all the Democratic sitting judges will run in the Democratic column and all the Republican nominees in the Republican column, with an agreement that the vacancies caused by withdrawals of candidates shall not be filled on either slate.

In other words, they are prepared to promise that if the nine Democratic members of the Superior court pull off the city hall slate the Republican county central committee will leave those nine places vacant if, in return, all eight of the Republican candidates for reelection agree to withdraw from the Democratic-Democrat ticket and their political sponsors agree to leave those eight places unfilled.

Must Choose Party Label.

This suggestion for new negotiations arose as a result of the action of the two county conventions—Republican and Democratic—on Wednesday night. Each included among its nominees all the seventeen judges of the Superior court who seek reelection. Nine are Democrats and eight are Republicans. Within a few days it will be up to each of them to determine under which party label he will run. Then he must withdraw from the other ticket.

The Democratic and Democrat leaders say that all of the nine Democrats will get off the city hall list, that two Democrat judges will go with them, and that at least one more and possibly as many as four more Republicans will make it almost a stampede. The leaders of the Thompson forces deny that anything of the sort will occur, but having been advocates of coalition for the sake of the sitting judges and having been outmaneuvered, they are still hopeful of holding down the number of new candidates, thereby lessening the danger of the defeat of some incumbents.

Barrett Explains Proposal.

"We are willing," said Charles V. Barrett, chairman of the Republican organization steering committee, "to agree to have all the Republicans run in the Republican column and all the Democrats in the Democratic column without filling the vacancies caused on both tickets by their withdrawals." But spokesmen for both the Democratic organization and the Democrat Republican group said little consideration would be given to such a proposal, that they want to strengthen their ticket still further as soon as there are any Republican withdrawals. Chairman A. J. Cermak of the Democratic county central committee, generalissimo in the tactical victory of Wednesday, was in Springfield yesterday. But State Representative Michael L. Igoe, his closest associate, was emphatic on this point.

Other Candidates Available.

"Of course, we recognize that the city hall managers will have difficulty in finding suitable candidates to fill the holes in their ticket when the Democrats and some of the Republicans are down them. But the situation with us is far different."

"There are a few of the Republicans who will elect to remain in their own column and, therefore, must withdraw from our ticket. But we have a large number of most excellent candidates willing to fill their shoes, and by making the substitutions we shall strengthen our ticket materially."

"The difficulty with the city hall managers seems to be their realization that under the present circumstances they will have trouble in adding to their ticket any lawyer who might raise it a notch in public esteem."

Five of the Republican judges facing the withdrawal problem were interviewed yesterday and all indicated they had not determined their choice. The sixth, Judge Marcus Kavanagh, is out of the city.

Judges William H. McSurely and Albert C. Barnes, considered by politicians as in the Democrat camp, but individually disavowing any factional domination, issued brief statements.

"I really do not know offhand which ticket I shall elect to run on," said Judge McSurely.

"Judge Barnes said that . . . he did not wish to commit himself in advance of examining his selection in the formal way required by the statutes," read Judge Barnes' statement.

FORMER HARBOR MASTER JAILED FOR "CON GAME"

Adam Weckler, 53 years old, 547 Hinman avenue, was being held at the detective bureau last night on charges of operating a confidence game, following his arrest yesterday by Evanston police on a warrant obtained by Joseph Schiller, president of Joseph Schiller & Co., plumbing supply dealers at 1512 Roosevelt road.

Schiller told police that eight months ago Weckler persuaded him to invest $7,500 in a hotel which Weckler said he was going to build in Rogers Park. In return, according to Schiller, he was to receive the plumbing contract on the building. Investigation showed Weckler did not start construction of the hotel.

Weckler, who was a harbor master during the first Thompson administration, will be arraigned today in felony court. On Feb. 3, 1922, a charge of embezzlement against him was nolle, and on Sept. 18, 1925, two charges of operating a confidence game were dismissed for want of prosecution. On Nov. 5, 1927, he was placed on probation for one year on a charge of larceny, records at the detective bureau showed.

DAVIS VIEWS TYPHOON DAMAGE.
MANILA, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Gov. Gen. Davis today flew to Infanta, on the west coast of Luzon province, with Walter Kilmer to view the damage wrought there by last week's typhoon. Infanta had the greatest loss of life and the greatest damage of any of the stricken places.

INSURANCE MAN KILLED AS AUTO SKIDS, UPSETS

Police Probing Death of Woman Hit by Car.

Edwin M. Scribner, 25 years old, 1404 Judson avenue, Evanston, an agent for the New England Mutual Life Insurance company there, was killed last night when his automobile skidded on the wet pavement on the Northwest highway near Quintana road and turned over twice, rolling into a ditch.

Edgar Fowler, 420, Hamilton avenue, his companion, who is general agent for the insurance company, escaped with slight injuries.

Scribner and Fowler were returning from the Woodstock Country club when Scribner applied the brakes of his car suddenly to avoid hitting a car in front of him. In the resulting accident his body was crushed by the steering wheel. He died on the way to the Campbell hospital in Palatine, where he was taken by county highway police.

He was the son of Edwin Monroe Scribner, an official of the Superior Engineering company, and prominent in the electrical business for a number of years.

Investigate Woman's Death.

Police were investigating the death of Mrs. Margaret Lenihan, 25 years old, 6116 Kenwood avenue, who, members of her family said, died of injuries received in an automobile accident on July 28. She was struck by a car at Herndon avenue and Addison street, her relatives said. Town Hall police have no record of the accident, although they recalled that William E. Ultermarck, 3543 Bosworth avenue, was fined $5 for reckless driving at that point on the same day.

These two deaths and one other raised the Cook county motor toll for 1922 to 611. The other victim:

Mrs. Mayme Simms, 50 years old, 7120 East End avenue. Died in the Billings hospital of injuries received when she was struck by a car on Aug. 27 at 76th street and Parnell avenue.

Couple Injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Junkunc, 3400 Adams street, were injured when their car skidded and overturned on the Northwest highway near Dundee road. Mary O'Donnell, 5 years old, 3302 Herndon avenue, was injured internally when she was struck by an automobile at School street and Herndon avenue. The driver, Frank Eklund, 6818 Ridge avenue, was not held.

BOB NEAR DETECTIVE BUREAU.
Two men yesterday robbed the White Owl restaurant, 39 East Roosevelt road, less than a block from the detective bureau, of $70 after they had drawn revolvers to subdue Robert Kello, 1552 East 63d street, a waiter.

BUCKET SHOP QUIZ WIDENED TO REALTY FIELD

Complaints Pile Up on Shady Deals.

The bucket shop investigation by Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, is to be broadened to include the real estate field. This announcement was made yesterday after the better business bureau had communicated with the prosecutor's office telling of many complaints made against alleged sharp real estate dealings by certain firms.

"Considerable money has been obtained by shady real estate operators," said Prosecutor Charles Bellows. "Some of the transactions reported to us are nearly as bad as the cases in the bucket shops. We will investigate every complaint and where a criminal violation has occurred we will start a prosecution."

Delay Quiz Before Jury.

The resumption of the bucket shop investigation before the grand jury was temporarily sidetracked until the real estate complaints can be investigated. Prosecutor Bellows also said he has two or three more so-called bucket shops under investigation and he wants to complete these cases before again going before the jury for additional indictments.

J. F. Dowd, head of the J. F. Dowd company, who has turned state's evidence against his former associates in the bucket shop field, was called to the office of Investigator Roche yesterday to find out if any additional threats have been made against him in the last few days. He was assured of protection against gangsters.

Woman Doctor Is Loser.

Dr. Gertrude Thompson, 718 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, was among the victims appearing yesterday. She lost $500 to Randolph-Marshall company.

William Vresak, 200 West Monroe street, an electrician, lost $450 to Clifford Moore & Co. Leroy Sanford, 5025 North Major avenue, and his mother lost $500 to Randolph-Marshall company. Sanford said he balked when the bucketsters attempted to steer him to a railroad stock which he knew was no good because of the fact that he is a railroad employe.

GASOLINE TAX ROADS THIS YEAR, EMMERSON SAYS

Tells Chicago Committee to Revise Report.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Chicago, Ill., Sept. 12.—[Special.]
Gov. Emmerson this afternoon told a committee of his metropolitan area advisers that there will be no highway construction in 1929 out of the gasoline tax fund.

At the same time he expressed dissatisfaction with the report prepared by the Chicago district advisers and asked back the report to the citizens' committee for further work.

"I stated plainly when I appointed this citizens group last June," said the governor, "that I wanted the advisers to make the report to determine the priority of construction on the road program. I haven't changed my mind."

The advisers, instead of listing priorities, had included in their report some generalities as principles to be followed by the administration in designating a sequence for construction.

But Attacks Constitutionality.
No contracts for expenditures of the tax revenue can be let, in the opinion of Gov. Emmerson, until the supreme court disposes of an injunction suit brought by the Chicago Motor Coach company. The litigation attacks the constitutionality of the tax. The supreme court will decide the case in either the December or the February term.

In addition to its failure to designate priority, the advisory commission was also reproved for exceeding the 1 per cent estimate of anticipated revenue. The committee's two year program called for the construction of projects that would take $28, 000,000 to complete. It placed anticipated revenue at $27,700,000.

Best Estimate 19 Million.
"The best estimate on available facts, the estimate that I get from my department experts," said Gov.
Emmerson, "is $19,000,000. I hope the funds will amount to $21,000,000, but this is a layman's hope against the calculations of experts and I think the committee, in preparing its recommendations to the state, should stay within the $19,000,000 figure."

"Go back to Chicago and agree upon a practical program for the state to follow," he continued.
"Shall the program stay within the limits of route 22 or did we act rightly in planning roads for all of the seven counties that we consider as properly a part of the metropolitan area?"
asked Mr. Kellogg, chairman of the advising delegation.

"Eventually," added the governor,
"the arterial highways will have to be extended for distances from Chicago much farther than route 22. But let's take care of the area within this boundary first."

Demand Specific Priority.
Route 22 enters Illinois from Dyer, Ind., and curves up the Fox river valley through Aurora, Elgin, and Dundee then turning east to meet Sheridan

WORK STARTED ON NEW WABASH AVENUE BRIDGE

Preparations for the construction of the substructure of the new Wabash avenue bridge were begun yesterday by the Ketter-Elliott company, which was awarded the contract on its low bid of $457,504. Surveyors were working yesterday to determine the location for the bridge supports.

The bridge, providing a new entrance to the loop from the north side, will meet Wacker drive on the south side of the river and connect with a viaduct over the Chicago and North Western tracks on the north side. The span will jog slightly to the south to join the north side viaduct which will run northeast over the tracks to Cass street and then descend to grade at Kinzie street in Cass.

The north viaduct will be a section of the new drive planned to rival Wacker drive on the north bank of the river. The $3,700,000 bond issue for the construction of the bridge was approved by the voters on April 5,

SMOOT CLASHES WITH SIMMONS ON TARIFF BILL

Denies It Places Burden on Consumers.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Senators Smoot and Simmons clashed today in key-note speeches by the leaders of the opposing forces.

Senator F. M. Simmons (Dem., N. C.), ranking minority member of the senate finance committee, championed a "competitive tariff," but denounced the pending bill as framed for the benefit of special interests imposing an excessive burden on consumers, accomplishing nothing for agriculture and jeopardizing foreign trade.

Senator Reed Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the finance committee, countering with a defense of the bill, charged that groups of internationalists are seeking to tear down the American principle of protection. He insisted that the bill carries out Republican campaign pledges, that it is in accord with President Hoover's recommendations and that it will insure a continuance of prosperity.

Both speeches lengthy.
Both the keynote speeches were lengthy and were intended for the record rather than for the ears of senators, few of whom were on the floor. Senator Simmons, 75, and unable to carry the burdens which he has assumed in former tariff fights, was helped out by a reading clerk, who read a portion of the speech. Senator Smoot also read his speech.

Senator John J. Blaine (Rep., Wis.), one of a number of radicals and Democrats who took an occasional hand in the debate, told the senate that he later proposed to show that increases in duties on steel products will boost costs of agricultural implements to the farmers of the country by 100 million dollars.

Senator Simmons, who bolted Al Smith and was out of sympathy with many of the Smith policies, professed to stand squarely on the declaration of the last Democratic platform for a competitive tariff. The party has advanced, he said, from the old theory of a tariff for revenue only to the competitive tariff theory. The Republican party, meanwhile, he contended, has advanced from the McKinley theory of protection to the position of practical exclusion.

Shut Off Foreign Trade.
"I do not want and the party does not want," said Senator Simmons, "to see any American industry swamped by foreign competition, but it does not wish to build a wall around this country so high as to practically shut off importation of foreign products and at the same time cut off or unduly restrict the exportation of American products."

Senator Simmons argued that the pending bill contains many rates and increases upon agricultural products that are useless and ineffective, that it is replete with exorbitant rates on articles which farmers buy, contains many instances of higher rates on articles used by the masses than on ar-

SUED FOR $100,000

MRS. MARY T. BERNARDIN.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Mary T. Bernardin, wealthy widow of Alfred Bernardin, president of the Bernardin Bottle Cap company here, who was sued last week by Mrs. Helen Bedford-Jones, divorced wife of Henry Bedford-Jones, prominent Evansville author, is declared to be en route for Europe for an extended tour. Officials who have been trying to serve papers upon her gave the information. Mrs. Bedford-Jones is asking $100,000.

Articles of identical use but purchased principally by persons of wealth.

Furthermore, he contended, the bill does not conform to President Hoover's request for increases on industrial products only where there has been a slackening of employment, that it is full of inconsistencies and unfair discriminations, increases rates on many articles even though the imports under the present law have been negligible, and encourages inefficiency by many of its increases in rates.

The North Carolina senator also charges the increases on manufactured articles imperils our trade with European countries and that by its liberalization of the flexible provisions the latitude allowed the President in the imposition of additional duties is greatly expanded.

Smoot Says It's Old Story.
"I am opposed to this bill," said Senator Smoot, "because it encourages inefficiency, extravagance, mismanagement and waste in certain units of our protected industries and penalizes the great mass of American consumers by the imposition of a sufficient high tariff tax to guarantee profits and prosperity to these lame ducks in the industry, while at the same time increasing to that extent the already excessive rates enjoyed by the efficiently managed units in that industry."

"I am opposed to this bill because many of its rates—especially those on agricultural products—are utterly or practically useless, and are calculated, if not intended, to mislead, if not deceive, those who are supposed to be benefited by them."

"The only way the farmer can secure or hope to secure even approximate equality through tariff legislation is by increases in duties on his products, where they will or can be effective, and by drastic reduction in the duties imposed upon such industrial products as he does not produce and must of necessity buy for farm, home and family."

Senator Smoot asserted that the assaults upon the tariff bill are similar to those made upon previous tariff bills and that they serve only to stir up the country unnecessarily.

"Most of the publicly proclaimed outcry against the proposed tariff has been fostered and promoted by foreign interests and American interests with a foreign background," Senator Smoot said. "Certain foreign interests recently paraded by the Democrats and their allies were propaganda from un-American and international sources to break down protection if possible."

"The answer is that the tariff is a domestic matter, and an American tariff must be framed and put into force by the American congress and administration. No foreign country has a right to interfere. The United States does not presume to interfere with the tariff policy of any foreign country."

"Nearly every country in Europe is emulating the United States in developing self-sufficiency. To surrender our national prestige and power on the altar of internationalism and international tariff machinery located at Geneva would be a colossal blunder."

Protection Is Necessary.
"Protection is as necessary to the United States as it ever was. It persists regardless of what some call international economic changes and international financial obligations and exigencies."

"Powerful forces seeking to break down American protection lurk in international economic conferences held in Europe, in American schools of economics and in the cloistered halls of theoretical universities. No greater calamity could come to the United States and our people than blind obedience to these forces."

"It is asserted that the increases in rates on agricultural products are more than offset by increases in rates on manufactured goods. This statement is not justified by the facts. The ad valorem increases in agriculture over the 1922 tariff far outweigh increases in manufactures based on 1928 imports. In fact, many of the increases on manufactured goods are compensatory of increases on what might be called raw materials allied to agriculture."

Favorite Democratic Theme.

"It is claimed that all these increases in tariff rates on manufactured goods over 1922 add to the costs of the farmer, to the extent of the increase. This is a favorite Democratic theme and is now freely used by their allies bent upon making the tariff unpopular with the farmers. The claim is based on the assumption that the price level of commodities is increased to the extent of the increased tariff imposed, thus adding to the farmers' cost of living. This is a fallacy."

"The price level has little to do with the tariff. The tariff simply tends to reduce supply in the domestic market, and to that extent protects the domestic producer or manufacturer against unfair foreign competition. The tariff acts on price levels only indirectly."

"The Republican party during the campaign and the administration after inauguration, promised the people a readjusted tariff to meet new economic conditions since 1922. The proposed tariff, when perfected by its friends, will fulfill the party's promise, despite all criticism of President Hoover, both in regard to agriculture and industry."

20 MILLION FARM CO-OP READY TO GET GRAIN RELIEF

Headquarters Likely to Be in Chicago.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Organization of the $20,000,000 farmers' national grain marketing corporation, by which means the cooperative grain marketing associations of the United States expect to obtain financial aid from the federal farm board in getting up a single large stabilizing system, will be completed at a meeting to be held in Chicago in the next week or ten days, it was learned here yesterday. When the committee of sixteen grain marketing leaders meets it will be called as a board of directors of the new corporation. It is stated by responsible farm leaders that the headquarters will "in all probability be in Chicago," and that as soon as a general manager is engaged a gigantic marketing program will be launched immediately. Sales agencies will be set up in principal grain centers of this and foreign countries, much as has been done by the Canadian wheat farmers' pool.

Articles Await Approval.
Articles of incorporation and by-laws of the proposed grain corporation were drawn up by a subcommittee of three in Chicago a week ago. They are yet to be approved by George Farrand, legal counsel for the federal farm board, although members of the board have advised the grain men in planning the type of organization.

"If wheat farmers of the United States had the marketing organization and controlled as much of the country's crop as do Canadian wheat growers in their pool, present prices would be even greater than Canadian prices today," said William H. Settle, Indiana farm bureau leader and chairman of the committee forming the new corporation. He is attending a meeting of American Farm Bureau federation directors in Chicago, which was in session yesterday and is continuing today.

Sees Need of Organization.

Mr. Settle said he believed the present lack of a large stabilizing and marketing organization, together with some difference in transportation rates, was responsible for the difference in price between Canadian and American wheat. An investigation of causes of this differential in prices was ordered by the farm board in Washington Wednesday. Mr. Settle said that with the tariff favoring American growers, the only step lacking to better wheat prices is an efficient organization to control enough of the American crop to make orderly marketing possible. This, he stated, is the purpose of grain leaders.

Call Wool Growers.

Wool growers throughout the nation are being invited to a meeting called by the federal farm board, to be held in Chicago early in October, to plan a uniform cooperative marketing system for sheep men. L. B. Palmer, Ohio farm bureau president, announced here yesterday.

The October meeting will be open to farmers' stock company officers as well as cooperative leaders, Mr. Palmer said. A plan for federating as many farmer owned wool growing agencies as possible will be discussed "around the table" with Mr. Legge and his farm board.

Cotton farmers in the southwest, rather new in the production of this crop, are being given "farmerized relief," according to L. B. Freudenthal, president of the New Mexico state farm bureau. Promoters are setting up stock companies to sell memberships to uninformed farmers for the purchase of cotton gins, compresses and cottonseed oil mills at twice their worth, he said. They are not organized under the state cooperative marketing laws, Mr. Freudenthal says. He also accused those promoters of working to hold up excessive mill charges.

Legge Glad to Explain.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[AP.]—Taking notice of statements on the manner in which the federal farm board is making loans, Chairman Alexander Legge said today he would be glad to go before any senate committee and give an explanation. With the exception of some small loans authorized for facilities, Legge said, the board had agreed only to loans supplemental to those already made by the federal intermediate banks.

Chairman Legge said that throughout the country the wheat storage facilities were overloaded with grain, but that he believed the peak had passed and better prices were in prospect. The board, he added, would discourage wheat growers from increasing their acreage as over-production had been the cause of most of their ills.

Carriers Make Complaint.

Senator Nye (Rep., N. D.) made public complaints of the Canal Carriers' association that wheat storage facilities in New York were loaded with Canadian wheat, thereby forcing American producers to put their products on the market at current prices. Legge said that there was some Canadian wheat at Buffalo.

The farm board announced it had agreed to make supplemental loans to red top grass seed and rice growers' cooperative associations which have qualified for loans from the federal intermediate credit banks. A supplemental advance to the rice growers' association of California of $230,000 and an advance of two cents a pound on seed in addition to a maximum of 7 cents a pound obtained from the Egyptian Seed Growers' exchange of Florida, Ill., today were approved.

INSANE PRISONER HANGS SELF.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 12.—[U. P.]—John Plantmsek, 55, hanged himself with his belt in the county jail here today. He was being held pending his removal to the state hospital for the insane at Jacksonville.

The Little Things That Count

GLOVES—which play a larger part than ever in the Fall wardrobe because they must blend with every costume—are best in washable sueds in those smart, inconspicuous dark beiges. $3.75 First Floor, North, State.

PEARLS (simulated) grow more and more important as they are called upon to complement the graciousness of increasingly formal frocks. $1.50 First Floor, South, State.

UMBRELLAS with gay carved handles and bright silken tops are just the things for those discouraging gray days of Fall when rain is constantly threatening. $7.50 First Floor, South, State.

HANDBAGS follow the trend with smaller sizes, simpler shapes and details of finish, such as the smart tuckings on these purses of Morocco leather in brown, green and black. Several styles. $6.50 First Floor, South, State.

COMPACTS that are delightfully modern in their little silver-colored cases trimmed with black are also conveniently small—just the size for one's new purse. $1.50 First Floor, South, State.

HOSIERY, like gloves, because a definite accessory, discards its strong summertime shades for more subtle darker tones—among which taupe beiges are very important. $1.95 First Floor, North, State.

KEEP GAMBLING LID ON, SWANSON ORDERS POLICE

Prosecutor Says Condi- tions Are Much Better.

Aroused by a rumor that he had been "fixed" and that gambling houses were to be allowed to run openly in Cook county, State's Attorney Swanson yesterday called in five deputy commissioners of police and told them that gambling must not be allowed to crop out in their districts. "I told them to inform their police captains," said the prosecutor after the meeting, "that gambling as a business institution must be suppressed."

He said that there may have been some apparent laxity in certain parts of the city.

Not Much Gambling.
"But conditions have been vastly exaggerated," he declared. "And there is, in fact, little or no gambling. The commissioners agreed with me that this was the case. There may have been a few 'let-ups' but they are negligible and will be cleaned up as soon as possible."

Commissioners Attend Meeting.
Chief Investigator Patrick Roche communicated with Deputy Commissioner John H. Alcock and the latter immediately ordered the commission to attend the meeting with the state's attorney. Hearing reports that the Biltmore Social and Athletic club, a resort in the 2000 block on West Division street, was operating, Commissioner Alcock sent Lieut. Maurice J. Byrne to take command of the West North avenue station.

Lieut. Byrne was directed to supplant Lieut. John Buckley, acting captain of the district, and investigate the reports that the gambling place was operating at different addresses in the West Division street block.

SEEN TWO WITH ROGUS CHECKS.
With a suitcase full of spurious checks, James Turner and Ben Wilson of Oklahoma came to Chicago yesterday. They were arrested at 23d street and Westworth avenue on suspicion. They admitted that they had planned to pass the checks here, according to the police, and said they had passed checks amounting to $60,000 in Texas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

WITNESS AVERS WOOD SLEW IN SELF-DEFENSE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Harold Truax, investigator for the prosecutor's office, today testified he believes that Ralph A. Wood, wealthy real estate operator, shot at Ambrose L. Haggerty in self-defense and did not believe then and does not feel now that Wood double crossed state, county and city officers.

Wood is on trial with Cecil W. Holt and Herbert L. Sullivan, charged with the murder of Haggerty, who, the defense claims, was one of a party of gunmen hired by Wood's wife to slay her husband.

Lieut. John Whitman of the Detroit homicide squad testified that he fired two shots at Haggerty after hearing several shots he thought were fired by Haggerty. He stated Truax and Detective Sergeant Searle also fired. A book containing the combination to Wood's office safe was found in Haggerty's clothes after he was killed, Whitman testified.

Attacked by Bear, Canadian Shams Death, Saves Life

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Seriously wounded in an encounter with a bear, H. C. Hughes, mining superintendent, was here today after a 1,000 mile flight. He was brought back by Walter E. Gilbert, Western Canadian Airways pilot. Unarmed, Mr. Hughes was attacked by a grizzly while inspecting mining claims and lost one finger. Realizing his danger, he feigned death. The bear picked him up and threw him down, mauled him, and left him.

U. S., ENGLAND NEAR ACCORD ON NAVY REDUCTION

MacDonald's Visit May Clinch Agreement.

changes are made at a later date the agreement will permit the United States to complete virtually all, if not all, of the fifteen 8-inch, 10,000 ton cruisers authorized by the last congress in order to attain cruiser equality.

From a high authority it was learned that the American counter proposal sent last night made it clear that the United States would have to have more than twenty of the 8-inch gun 10,000 ton cruisers. It was indicated that the United States would build twenty-two cruisers of this type. Other cruisers of the American cruiser fleet would be 6-inch gun ships.

Great Britain, in her latest proposal for settling the knotty cruiser question, stated her willingness to cut her cruiser tonnage to a minimum of around 340,000 tons, contingent on this country's consenting to limit its 8 inch gun vessels to eighteen, building its other cruiser tonnage in 6 inch gun ships.

That the Hoover administration has answered this with the proposal that the United States have more than twenty of the 8 inch gun ships apparently represents a victory for the admirals of the navy general board and Rear Admiral Hillyar P. Jones, the President's naval advisor.

Build 6 Inch Gun Ships.

It is believed the United States has consented to build some tonnage in 6 inch gun ships and to allow Great Britain to have a somewhat larger tonnage in police cruisers.

If the tentative agreement finally reached officially follows the trend of the latest proposals and counter-proposals that have passed through the hands of Charles G. Dawes, the American ambassador to Great Britain, cruiser tonnage will be divided about as follows:

The United States will have twenty-one or twenty-two 8 inch gun ships, ten 6 inch gun ships, ten 6 inch gun ships, 2,500 ton vessels, and a small tonnage in other 6 inch gun vessels. The United States now has ten 6 inch gun ships in commission. Eight 10,000 ton cruisers will be completed within the next eighteen months and fifteen additional ships of this class are authorized.

If the United States built twenty-two 8 inch gun ships, these vessels with the ten smaller ships completed would bring her cruiser tonnage to 395,000 tons. One small additional ship would bring her total above 395,000.

British Seek 50 Cruisers.

Great Britain would have thirteen 8 inch 10,000 ton treaty cruisers, four 8 inch gun 3,300 ton cruisers, four Hawkins class 9,750 ton 7 1/2 inch gun vessels, and approximately thirty-one 4 inch gun 2,500 ton cruisers, four 2,500 ton vessels, and a small tonnage in other 6 inch gun vessels. It is probable the latest American counter proposal urges the replacement of the Hawkins class ships with 6 inch gun vessels and may have signified a willingness to allow Great Britain an additional 10,000 ton 8 inch gun vessel as a replacement.

Senate Committee Opens Shearer Inquiry Tomorrow

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Senatorial investigation of the activities of William B. Shearer, alleged paid propagandist for American ship building corporations at the Geneva naval arms limitation conference, got under way today with the appointment of a subcommittee of the naval affairs committee to conduct the inquiry.

The subcommittee, Senators S. M. Sherrill (Rep., Cal.), Henry J. Allen (Rep., Kas.), and Joe T. Robinson (Dem., Ark.), are to hold their first meeting Saturday morning to determine the course of the investigation and decide what witnesses, in addition to Shearer and officials of the Bethlehem Ship Building company, the American Brown Boveri corporation and the Newport News Ship Building and Drydock company, will be called.

Justice Department May Aid. Indications are that the subcommittee will be furnished with the results ment for some of the 6 inch gun tonnage.

Under such an arrangement as now is contemplated, Great Britain would have the largest number of ships and the largest tonnage. This country would have a preponderance of the vessels mounting 8 inch guns. The United States, theoretically, would have equality of naval strength because of her larger number of big gun ships despite Britain's tonnage advantage.

Might Cut Destroyer Fleet. No details regarding the submarine and destroyer tonnage discussed by Great Britain and the United States have been made public. It is assumed, however, that the United States will have to reduce her destroyer fleet of 337,000 tons by 100,000 tons. Most of the American ships are of war time construction.

As explained here no ships would be scrapped before they became obsolete. Great Britain, having the largest cruiser tonnage now, would enjoy a large advantage in numbers of ships and tonnage in this class at least until parity was reached probably in 1936. Great Britain now has 398,000 tons of cruisers under twenty years of age; the United States has 75,000 tons completed. The tonnage disparity would be made up gradually as Great Britain failed to replace certain ships as they became obsolete and the United States continued with her cruiser program. Under present plans the last of the American 8 inch gun cruisers would be completed in late 1934 or early in 1935. Several of the British cruisers will become obsolete in 1935 and 1936.

Advantage for U. S. The United States would have an advantage in numbers and tonnage of destroyers but not in modern ships of this type during the early years of the treaty.

Comparison of the present cruiser figures with those suggested for the projected treaty indicates the formal naval agreement will be as much a limitation as a reduction agreement. In reaching the present stage of the naval reduction negotiations, age tonnage and caliber of guns have been the three major factors taken in consideration in working out tentative figures for giving each national cruiser equality.

The so-called "yard stick" method of measuring the comparative values of fighting ships was not utilized as largely as had been anticipated. It was at first thought that all the factors that go into determining naval strength, such as guns, age, tonnage, armor, naval bases, etc., could be combined into one yard stick which could be applied to each ship to determine its combat strength.

Preparations for the entertainment of Premier MacDonald are under way, but have not been announced.

U. S. REPLY GIVEN

BY WAYERLY BOOT.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Washington's reply to the British proposals on the question of naval armaments reached here this evening. The contents of the note were presented to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald by Ambassador Dawes at 10 Downing street immediately. Within an hour an official announcement was made that the prime minister would sail for America on the Berengaria on Sept. 28.

In official circles here tonight there is considerable optimism in evidence regarding the prospect of an agreement with Washington on the naval disarmament question. It is understood that the information Gen. Dawes was able to give Mr. MacDonald revealed that the two governments are very near an accord. The margin of difference between the British and American view is declared to be so small that an agreement is regarded as practically in sight.

Although secrecy is still being adopted officially, it is believed that the only outstanding point of difference relates to three 8 inch gun cruisers. The British government's earlier proposal suggested 50 of these cruisers for Great Britain as against America's 18.

In some quarters here tonight it is thought the latest United States proposal will, if accepted, reduce the British quota of this class to only 12. Great Britain now has 13 of this type built or building, including two Australian cruisers, so one of the vessels would have to be scrapped.

Naperville Youth Sentenced for Slaying Sweetheart

Theodore Freeman, 24 years old, of Naperville, was sentenced to 35 years in Joliet penitentiary yesterday for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Margaret Weismantel. Freeman was convicted by a jury in the Du Page county circuit court at Wheaton last Sunday. In addition he was given a 14 year sentence for wounding Dean Perry, an automobile salesman, who was in an automobile with Miss Weismantel at the time she was slain.

14 ARRESTED FOR ANTI-COMMUNIST MOB IN CAROLINA

Will Be Given Hearing at Charlotte Today.

Gastonia, N. C., Sept. 12.—[AP.]—Solicitor John G. Carpenter announced tonight that the fourteen men named in the bench warrant issued today by Judge Thomas J. Shaw at Charlotte in connection with his investigation into the activities of an "anti-communist" mob in this section Monday night had been placed under arrest. Bond was set at $1,000 each.

Given Hearing Today. The fourteen, Carpenter said, are to be brought before Judge Shaw for a hearing tomorrow morning at Charlotte, at which the jurist will sit as a committing magistrate. The warrants were issued after Judge Shaw had questioned C. M. Lell and C. D. Saylor, two of the three men kidnapped by the mob. The third, Ben Wells, was unable to appear in the judge's private office today because of a fogging given him by a section of the crowd.

Among the fourteen arrested on the warrant were A. G. Morehead, W. M. Pickering and C. J. Jolley, Lory mill superintendents; A. J. Roach and C. A. Ferguson, Gastonia police officers and witnesses for the state in the trial of the 16 labor leaders and strikers charged with the murder of Police Chief O. F. Adershold; T. A. Gilbert Jr., Dewey Carver, Tom Carver, Smiley Lewis, John Holloway, Horace Lane, Oscar Goodman, Lee Johnson and Carl Holloway.

Take Seven at Charlotte. Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 12.—[AP.]—Seven men, including C. M. Lell, one of the three men abducted by an anti-communist mob in Gastonia Monday night, were arrested here tonight in a raid on a house in the city.

Fat Man Walks Ten Miles

I don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles.

If you will take one-half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning for 30 days—

You will feel so good—so energetic and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

Why will Kruschen Salts make this great change for the better in me?—It is natural for you to ask.

Because Kruschen is a blend of the 6 vitalizing salts Nature says your body must have to keep every organ, gland and nerve in the body buoyantly healthy. While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one 8 oz. bottle of Kruschen Salts. It will last you 30 days. After you have taken one bottle the old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work and active recreation and you'll sleep like a top.

You'll lose fat and probably five years longer. Get Kruschen at any live drug-gist's in America.

night, were arrested here tonight in a Charlotte residence, and three pump guns, two shot guns and 500 shells seized by police.

Officials said no charges had been placed against the men. They were being held in the county jail.

The men were arrested after police said they had entered the dwelling to search for liquor.

Those arrested were: Dewey Martin, organizer for the National Textile Workers union; George Saul, local organizer for the same organization; John Gibson, Etley Ritch, Taylor Shylie, Paul Sheppard and Lell. Martin and Saul had returned from a communist meeting in North Carolina when they were seized. Both had taken an active part, Saul presiding and Martin speaking.

NEW YORK MILK RACKET IS BARED BY HEALTH HEAD

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—What he termed "tangible evidence" that a "protective association" had extorted more than $500,000 from New York milk dealers in less than a year was turned over by Health Commissioner Shirley W. Wynne today to District Attorney Jacob Banton.

Mr. Banton announced that an investigation will be started at once. His evidence, Dr. Wynne revealed, was gathered during an inquiry begun last October. The documents and letters obtained, the commissioner said, show that the organization "has been extorting from two to five cents on each quart can of milk" handled by the dealers forced to join its membership.

Officials say the latest "racket" in the milk industry is a revival in another form of the grafting scheme which resulted in the 1926 milk scandal and sent Thomas Clougher, secretary to a former health commissioner, to the penitentiary.

THREE-CARNIVAL MEN QUIZZED IN BROWN MURDER

Police Believe Tangible Clue at Hand.

Three carnival men, arrested at Gary last night, were being held at the detective bureau for questioning on the murder of Charles S. Brown, political roystabour and himself a carnival promoter, who was shot four times in the head Wednesday night and thrown from an automobile at 44th street and Lowe avenue.

Police believed that with their arrest they had found a tangible clue to Brown's slayers. The three men held are John Tuffell, operator of a merry-go-round and ferris wheel; Frank Adams, 75 East 18th street, operator of gambling wheels; and Edward Mathias of the Sheridan Plaza hotel, business agent for the carnival.

Worked with Slain Man.

They told Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburn that they had seen Brown last on Sunday night when they closed a carnival which they had been conducting for an Italian society on Oak street, near Larrae avenue. Brown, they said, had a commission at the carnival and police believed that his dealings with the sponsors may have been the cause of his death.

Several witnesses said that Brown boasted openly to them that he controlled the carnival racket, and that no permit to run them could be obtained except through him.

A letter found on Brown's body indicated he was a precinct captain in the organization of Alvin Karpis, known as the 43d ward. Ward politics in the 43d, together with concessions reported extended to certain influences in the ward, have resulted in three murders in the ward in the last month. However, it was stated by leaders of the Karpis organization that Brown was not and never had been a precinct captain, and that his only connection with the political work in the ward was for a short time during the last aldermanic election. Brown's brother, residing at the inquest, opened by Deputy Coroner Dennis Carroll, that Brown had stated he was a Crowe precinct captain, but the victim's father, a shoe merchant, quoted his son as saying he worked for a precinct captain in the organization.

Political Motive in Doubt.

Deputy Stege was inclined, he said, to separate Brown's murder from any connection with the political warfare in the 43d ward.

The carnival racket provided a more direct motive, Deputy Stege said. "For many months a number of groups of carnival promoters have been staging their shows around the Chicago territory. Organizations such as churches, the American Legion, business men's associations, have been duped into sponsoring the carnivals by promises of handsome profits for their own use.

Gambling devices, such as paddle wheels, ring games, and dice throwing for prizes have formed a principal part of the entertainment at these carnivals, along with a merry go round, a ferris wheel, and a few other amusement park stunts. Most of the gambling devices were fixed so that the "suckers" who played them had no chance to win. The racket had been reaping a rich harvest, and Brown, according to the witnesses, claimed control over it.

Assistant State's Attorney Benjamin Feldman and Pat Roche, chief investigator, revealed yesterday that Brown has visited Feldman several times, requesting that raids be made on crooked carnivals. These, it is now believed, were the carnivals operated by his competitors. Mr. Feldman said Brown insisted that his own carnivals were honestly operated without any violations of the law.

Police Raid Competitors.

As the result of Brown's information, raids were made by the state's attorney's office and the police on three carnivals operated within the last several months at Sangamon and West 79th streets, Western avenue and West 63d street, and Halsted and West 123d streets, Blue Island. The backers and operators of these carnivals, some of whom were arrested at the time of the raids, were those sought last night on the orders of Stege and Ditchburne.

Woman Says Brown Betrothed.

Miss Nora Hurd, who was taken into custody in her home at 8750 96th field avenue after her telephone call to Brown's room at the Knickerbocker hotel had been traced, declared she and Brown had intended to marry. She admitted that Brown had boasted of his political powers and of his control of the carnival racket. Brown's pockets also yielded a courtesy card issued by Sheriff John E. Traeger.

USES BLANK PAY CHECKS AND CAB IN SHOPPING ORGY

Thomas Butler, 29 years old, 7325 Lowe avenue, hired a taxicab at 16th street and Wabash avenue at 6 o'clock yesterday evening to take him on a shopping tour. Three hours later after he had loaded the taxicab with a paint brush, a gallon of paint, a baby Zeppelin, a pound of tea, an automobile tire, two shirts, a thermos bottle and a toilet seat, all purchased at different stores, the chauffeur, Bernard Paryz, 3533 North Linder avenue, began to grow suspicious.

While Butler was in a store making another purchase, Paryz called a pedestrian and asked him to call the Deering police station. Before the police arrived, Butler had reentered the cab and gone on, but at 37th and Halsted streets, Policeman Thomas McFarland, who had been instructed to watch for the cab, spotted it and took Paryz and Butler to the station.

There Butler confessed that he had stolen a number of blank pay roll checks from the Spiegel-May-Stern furniture store at 1041 West 35th street, and had been filling them out and cashing them as he made his purchases on his shopping tour. He had $50 in his pocket when he was arrested and owed Paryz a taxi bill of $8.50.

Few men really know how to fold a suit so that it won't wrinkle—and most men will never learn unless a woman teaches them. So they go on cramming suits into bags that are already jammed 'way too full—and go on hoping for the best.

The collar of a suit suffers most from this kind of treatment—but it won't be permanently disfigured if it is carefully made.

The collar of the Madison is hand-sewn and tailored with infinite care by experts. It will keep its smooth finish and trim appearance after a pressing—without getting thick or bulky.

DECORATOR SERVICE WITHOUT CHARGE

20 HOUR SERVICE TO PACIFIC BY AIR TO START SOON

New Line Later May Be Extended East.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Twenty hour airplane passenger service between Chicago and San Francisco will be inaugurated next month. Announcement of plans for the new service was made yesterday by K. K. Knickerbocker, Chicago manager of the Boeing system, on the arrival here of the first of the fleet new Boeing trimotored 18 passenger air liners which will be used in the service.

The Chicago-San Francisco passenger service is the first and largest unit in an all airplane coast to coast service planned by United Aircraft and Transport corporation, of which the Boeing system is a subsidiary. It will be the first all plane service between the great lakes and the Pacific coast and the first American air line to fly passengers at night.

Will Change Planes Once.
According to the tentative schedule, passengers will leave Chicago at 8 a. m. and arrive at San Francisco at 4:30 a. m., Pacific time, the following morning. East bound the planes will leave the Oakland airport, across the bay from San Francisco, at 5 p. m. and arrive here at 8 p. m. the following evening. In operating the Chicago-San Francisco line the Boeing company will fly one transport in each direction between Cheyenne and San Francisco and between Chicago and Cheyenne, thus necessitating only one change for passengers on the 2,000 mile flight.

As Chicago the transports will connect with trimotored planes of the Stout Air Lines, operating between Chicago and Detroit and Detroit and Cleveland. A future hookup may be made with air lines to New York, Boston, and Montreal, which would provide coast to coast service exclusively by air.

Pilot Harry Huking flew the flagship of the Boeing fleet here yesterday from Detroit. Later the plane was flown to Milwaukee by Huking and Lieut. Erik Nelson, round the world flyer and Boeing official, for propeller tests. Today it will fly on to the coast. Four of the new transports are due to be delivered here on Sept. 15, to start preliminary flights over the Chicago-Cheyenne run.

Sleeps in Reclining Chairs.

The cabin of the new transport is arranged in two compartments capable of carrying 18 passengers, two pilots, a steward and baggage. It is designed that six seats may be removed from one compartment, permitting accommodations for a large mail load and 13 passengers. The planes have been flown for three months at night between San Francisco and Salt Lake City, 640 miles over the mountains, to determine the feasibility of night flying with passengers. Passengers will sleep at night in reclining chairs. Boeing officials believe that the experiment will lead to air sleepers for night flying passengers over the route.

Aviation Notes

National Air Transport planes completed 242 trips of 248 scheduled during the month of August, according to E. P. Lott, N. A. T. manager of operations. This is a performance of 88 per cent for both the New York-Chicago and Chicago-Dallas lines. There was one mechanical forced landing by N. A. T. planes out of a total of 256,228 miles flown in August. N. A. T. carried 205,134 pounds of mail over its lines last month, breaking all previous records.

K. K. Knickerbocker, Chicago representative of the Boeing system, yesterday reported that weather observers are conducting surveys on the Omaha-Cheyenne division of the transcontinental route to determine strategic points for detecting weather changes affecting operations on the Chicago-San Francisco line.

Night courses in aviation will be offered at Fenger High school, 112th and Wallace streets, this fall. Instruction in engine overhauling, aerodynamics and structural design will be conducted by J. A. La Point and J. J. Sykes.

A five months old baby was a passenger on the Northwest airways plane from Chicago to St. Paul yesterday. The child made the flight with its mother, Mrs. Walter Hayes of Rochester, Minn.

Bettis field at Pittsburgh, the port of call for most of the airplanes flying over the Allegheny mountains, has been purchased by the Curtiss Airports corporation and will be improved as a flying service and transport base. Control of air traffic at the field will be regulated from the tower of a new terminal building.

The Joliet park board yesterday voted to set aside 150 acres of land four miles west of the city for airport purposes. The site will be improved.

by three Pratt & Whitney Hornet motors, giving a total of 1,875 horsepower. The cruising speed is 120 miles per hour. The upper wing is 40 feet long and the lower wing 15 feet shorter. The plane is 45 feet long and 16 feet high. The cabin itself is 19 feet long, 7 feet high and 5-1/2 feet wide. It is finished in mahogany and equipped with upholstered walnut chairs. Like a Pullman, it has an ice water fountain, and hot and cold running water.

The planes are equipped with radio-phones enabling pilots to talk from an altitude of 12,000 feet to ground stations 200 miles distant.

'TIN' DIRIGIBLE HIT BY BULLETS IN TRIP TO EAST

Arrives at Lakehurst, 2 Holes in Gas Tank.

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—The navy's new all metal dirigible, the ZMC-3, arrived at the air station here from Detroit today with two bullet holes in her main helium gas tank. Workmen were immediately set busy plugging up the holes in an effort to save the expensive gas.

Just how the new airship received her "wound" is a mystery. Capt.

William Kepner, who was in command of the craft on her trip from Detroit, said, after an examination of the holes, that he believed the bullets had been fired while the ship was crossing a mountain, perhaps in Pennsylvania.

Although it is not exactly pleasant to know you've been fired at, Capt. Kepner expressed no concern, in view of the fact that the occurrence is not at all unusual. The Los Angeles has been fired at several times and the Graf Zeppelin arrived at Lakehurst after the globe circling trip with a bullet lodged in its fabric.

The ZMC-3 was taken into the hangar and parked on the south side. The Los Angeles was due to return to Lakehurst late tonight from Newport and will take up a position on the north side.

A group of navy men were on the field awaiting the arrival of the ship. Some years ago both the army and navy turned down the idea of a metal dirigible as impractical.

The ship is the length of the non-rigid blimps stationed at Lakehurst, but it has greater girth and eight fins instead of the usual four. Shining brightly in the sun, it looks like a tin-smith's fantasy. The ship traveled the 550 miles from Detroit at an average speed of 40 miles an hour.

CUSACK ESTATE FIGHT TAKEN TO SUPREME COURT

The decision of the Appellate court awarding Harold Cusack, nephew and adopted son of the late Thomas Cusack, head of the billboard advertising company which bore his name, a $146,177 claim against the estate, was appealed to the Supreme court yesterday by Cusack's five sons and daughters. The Appellate court in May overruled Superior Judge Hebel who denied Harold's suit for an accounting against his foster brothers and sisters.

The suit was filed to recover Harold

Cusack's share of the family's holdings in the advertising company when it was sold in 1924 for $3,349,277. The sale of the stock was made at the order of Thomas Cusack, who collected shares which he had previously distributed to the children. The elder Cusack held the proceeds in trust.

The foster son alleged that he received only a portion of the value of his share of the stock and that he was forced to turn the remainder over to the five children because of his foster father's dominance in family affairs. Harold was not a beneficiary under Cusack's will. The Appellate court held that Cusack & Co. was a faithless trustee and his children were co-conspirators of their father's unfaithfulness.

N.Y. BOOTLEGGERS GIVEN A PAIN BY VISITING JUDGES

California Jurist Padlocks
Three Night Clubs.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—With three visiting federal judges in town the football season has officially opened so far as the speakeasy fraternity is concerned and some of the drink shops are going to have to keep open after curfew hours in order to pay their fines.

Judge Halseed L. Ritter, former Colorado Anti-Saloon league counsel who came here from Florida, is frank in his determination to "do as good a job as I can in a month."

Judge Paul J. McCormick of California got in a couple of days late, but already is two up on his Miami associate.

Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson of Texas is the third member of the out-of-town trio.

Assigned for Vacation Period.

The three jurists are here for the vacation period, the first two named giving a Brooklyn judge and a Manhattan judge a few weeks at the shore, and a lot of liquor makers and dealers a severe pain. Judge Hutcheson is sitting in the civil division, and has had little to do or say with local prohibition enforcement.

Today's honors go to Judge Ritter. He taught a Brooklyn lawyer to "punch the clock" when dealing with a United States court. Edward J. Reilly had a case that concerned the sisters Kate and Susan Didonna and a collar full of wine.

Attorney Reilly also had another case in another court to which he attached more importance for reasons not disclosed. So, when Judge Ritter called Mr. Reilly's case today, Mr. Reilly was engaged elsewhere.

There was considerable delay and Judge Ritter is not tolerant of tardiness. Reilly appeared, considerably winded, after Judge Ritter had frittered away an hour.

"This is a federal court," barked the Florida judge, "and it comes first. You should have been here when the case was set. I fine you $10."

Reilly paid the fine under protest and the mill of justice began to grind at last.

Scalps Three Night Clubs.

Judge McCormick is concerned mostly with padlock proceedings. The gentleman from the grape juice state already has three night clubs scalps to his credit. The Club Inspiration, the Half-Past-Nine club and the Concerta Del Guidice place on Mulberry street will be dark for the next year and their owners will be compelled to forego bartering in strong or light drink for the same period or forfeit a $1,000 bond.

The Texas judge is the only one of the three to speak a good word for New York juries, and he is in the civil section. Judge Hutcheson was up here last year and has had considerable experience with local juries.

"I have been favorably impressed," he said, "by the conscientiousness of the New York juries in my service on the federal bench here. Some have said it is impossible to get convictions under certain laws. I have found the New York jurors take their tasks just as seriously as those of other states. They are more concerned with doing justice than they are with points of law."

Judge Hutcheson and Judge McCormick are advisers to the federal crime commission and are devoting a part of their time here to that work.

Boy, 18, Hired as Dry Law Informer; Judge Wrathful.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 12.—[U. P.]—Employment of an 18 year old schoolboy by federal prohibition agents as a dry informer brought the caustic comment from Federal Judge Harry E. Anderson today that "it is a disgrace, a crime, and ought to be stopped." Hadley Strange, the youth, had testified at the trial of two alleged liquor law violators that all summer long he had bought whisky on "assignment."

Stops to Pet Horse; Run Over and Seriously Hurt.

William Brown, 55 years old, a blacksmith of 6439 Evans avenue, paused in front of his home yesterday to pet a horse owned by the Bowman Dairy company. Brown collapsed suddenly and fell beneath the wagon, and the horse, startled by the man's fall, bolted, dragging the wagon over Brown's body. He was taken to the county hospital where he may die of his injuries.

TO GET FACE VALUE—USE PEBECO

The sparkle of beautiful teeth that we envy so much is more than the outward gleam of physical health and happiness. It is the visible reflection of tooth comfort, of the absence of "acid-mouth." When Pebeco is used, the teeth not only are kept clean and white, but "acid-mouth" (creator of tooth decay) is checked. You certainly should use Pebeco—Adm.

Dixie Wants Judicial "Pork" if North Gets More Judges

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Southern politicians, always keenly alert for judicial "pork," are looking forward hopefully to the annual meeting of the senior federal circuit judges just before the United States Supreme court's fall term opens early in October.

They expect recommendations for creation of additional judgeships to relieve congestion in northern federal districts and, as in the past, the necessary legislation probably will be blocked until a new judgeship is written in for some southern state which already appears oversupplied with judges if the population of its federal districts and the business handled by its federal courts be compared with conditions in northern states.

New York Assignments Agreeable.

During the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1928, when federal district courts in many northern states were swamped with litigation, and conditions in many districts, particularly New York, approached demoralization, ten southern federal judges found so little to do in their own districts they were able to close their courts and accept temporary assignments to sit in northern districts.

The assignments are much sought after by southern judges and those selected, usually because of their reputations as bone drys, escape the frequently almost unbearable summer heat of their home districts, receive substantial expense allowances for the "vacation" assignment, and achieve national fame because of the severity of sentences imposed in prohibition cases which form the bulk of the dockets there.

An attempt to remedy what Chief Justice Taft of the United States Supreme court, described to the attorney general as the "well nigh intolerable conditions" which existed in the southern and eastern federal districts of New York during 1928 was blocked single handedly for almost an entire session of congress by Senator Cole Blaise [Dem., S. C.].

As soon as the recommendation of the senior circuit judges for the creation of five new judgeships in the two districts was submitted to congress in the form of legislation, the South Carolina senator demanded the inclusion of another judge for his state.

When the demand was refused, Senator Blaise served notice that until it was complied with he would object to consideration of the judgeship bill by the senate and he persisted in blocking the bill until late in the session, when, in order to secure the badly needed judges for the New York districts, his colleagues agreed to give South Carolina another judge.

How Work Compares.

Thus South Carolina, with a population, according to the 1920 census, of 1,664,000, now has three federal judges.

Prior to the appointment of the third judge, according to the last annual report of the attorney general, the two judges then sitting in South Carolina, disposed of a total of 856 cases of all kinds including civil cases, criminal prosecutions and private litigation during the fiscal year 1928.

During the same period 12 federal district judges in New York cleared their dockets of a total of 33,214 cases; five judges in Michigan disposed of a total of 3,214 cases; six in Illinois disposed of 4,757 cases, and eight in Pennsylvania disposed of 5,707 cases.

Another Gangster Found Murdered in New York

New York (Friday), Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Early today, for the third time in two weeks, the body of a murdered gangster was found slumped in a parked automobile. Circumstances in the case of the murdered man correspond in almost every particular with those of the previous murders. In each case it was evident that the murder had not been committed in the territory in which the body was found, but that it had been brought there and abandoned with the car used in the "murder ride."

Political Prisoners in Poland Revolt; 24 Slain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Sept. 12.—A revolt of Ukrainian political prisoners held in the Jitomir prison is reported in the Polish newspapers. Two hundred prisoners who were exercising in the courtyard turned upon the guards and killed six. A detachment of the Ukrainian cheka surrounded the prison and in the battle which followed 18 prisoners were killed.

OLD DOC CARTER GONE, SO JUDGE CAN'T JAIL HIM

Quack Missing as Case Comes Up in Court.

Is Old Doc Franklin O. Carter now wielding his scalpel in England? Is he in Montreal or perhaps in Toronto, operating on perfectly good eyes? Or is he practicing surreptitiously in Milwaukee hotel rooms, or still hiding out in Chicago?

These were questions that Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude was asking himself yesterday when he had started to investigate what has become of Old Doc Carter with a view to issuing an order committing him to six months in the house of correction and collecting a $500 fine.

Appeals Jail Sentence.

Old Doc Carter was convicted by a jury in Judge Trude's court about four months ago, but when Judge Trude sentenced and fined him, his attorney, Ray E. Lane, said he would take the case to the Illinois Supreme court, and the old doc put up a $5,000 "stay" bond.

The attorney then tried to take Old Doc Carter's case to the state Supreme court and again to the Appellate court but both the upper courts refused to review it, saying there was no question on which they might pass.

Judge Trude was notified of the court's decisions and at once called upon the lawyer to surrender the prisoner. The lawyer said he could not do it and Judge Trude issued a bench warrant for Old Doc Carter.

Lieut. Benjamin McCarthy, assigned by Commissioner Russell to Judge

Trude's court, yesterday learned that Policemen Johnson and McKenna were given the warrant and that they watched for Old Doc Carter constantly around his old office at 177 North State street, but that he never showed himself there from the day he failed to appear in court.

Attorneys Tell Stories.

From attorneys who have represented the bluff old quack came various stories concerning his whereabouts, when yesterday Attorney Lane appeared in Judge Donald H. McKinlay's court in the latest another case of practicing medicine without a license was coming up there.

"Why, I haven't got the case on my docket!" exclaimed Judge McKinlay. Attorney Lane moved to dismiss the case.

"No," said the court, "if he is ever found he'll have to face this charge. I remember this case was specially assigned to me originally by the chief justice. It seems to be 'lost' in the shuffle now. But I'm going to find out what became of it and keep it alive."

DANCER DEFIES LONDON COURT; LANDS IN JAIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Henrietta Fuller, dancer, who advertised herself as Lole Fuller, and her dancing company as the successor of the ballet of the late Lole Fuller, is viewing life from behind prison bars tonight.

A month ago a court injunction restrained Henrietta from using the name of Fuller without distinguishing it from the ballet of the late Lole Fuller, whose school of dancing passed to Gabrielle Bloch. She continued her dancing in the winter garden at Blackpool under the name of "Lole Fuller and her ballet."

When the judge found that his injunction had been disobeyed he ordered Henrietta into court for contempt. Since the regular court does not meet until next Wednesday, she was escorted to Holloway jail.

THROWS 'LEGION CARD' RUM RAID OUT OF COURT

U. S. Commissioner Frees Kenosha Defendant.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 12.—(Special.)—Edward L. "Legion Card" Evans, federal prohibition agent now under fire of the American Legion for employing credentials of that organization in the promotion of liquor law violations and raids, came to grief today before United States Court Commissioner Harry L. Kellogg.

Evidence gathered by Evans during the recent state convention of the American Legion in Kenosha was declared by Mr. Kellogg to be insufficient to hold Carl Wallig, 22, a saloon keeper, to the grand jury. He was released.

Wallig testified that Evans and Taylor Gray, another dry agent, entered his saloon while a group of members of the "Forty and Eight" branch of the Legion were holding a party and indulging in drinks brought in by themselves.

Contribute to Liquor Buy. The party was in progress when Wallig entered his place just a few moments before the agents, and he learned that the liquor had been purchased by the Legionnaires with a check, he said.

Unsuccessful in their efforts to purchase liquor from Wallig, Evans and Gray deposited their contribution to the jackpot on the bar and then mingled with the group.

Suspensions of several persons in the place were aroused and Evans and Gray were accused of being dry agents, the testimony showed.

The accusation was said to have evoked the following remark from Taylor: "Don't call us anything as low as a dry agent."

Then Evans, according to Wallig, drew out his American Legion membership card to prove that he was O. K. "That's a fine way to treat visiting Legionnaires," he said.

Shows Credentials. Chester Iserman, Kenosha, testified that Evans had displayed to Wallig a blue card resembling a membership certificate in the Legion. He corroborated Wallig's testimony that a private party was being held and that Wallig received no money for the liquor.

Disposition of the case was seized upon by Legionnaires here to add impetus to the movement begun by Milwaukee county posts to lay before the

THREE ADMIT MURDER IN PLEADING GUILTY TO ROBBERY OF BANK

Lamar, Colo., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Pleading guilty to first degree murder, bank robbery and kidnapping, three members of the gang that held up the First National bank here in May, 1923, today threw themselves upon the mercy of the court. Their trial was set for Oct. 1. Under Colorado law the jury or judge must assess the penalty, death not being compulsory.

Ralph Fleagle, George J. Absher, and Howard Royston were the prisoners who entered the pleas. They were arrested as a result of a nationwide search. One of their gang, Jake Fleagle, still is at large. Four men were killed in connection with the holdup in which the robbers stole $100,000 and kidnapped three men, two of whom later were put to death.

coming national convention in Louisville, Ky., the question of regulating the use of Legion credentials.

Dr. Erwin C. Carey, Rockville, Wis., a sixth district delegate to the national meeting and a former state department officer, in a statement to The Tribune today declared:

"I do not believe that we should permit as members, or that any one is fit to belong to the American Legion, who would stoop so low as to use his membership card or Legion button to serve or further his own business affairs, be he prohibition officer or otherwise."

For "Law and Order." "The American Legion is for law and order and for upholding of the constitution of the United States, but not in the sense that would permit a member of the organization to use the Legion credentials as subterfuge."

"Those of us who have become 'convention hounds' know that at all state and national conventions, regardless of party affiliations or nature of convention, the national prohibition law constantly and notoriously is violated."

Men have been selected whose sworn duty it is to watch such violation, and no such officer would be true to his oath, be he Legion man or not, if he failed to do so. But he should not make use of the Legion membership card or button to further that end."

Violates Constitution. "For truly, if he does, as it appears some overzealous ones did at our recent convention, then he violates that part of our preamble which says: 'To consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by devotion to mutual helpfulness.'"

"Any one of that type would not be the kind of man we would want in our membership and therefore I am with the rest of the delegates who will ask the Louisville convention to legislate them out of our organization."

PEACE SPURNED, TROLLEY STRIKE TAKES NEW WIND

New Orleans Union Fears Loss of Jobs.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The New Orleans street car strike took its second wind today and entered the tenth week, while officials sought to piece together the loose ends of the settlement controversy.

The striking conductors and motormen rejected by a vote of 1,009 to 57 the settlement agreement drafted by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and A. B. Person, vice president of the New Orleans public service, at a conference in New York. The agreement also was approved by W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees.

At Indianapolis Mr. Green said the rejection of the agreement was due to a "misunderstanding" and from Seattle came word that Mr. Mahon regarded the negative vote of the carmen as a "serious mistake" and that he would seek to have the vote reconsidered.

Local union officials asserted that neither Mr. Green nor Mr. Mahon had the true facts of the local situation, which was aggravated by the refusal of public service officials to give the union any assurances that the strikers would be taken back to work.

Locally the actual strike temporarily was lost sight of today when Acting Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley demanded an investigation of the throwing of tear gas bombs by police and deputy marshals last night when a crowd had gathered around a dynamited car.

Police Superintendent Theodore Ray told the commissioner council that he would conduct an inquiry and that he had directed the police not to use the tear bombs except to break up riotous crowds.

Violates Constitution. "For truly, if he does, as it appears some overzealous ones did at our recent convention, then he violates that part of our preamble which says: 'To consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by devotion to mutual helpfulness.'"

"Any one of that type would not be the kind of man we would want in our membership and therefore I am with the rest of the delegates who will ask the Louisville convention to legislate them out of our organization."

WAR IS OUTLAWED.

Perhaps this is not war we are reading about in multiplying dispatches from China and Manchuria. But the Chinese at least must think it looks something like it. The latest report is that the city of Pongranichin, last Manchurian station on the Siberian Eastern railway, is reduced to ashes by Russian forces and that the Chinese troops have retreated from the border forty miles and are establishing a new line of defense. Manchouli and Dalai Nor, Manchurian cities, have been subjected to intensive treatment by the Russian artillery and engagements between soviet and Chinese gunboats are taking place on the Amur.

Meanwhile negotiations between Moscow and Nanking, or, to apply the terms of the Kellogg-Briand treaty outlawing war, "pacific means" for the settlement or solution of disputes, seem to be in the diplomatic doldrums. Soviet Russia, possessing one of the two largest and most formidable armies in the world, has invaded Chinese territory thirty miles and, if acts mean anything, proposes to hold the Chinese Eastern railway by armed force. It is the first important instance in which the soviet government has thrown off the mask of hypocritical regard for weaker nations and made open and flagrant use of its great army as an instrument of imperialism policy.

Moscow will try to cover this violence in its widespread propaganda in Asia by assertions that the Chinese goldfish bit it, or more concretely that the Nanking government is merely an instrument of European and Japanese imperialism and counter revolutionary capitalism. How far this will impress the nationalist extremists in Asiatic countries other than China who have been under Russian influence remains to be seen, but in China it is to be hoped the communist propaganda will be completely quenched by the Russian invasion and the Nanking government given the united support of the Chinese people and leaders. Undoubtedly Moscow hopes that a successful war in Manchuria will break the anti-bolshevik party in China and bring the moderate regime down in ruin. With the Chinese Eastern railway in their possession and the Nanking government replaced by Chinese politicians favorable to Russia, the attack upon China, even though it should result in considerable weakening of Russian mischievous making in India and elsewhere, might be considered well worth the price.

Meanwhile, the rest of the civilized world may draw some useful conclusions. Its people and governments will have before them a demonstration that the soviet foreign policy is identical in objects and methods and morale with the most ruthless foreign policy of czarist Russia. They will, if they are wise, face the fact that the communist dictatorship is in possession of a very powerful instrument of force, a huge, disciplined and equipped modern army, and will use it without scruple if and when it dares. They will also weigh the value of the Kellogg-Briand treaty outlawing war and of the league of nations as a conservator of peace and a defender of the weak against the willful force of the strong.

SAFETY AND PROFITS AT SEA.

In the instructions given by the owners of the Vestris to their captain is the following significant paragraph: "In case of a serious disaster happening to a vessel of this line the master must, in the first instance carefully consider the actual amount of peril there may be for the lives in his care and then judge whether he is justified in not fighting his own way to the nearest port unaided. His ability to succeed in this will always be considered as a matter of high recommendation for him as a master."

The court of inquiry into the Vestris disaster found "this part of the instructions highly undesirable"—and no wonder! It is obviously an invitation to take chances. The effect of the direction that the master "must in the first instance carefully consider the actual amount of peril" is to impose upon him a restraint against acting promptly and decisively in favor of safety. He must "carefully consider." He must carefully consider the "actual amount of peril." In short, he must weigh and ponder factors which may be very difficult to assay. And then he must judge, not whether he is justified in trying to get to port unaided, but "whether he is justified in not fighting his own way to port unaided."

The whole emphasis and implication of these carefully worded instructions is on the side of trying to get to port unaided, and this is driven home by the explicit assurance that if he contrives to do this it will be "considered as a high recommendation." No wonder the master of the Vestris delayed sending for aid.

We do not know whether these instructions were an egregious expression of the desire of ship owners to avoid the heavy expense of salvage, but they certainly suggest the propriety of an investigation to ascertain whether other owners are as frank. We cannot expect owners to find sacrifice of property or incurring of heavy expense pleasant. They are in business for profit, and in a general sense they naturally do not wish their agents to be too hasty in abandoning ships or resorting to aid. But there is no doubt that, though no such explicit intimations of their feeling as the Vestris owners permitted themselves may be given in most companies, all masters know that if they are to stand well with employers they must not be too ready to resolve doubts at the expense of their owners' profits.

This being in the nature of things and in itself probably inevitable, it becomes the duty of such public agencies as exist for the protection of the public to offset the tendency by strict instructions to owners and masters to regard safety as a paramount consideration, to resolve doubts in its favor, and not engage in moments of peril in a debate with themselves as to the chances of "fighting" the elements unaided.

The whole tragedy of the Vestris revealed a slack morale and a general failure on the part of all concerned, owners, officers of the ship, and American government inspectors, to take their trusteeship for human life seriously. It was a pitiful and a sinister exhibition.

By reason of thirty-five continuances granted by the Municipal courts a tenement hotel is operating seventeen months after the city fire prevention bureau started suit to compel the owner to reduce fire hazard of his property. Israel Warshawsky, a son-in-law of the notorious Morris Eller, is the owner of the Alhambra hotel. Division Fire Marshal Egan, in charge of the fire prevention bureau, says that the one hundred and fifty tenants would have small chance of escape from fire and that a dozen firemen might be killed. Rubbish in the basement, automobiles with tanks of gasoline on the first floor, automobile chains and other heavy material causing the fourth and fifth floors to sag, corridors communicating with bricked up windows and fire escapes with an inside elevator shaft are some of the conditions described by Fire Prevention Engineer Prindiville.

The Municipal courts are to blame for the perpetuation of Warshawsky's dilapidated property not because the judges granted continuances but because they granted too many continuances. There is nothing suspect in one continuance or two or three of any reasonable number so understood by those familiar with court procedure. The continuance has a useful and legitimate function. It gives the judge a discretionary power, which, critically and conscientiously used, produces sufficient elasticity to permit court procedure to conform with individual circumstances. But the abuse of the continuance is destructive of society's defenses. In the Warshawsky suit the continuance has been abused and the courts are suspect of being overreached by the defendant, of carelessness, indifference, or graver delinquencies.

If the court were jealous of its reputation, the judges would have disposed of the Warshawsky suit with more care than they would litigation involving a person without political influence. Further continuances cannot now be justified on the ground of carelessness or indifference.

TARIFF EQUALITY.

The spokesman for the American Farm Bureau federation in Washington is complaining that the farmers' interests have not been given adequate consideration in the tariff bill pending in the senate. He argues that industry has been given a more generous protection than farming. The average ad valorem duty on farm products would be 32 per cent while that on industrial products would be 43 per cent if the bill passed in its present form, he says.

These figures are disputed by the Republican members of the senate's finance committee, but whether they are correct or not, the issue appears to us to be irrelevant. The farmers want adequate tariff protection and are entitled to it, but the measure of adequacy is not the protection accorded to others but the needs of agriculture. The tariff ought to equalize the cost of production in this country and countries where production costs are lower than they are in the United States. On some commodities the spread is large; on others it is small. The farmers, we believe, are justified in asking higher duties on numerous commodities than the senate bill has granted, but they are not likely to gain their point as long as they dissipate their time and energy dreaming about equality. Medicine which is good for a fever will not help a patient suffering from stomach ache. If the theory of tariff equality were carried to its logical conclusion, congress would have to pass a bill establishing precisely the same duties on all commodities, regardless of their nature.

Realistic industrial leaders do not waste time asking for duties which equal the duties given some one else in a different line of business. They show that their goods face a certain sort of foreign competition and that they cannot do business without a compensating measure of protection. On that basis most of them seem to get what they go after. The same common sense approach will serve the farmers, and unless they employ it they are not likely to get what they are plainly entitled to.

Editorial of the Day

HIDE TO YOUR RUBBISH.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

In far-off days some housewife felt a foolish annoyance at observing that the washday and the cleanest arrived in comical cars while they themselves had not advanced beyond a flivver. All that is of the past, now, and we are accustomed to the grace with which the good charwoman manipulates her town car, to the promptitude-superior to any doctor's—with which the lawn and furnace specialists cover their rounds by motor. Their clients gain through their elegant and rapid transit, and no one will be surprised when the washday steps from her autozyg into the backyard, neatly avoiding the clothesline. Such strivings are proper to industrious citizens. But who would have thought...

The street scavengers of New York seem pitiable—sometimes, possibly, by design. They are old men and women who trudge the sidewalks with sacks on their backs, investigating eagerly that various rubbish and refuse with which, according to the remarkable local custom, New Yorkers at noon and even toward the fronts of their homes. They poke and peer, drawing forth now a bit of stale bread, now a broken down shoe or a ghastly hat. Gradually they fill their packs with nothing and disappear—into what life one sad day. In Wilmington, Del., however, their methods are more modern and cheerily different.

There, we hear, they have discarded burly bags and also the little express wagons which they used to trundle as things improved. They make their rounds of the city rubbish in automobiles, now! One hopes that they are never fined for speeding when driving home from business after a strenuous day.

How to Keep Well

To the limit of space questions pertinent to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries under proper limitations, when returns stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

TREATING AN INGROWN NAIL.

At a symposium on minor surgical procedures which recently appeared in the American Journal of Surgery Dr. H. F. Graham gave some simple advice about ingrowing toenails. A Since pinching the toes, particularly at the front end, is the principal cause of ingrowing nails he recommends that broad toe shoes be worn. Next to sufficient length. He advises shoes with a soft, high toe cap and straight last and a low heel.

To cure ingrowing toenails several methods are recommended. Chiropodists use an emery wheel to grind the top of the nail. A thin nail does not dig much into the flesh. Some golf players with a tendency toward ingrowing nails have their toenails ground thin in preparation for hard games. Foots recommends pushing a thin pladget of cotton under the ingrowing corner. He soaks the cotton in a two per cent solution of nitrate of silver.

Instead of cotton Crane pushes under the nail corner a triangular piece of dentists' base plate gutta percha. This is softened by heat before being used.

Dr. Graham tells of a spring with a hook used to lift the ingrowing corner. Some cases require operation.

Dr. G. I. Richards discusses foreign bodies in the ears and nose. A live bug in the ear, and occasionally in the nose, may call for emergency treatment. The bug should be killed and, in that way, the case taken out of the emergency class. A few drops of chloroform will kill the insect in short order. A few drops of oil generally suffices when chloroform is not available. A dead insect can be left to be removed under a good light and with proper instruments.

Impacted wax in the ear: Add a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda to a fingerbowl of water. Insert a few drops of this into the ear two or three times a day. Leave it as long as possible. After two days of this treatment the softened wax can be readily removed with a paper clip or other suitable instrument. Some use peroxide solution to soften the wax.

If a person, and particularly a child, whose hearing was previously good, suddenly becomes deaf in one ear, a foreign body should be suspected. If the external ear is lifted upward and a good light falls in the canal, it may be possible to see the foreign body. A foreign body in the ear is not an emergency calling for prompt action. If removal with a hairpin or paper clip is not easily done the ear should be left alone. The foreign body is better removed by some one properly equipped with lights, forceps and snare.

A YOUTHFUL BARE RUTH. Anxious Father writes: My son is 3 1/2 years old and weighs 43 pounds. From the time he gets out of bed until he goes to bed at night he plays ball. He throws a ball almost as well as a man and can catch a ball, soft or hard, thrown as high as a three story building and hit with a bat almost as heavy as he is. They call him the champion baseball player of his section. He also plays hand ball and punch ball. Don't you think that it is too much for a child his age as it may prove harmful later? Before he throws a ball he says "a whack" and makes a regular pitcher and, mind you, he has never seen a real ball game.

REPLY. I can see no special danger. Make a bare Ruth out of him.

CAUSES MUCH OF IT. F. H. writes: Is insanity due to syphilis?

REPLY. Syphilis causes a very considerable proportion of insanity.

MAY SAY ANYTHING. Chicago, Sept. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a party agrees to keep your furniture for you an indefinite length of time, using same during that length of time, can they collect storage on removal? 2. Can they say it was given them and they do not wish to give it up?

REPLY. 1. Not unless this was the understanding. 2. Of course they can say anything. If the matter is litigated, the result would depend on which witnesses are believed in court.

ROCK ISLAND R. R. SMOKE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—I constantly see items in the paper about railroads making efforts to abate the smoke nuisance but never see the Rock Island mentioned among these. I live near this road and the smoke is very dirty and hard on the nerves.

W. J. P. The complaint regarding the nuisance of smoke from Rock Island locomotives operating in the vicinity of 60th and Princeton avenue has been assigned for investigation. This matter will be brought to the attention of the representative of the Rock Island railroad at the next meeting of the railroad smoke abatement board, Thursday, Sept. 12, 1929. He is requested to assign a special supervisor to watch the operation of locomotives in this vicinity.

The complaint regarding the noise nuisance has been referred to the department of health.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

GOOD-BY!

THIS PLACE HAS CHANGED HANDS. (For a few weeks.) Today sees a most important move in the history of an old and well established business. A Line o' Type or Two passes (temporarily) from the control of its present management into the hands of one well and favorably known to the trade. R. H. L., the present lessee, manager, and conductor of the Line, retires (for a few weeks) to England and Germany (he hopes), and possibly Belgium and Holland.

The new manager of the Line (until the football season opens) is none other than Mr. Harvey T. Woodruff, a young man widely known as the proprietor of the Wake of the News. Mr. Woodruff, famous for his slogan, This Column is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help! needs no introduction to the Line customers. He very kindly and efficiently pinch-hit in this column a year ago when the present management was touring in Ireland, France, Scotland, and England, to say nothing of Paris.

The conductor of the Line thanks Harvey T. (and others) for making it possible for him to take a rest and go over to Europe and see what's happening over there. He also wishes to thank the readers and contributors and to hope they will be as kind and indulgent to the new manager as they have been to him. Honestly, we do thank you all. You've been mighty nice. Good-by and good luck. (Here, Harvey, take the helm. Good luck, old top, and a thousand thanks.) Good-by!

FAITH.

As Joan heard her voices,
So men, at times, may hear,
She had a mood to listen,
Thus heard she plain and clear.

The skeptic flouts the story
The dreamer would narrate
And turns in silent pity Away with rapid gait.

And yet the dreamer, harkening,
Has heard the voice and gone
To heights unguessed, and conquered,
While the scoffer slumbered on.

The ear that humbly listens
May hear its voices plain,
The mood's the thing that matters
To faith there's naught in vain.

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

AND JUST as we were going away up popped a telegram from Mart Bruhl out in Burlington, who wishes to tell the cockeyed world that he has already written and copyrighted "The Buchu Blues" and dedicated it to Dr. Shumaker. Anyhow, that doesn't conflict with our sentimental song, "No One Buchu, Sweetheart, No One Buchu," and we're going to have Henry Sellinger write sob music around it and shoot it over the Air Line some time when nobody's looking.

WHY, WHEN, WHAT, AND WHERE.

It's Friday the 13th. Just the same, the abiding conductor of the Line (and Shelby) sail from the old home land at 5 o'clock this afternoon on the good ship Majestic for Southampton, the New Forest, Nunney Village, Coxwold, Much Wenlock, Winchester, Gloucester, Bolton Abbey, St. Neots, Amsterdam, Munich, and all points east, west, north, and south that it's possible to get to. Personally, we want to go up to that far off spot in Norfolk that Clement Scott made famous, the "Garden of Sleep." Then we're going down to Sulgrave Manor in Northamptonshire, because it was the home of George Washington's ancestors, and, naturally, and, of course, etc. And then, of course, we're going to run over to Somerset (Zummerzet) to see if Police Constable Higgins and Porters Sliding are there. We want to have a little chat with the boys and talk over the Manchester Square Case with them. And we hope to get lots of things to bring back to the Line and the Air Line. Good-by!

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

NEW YORK.—Cornelius Vanderbilt died suddenly from a cerebral hemorrhage in his splendid residence, 6th avenue and 87th street. He would have been 58 years old on Nov. 27 of this year. For two years he had been calmly awaited death. Deeply religious, he had prepared himself spiritually for the summons he felt might come to him at any time. No one definitely knows how much he was worth. Leading financiers today estimated his wealth all the way from $50,000,000 to $125,000,000. An estimate fixes his holdings in railroad shares and bonds at $100,000,000. His will directs that his estate be kept intact.

LONDON.—The so-called British ultimatum reached Pretoria and the Dalsig agency there gives a summary of its contents. It says that the British demand a five years' franchise, quarter representation in the volksraad for the gold fields, equality of the Dutch and English languages in the volksraad and equality for the old contentions. It says that in the elections, instant acceptance of the proposal is demanded. The situation is acute.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

DUBLIN.—The authorities proclaimed the suspension of the Sinn Fein parliament and Sinn Fein organizations throughout Ireland. Raids and searches for arms and documents were made on local Sinn Fein headquarters in numerous towns in addition to Dublin, among them Cork, Belfast, Galway, and Londonderry. Ernest Blythe and Patrick O'Keefe, two prominent members of the house of commons, were arrested. In the raids some arms and explosives were found. BOSTON, Mass.—Striking policemen decided they would return to their posts and await the result of a conference on Oct. 6, if meanwhile, the rule against their union was suspended. The Massachusetts attorney general has been asked to rule on the right of the policemen to return to work, and until that ruling is made the striking police will not be taken back.

PARIS.—Francis today made the greatest amends in her power to the man she held up to the world a quarter of a century ago as the traitor of the age—Alfred Dreyfus, then a captain, who was sentenced to life imprisonment on Devil's Island on a charge of selling military secrets to Germany. Today, as a lieutenant colonel, he was decorated as an officer of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his services in the war.

THERE WAS MUCH MOANING at the bar yesterday over the stipulation that if you want to buy a ticket for one of the games between the Cubs and the Athletics you must buy tickets for three games. But if the Athletics win the first two games and a lot of Cub fans die of horror, then what? Can their heirs go to the third game? But maybe their heirs are Sox fans and wouldn't go across the street to see the Cubs and Athletics. Legal Friend of the People or Most Embarrassing Moment editors, please write.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 13, 1864.

CHICAGO.—We have carefully compiled from the files of the Chicago Times into a neat 16 page pamphlet the essence of the treasonable and revolutionary utterances of the late Copperhead convention in this city, giving extracts from the speeches of Vallandigham, Fernando Wood, Cox, Harris, Long, Dean, Seymour, Van Allen, O'Brien, Rynders, Sanderson, Wickliffe, and a score of others. This document must be placed in the hands of every voter in the United States. It is an eye opener, as it shows the disloyal and treasonable intentions of the bogus Democracy. Friends of the Union, send in your orders. Price, 42 per 100 copies.

WASHINGTON.—The 2d division of Hancock's corps surprised the rebels near Petersburg on the night of Sept. 9 and gained a quite important position. The 20th Indiana cavalry led the movement and Lieut. Col. George W. Moschel fell at the head of his regiment, dying an hour later. Forty will cover our loss.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's special from Lee, Va., says that the rebels, commanded by Gen. Early in person, attacked Schoonmaker's brigade Moschel's division at Darktown, on the Winchester pike, south of Martinsburg. The rebel cavalry was thoroughly beaten and driven back in three successive attacks to the infantry. The rebels then broght forward their infantry to attack Schoonmaker, after nearly expending his ammunition, retired slowly to a new position, which the rebels did not venture to attack. Early thought to steal a march on Sheridan's lines.

PROPAGANDA AND NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Permit me to express appreciation and thanks for your most fair, reasonable and timely editorial in today's paper captioned "Propaganda and National Defense." Unquestionably, sincere citizens approve President Hoover's desire for an investigation of alleged lobbying and propaganda activities, and he will have ample support from patriotic organizations to insist upon a complete and searching inquiry into methods followed by agencies lobbying against authorized measures for the national security.

One group which has lobbied against our navy for years frankly admits an annual budget in excess of $120,000. Frederick J. Libby of the National Council for the Prevention of War stated freely in an interview published in the Baltimore Sun, Feb. 25, 1928, that "the national council alone has spent $370,000 since 1921, including $100,000 in 1927." Here, certainly, is an excellent field for the senate investigating committee to harvest.

To those concerned with problems of national security it is inconceivable that the senate of the United States can refuse to inquire into all propaganda. Investigating only one side of the matter will indicate immediately that influence, already demonstrated as powerful, has again dictated to the congress of the United States. President Hoover surely cannot permit such a state of affairs.

W. J. PATTERSON.
Editor National Defense Magazine.

TRACTION ADVICE.

Evansville, Ill., Sept. 11.—Nine hundred thousand dollars spent on subway plans, no plan decided upon, and no present hopes for any sort of a beginning. Why not an underground? In London the distinction is made between the subway, or tube, and the underground railway, which runs on terra firma, twenty to thirty feet below street level, the blue sky above.

An underground is not so grand nor so desirable as a genuine subway. But why, have two allotropic forms, each different from the commonly accepted appearance.

Dr. Bonhoeffer's research is commendable, as the ultimate aim of science is to establish truth; and the electronic theory, which many believe will inaugurate the store of human knowledge just as the experiments of the alchemists founded our present science of chemistry, even if they did not achieve the result desired.

I shall probably bring down a storm of protest by questioning the accuracy of the electronic theory, but in the light of forty years' experience I can only render a Scotch verdict of not proven.

LIBERAL DIVORCE LAWS.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Sept. 11.—Permit me to express my appreciation of the dispassionate, calm, carefully considered editorial "Some Theories of Liberal Divorce Laws." One fault on reading is that the writer of the editorial has looked at life understandingly and sympathetically. Such writing can well be considered a beneficial means of assisting in the molding of a rational public opinion.

Defense Opens in Her Trial for Murder.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—A parade of defense witnesses began today at the murder trial of Mrs. Alexander Pantages, and their testimony gave the jurors something to ponder, for it conflicted directly with the prosecution's story of the last ten days.

Policeman E. W. Settles and two bystanders, Robert B. Dicey and Jacob H. Pina, wound up the state's case this morning, all of them testifying that they noticed liquor on Mrs. Pantages' breath immediately after her auto crashed into another machine last June 16 and caused fatal injuries to Joe Rokumoto.

Doctor and Nurse Take Stand.
Then Dr. C. A. MacDonald, a physician who examined the millionaire's wife at the hospital where she and Rokumoto were taken, testified as the first defense witness that Mrs. Pantages was sober. Mrs. Edna Taylor, hospital nurse, also testified that there was no liquor on Mrs. Pantages' breath.

Ralph Kenyon, a prosecution witness, was recalled as a defense witness on a summons obtained through Judge Carlos Hardy. He saw Mrs. Pantages' car brush the fenders of other cars and he was driving close behind her when she crashed into the little sedan of the Rokumoto family, he said, but he did not observe any intoxicant on her breath.

Triple Defense Planned.
Defense Counsel Max Steuer and W. L. Gilbert gave a brief summary of the contentions that they expect to prove in order to gain Mrs. Pantages' release. They indicated a triple line of defense.

First: That Mrs. Pantages was not drunk and therefore not feloniously responsible for the accident.

Second: That Rokumoto, the Japanese who lost his life, failed to signal for a right hand turn, a California driving regulation provide, and that therefore Mrs. Pantages was misinformed as to his car's direction. This, the defense contends, made the accident Rokumoto's own fault.

Third: That some of the prosecution witnesses confused Mrs. Pantages and the car she was driving with another woman driver and the other woman's car, and that the weight of testimony of confused witnesses should be disregarded wholly.

INDIANA THREATENS TO CUT OFF HIGHWAY AID TO LAKE COUNTY

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—The Indiana highway commission may discontinue all road improvement activities in Lake county until settlement of a $175,000 bill owed to the road body since 1923 is settled in full, a Lake county delegation was told at the state house today.

For several months good road advocates of the county have emphasized the need for a forty foot relief highway paralleling U. S. highway 12, known as Dunes highway; a grade separation viaduct and other extensions to the network of state constructed roads spreading over the Calumet region. Members and officials of the highway commission have agreed for some time on the need of a relief route to reduce the through traffic on the Dunes road, a bottleneck for all eastern and south shore traffic into Chicago.

The $175,000 bill, according to John J. Brown, director of the highway commission, dates back to an agreement with Lake county commissioners by which the state was to superintend actual construction of Indianapolis boulevard in Hammond, principal arterial thoroughfare leading to Chicago.

The delegation left, members assuring the commission they would exert efforts to have the bill settled in full.

PASTORS BREW MUTINY AGAINST BISHOP CANNON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Indication of the growing sentiment in southern Methodism against Bishop James Cannon Jr., which may result in the preferment of charges against him during the next quadrennial general conference of the church, is seen in the assertion of Dr. John B. Winn, Danville, Va., pastor, that recent disclosures of the bishop's bucket shop speculations "have stirred the church as few things have in its history."

Dr. Winn's declaration in the course of a sermon last Sunday night in his home church has been interpreted generally in Virginia as tending to confirm reports that a considerable number of prominent pastors and laymen are preparing to open a fight on Cannon at the annual Virginia conference of the church, scheduled to convene in Richmond on Oct. 16.

The Richmond conference will be asked, it is said, to adopt one of two proposed resolutions, either one of which would pave the way for proceedings against Cannon in the meeting of the College of Bishops in Birmingham, Ala., next December and also in the general conference of the church to be held in Dallas, Tex., in October, 1930.

One of the resolutions probably will name Cannon and censure him, not only for his dealings with a now defunct New York bucket shop, but also for his alleged war time hoarding of flour, and his alleged use of the funds of the church board of temperance and social service, which he heads, to finance his anti-Smith campaign in southern states. The other resolution will not name Cannon, but will, according to current reports, denounce such activities as highly unbecoming a bishop.

In his Sunday night sermon, Dr. Winn did not name Cannon, but said: "The fact that it has been discovered that one of the highest officials of our church has been trading extensively in the stock market, the further fact that the house with which he did his trading was an alleged bucket shop and is now under indictment in the federal courts, charged with fraudulent use of the mails, together with the extent and character of his trading as revealed by the published documentary evidence and sworn testimony have stirred the church as few things have in its history."

Dr. Winn asserted that Cannon's request for suspension of judgment until an investigation could be had "seemed reasonable enough," but, he continued, "I am sorry that after having asked for the confidence of the church until an investigation could be made he has seen fit to flood it with an ex parte statement before the investigation."

Dear Mr. Crouch:

Words cannot express how pleased I am to recommend Dynell Ginger Ale.

Everyone who has tried it here has heartily pronounced it the "best ever". We find it is not only more pleasing to the taste than other Ginger Ales, but that it contains the same beneficial stimulant to the system for which the Dynell Spring water has long been noted.

I am glad our Club will serve your Ginger Ale from now on and wish you the success due anyone fostering such a superior product.

Attention Mr. L. Crouch

Gentlemen:

We have decided to serve and recommend your Dynell Ginger Ale. In keeping with President Ball's policy we sent a bottle to the Abel Laboratories for a confidential analysis and Dr. Abel reported as follows:

SEPARATED SOLIDS WERE SUGAR AND GINGER ONLY.
NO CAPSICUM, PEPPER OR OTHER FOREIGN INGREDIENTS OF ANY KIND. — A PURE PRODUCT

Aside from the doubtful quality of the water in some brands the ginger ale formula is doctored, so we are pleased to have the genuine and satisfying combination of Dynell Spring water with pure ginger ale.

Yours truly,

CHINA REPULSES NEW RED ATTACK ON BORDER CITY

Report Railroad Prospers
Under Chinese Operation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
HARBIN, Manchuria, Sept. 12.—The soviet bombardment of Pogranich-naya, eastern terminal of the Chinese Eastern railway, was renewed at 8 this morning. Chinese students here are recruiting an army of 2,000 to use against soviet Russia, as well as domestic communists. A Chinese official communiqué reported that the attacking Russian forces were repulsed.
Gen Fang Tai-kuang, acting general manager of the Chinese Eastern railway, said that as the result of two months of Chinese operation the railway has $1,500,000 profits in the treasury, whereas last year under Russian management in the same period it was necessary to borrow money in order to pay the salaries.
The soviet artillery fired 1,000 shells on the Chinese positions at Manchouli and Dalai Nor Monday and Tuesday nights and one air bomb destroyed a wool factory in Manchouli.

Civilians Evacuate Pogranichnaya.
Chinese authorities are withdrawing civilians and railway workers from the vicinity of Pogranichnaya and ceasing all railway traffic there except military transports. New regulations have been published threatening instant death to culprits involved in attempts to wreck the railway.

To Protect U. S. Rights.
Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)— Assurances that the Chinese government will exercise "due diligence" to protect American rights in the event extraterritoriality privileges in China are abandoned was contained in a note from Dr. C. T. Wang, Chinese minister of foreign affairs, made public today by the state department.
The note was in response to a communication forwarded by Secretary Stimson Aug. 10 to the Nanking government.

CHINA THREATENS TO QUIT LEAGUE; WANTS FOREIGN YOKE LIFTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
GENEVA, Sept. 12.—Unless the league of nations assembly executes the provisions of the covenant for examining the advisability of revising obsolete and unjust treaties China threatens to quit the league. The crisis arose today when the subcommittee, determined to protect the inviolability of the war treaties of 1919, decided to shelve the resolution of Dr.
Chao Chu Wu, Chinese ambassador to Washington and chief Chinese delegate here, for alterations in treaties imposed by western powers usurping control of China's internal affairs. Dr.
Wu cited Prime Minister MacDonald's speech demanding recognition of the rights of the slumbering peoples of the east, also the Washington conference, which promised China its liberty.

Faced with the threat of losing China, the league has referred the question back to the subcommittee to seek a compromise which will permit China to obtain a revision of the treaties, but at the same time prevent Germany, Austria Hungary and Bulgaria from reopening the treaties imposed after the war.

After several hours of discussion the subcommittee was deadlocked tonight, four members opposing China's demand—India, France, Roumania and Chile—and three supporting it—Germany, Austria and Lithuania.

serving the long lines of freight cars in which are quartered 6,000 Kirin troops under Gen. Tsao Tzu-shang, who are defending the front lines at the eastern end of the Chinese Eastern railway, leading in the direction of Vladivostok, approximately 160 miles southeast of here.

While Gen. Tsao professed no ungiveness regarding the possible intentions of the soviet in this sector, it was observed that the general's car was attached to an engine which had been standing with full steam up, ready for departure in an instant, for more than a month.

The three soviet biplanes were flying at an altitude of about 3,000 feet, and came apparently from the vicinity of Mulin and Machaiho, about 100 miles west of here, where the Chinese have their chief military concentration, under Gen. Tingchao. It is supposed that in the event of an outbreak of war the Chinese do not intend to make a serious defense of Pogranichnaya, but will fall back to the Mulin-Machaiho sector, where the mountain passes will enable them to make a defense.

Remove Tunnel Rails.
Accompanied by Brig. Gen. Wang
Erh-chan, I was conducted to tunnel
No. 3, about three miles east of here, where the Chinese advanced post is located and where Chinese military detachments removed the rails from inside the tunnel in order to prevent a surprise attack by soviet armored trains similar to what occurred at Manchouli, at the other end of the line,

1,000 miles distant.

From the top of the mountain directly above the tunnel, about 2,000 feet altitude, I observed through a telescope the Russian outpost atop another mountain about a mile away, the intervening valley being considered the boundary. The Russian outpost was manned by five soviet troopers, wearing the characteristic long cloaks and carrying rifles, the bayonets flashing in the bright sunlight.

Chinaman Trained in U. S.
The Chinese master mechanic of the Chinese Eastern railway shops, Chang Shou-hua, formerly worked in the Baldwin shops in Philadelphia, and pridefully told me that he and the few Chinese associated with him, as well as a few faithful Russian employes, had remained on the job despite the alleged soviet campaign of sabotage directed against the Russian railway, and managed to operate all trains scheduled. He said the Chinese were able to operate the railway in the event all the Russians quit.

As I have now traveled more than 3,000 miles over the Chinese Eastern railway system, I can attest the correctness of the Chinese statement, for while the schedule are slowed down, barring a few incidents such as bombing of locomotives, all trains have operated regularly through territory which even in normal times is largely a bandit infested area.

ILLINOIS LABOR SESSION OUT FOR FIVE DAY WEEK

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—The first official step of the State Federation of Labor to bring about a five day working week in the building trades to solve the unemployment problem was taken at the forty-seventh annual convention of the federation here today.

A resolution, introduced by the building trades committee with a recommendation for adoption, was passed, affirming that unemployment to a large extent can be traced to the increased use of labor saving machinery in the building industry. It held that in addition to aiding the reduction of unemployment, the five day working week will "provide more leisure for recreation and cultural advancement of the workers."

Another resolution passed today urged all unions to appeal to Gov.
Louis E. Emmerson, state representatives and senators to have union labor employed on the Dresden Island (Ill.) waterways construction job and on all other state projects. The committee on schools ratified a plan providing for organized labor to endeavor to obtain representation on all state educational agencies and the boards of the state universities.

The committee praised Supt. William J. Bogan of the Chicago schools for the high degree of efficiency he has developed in the apprentice schools of the Chicago public school system.

For two hundred years, the men of New York have been obsessed by the idea that the style of their hats contributed more importantly to their distinction and character than any other accessory of dress. Right or wrong, it may be said with impunity that a smartly shaped, well-trimmed hat, hard or soft; black, snuff, maple, pearl or any one of a dozen impressive shades, adds a telling and vital touch to one's personality. And, at this moment, men's hats embrace a fatal degree of allure... never in history have they been so entirely bracing and admirable in colour and sweep of line.
Never have the assortments of dealers offered greater possibilities for perfect selection. And, nowadays, men delight in owning a series of hats; they want a model or tone for every change of suit or over-garment... particularly the men who read The Sun. Hundreds of thousands of them have the price and desire, and respond eagerly to the Call of Style embodied in the

He tells you of his experiences, his ideals, and paints a picture of the kind of girl he adores. The life story of a man whose voice and personality have charmed ten million women.

A Different Magazine with but ONE AIM... to help you get the MOST out of LIFE!

HAVE you read it yet?—this new, utterly different and fascinating magazine that in six months has leaped into the hearts of half a million young American women?

Everywhere you see it in the hands of smart, clever, charming, get-ahead girls. You see young women of all ages and classes crowding at the newsstands to get the latest copy. In homes you find back numbers still being saved—too valuable to be thrown away.

Why is this? Simply because modern women find in the new Smart Set entertainment, help, common sense, and useful information that no other magazine in America, to-day, can give.

Smart Set is a gay, lively, human magazine that helps you get the most out of life. That tells you how to be the kind of a girl you've always wanted to be; and how to do the things you've always wanted to do.

Smart Set doesn't preach. Its editors are brilliant, fearless and successful young women who have been in the thick of the fight and are in it still. They know life. They know women.

They give you a magazine that is simply pulsing with live, up-to-the-minute, interesting material, dealing with your life, your problems, your interests.

What other magazine but Smart Set shows you how to dress smartly on the average young woman's income?

What other magazine but Smart Set seeks renowned beauties and beauty experts and gets them to tell you the secret of their charm, that you may be more charming?

DELAYS GRANTED TO WARSHAWSKY MYSTIFY PESKA

Prosecutor Hints Laxity by Fire Officials.

How Israel R. Warshawsky, son-in-law of City Collector Morris Eller, manages to secure continuances in court proceedings brought against him by the fire department still was a mystery yesterday following an inquiry by City Prosecutor Frank Peska.

According to the fire officials, Warshawsky's junk and automobile accessory warehouse at 1900-34 South State street is a fire trap endangering the lives of 150 persons living in the upper story flats. Municipal court records show thirty-five continuances in a suit brought to require conformity with the city fire prevention ordinance. The last, a continuance to Sept. 18, was granted by Judge George B. Holmes.

Grants 10 Continuances. Mr. Peska produced his records yesterday to show that the last fire department complaint was sent to him on Feb. 13, 1929. This was continued ten times by Judge Alfred O. Erickson, who found Warshawsky guilty on June 25 and fined him $200. Since that time there have been five continuances on a motion to vacate the fine. Further inquiry, however, showed that the Feb. 13, 1929, case was merged with an earlier case which had been continued twenty times. This, Mr. Peska said, was news to him. "We had Warshawsky convicted in the one case shown by my record," the prosecutor said. "We got a $200 judgment against him, but why the motion to vacate the fine is continued I don't know. Certainly, we will not agree to it."

Mr. Peska explained that one of his assistants, Harold O'Connell, has handled the case for the last month and before that another assistant, Nathan Rubenstein, since dismissed, had charge of the case. Mr. Peska said he would call in O'Connell for questioning.

Criticizes Fire Officials.

The prosecutor criticized the fire prevention officials for their charges, declaring that the fault is partially theirs.

"If Warshawsky's place is a fire trap, then it is their duty to investigate complaints against him every twenty-four hours. Each day it remains a fire trap is a separate offense. They have made no complaint since Feb. 13. Literally thousands of these cases pass through my office and naturally I can't watch them all and do the work of the fire department, too. It looks like somebody in the fire department is trying to pass the buck for their own laxity."

Crew of Stranded Boat Taken Aboard Steamer

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 12.—[U. P.]—The steamer Admiral Evans of the Pacific Steamship company was reported here today to have taken 38 members of the crew of the freighter Golden Forest, stranded in Shelikof strait, Alaska. The Salvage King took the men off the doomed ship and later transferred them to the Admiral Evans.

N. Y. Banks Move to Recover $500,000 Waggoner Loot

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—While Charles Delos Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, at Telluride, Colo., waited quietly in his cell in Newcastle, Wyo., where he was arrested, a committee representing the six New York banks he victimized was negotiating today for the return of the $500,000 which Waggoner obtained in credit here on faked telegrams from Denver.

The New York bankers apparently were confident that they would get back their money, despite disturbing reports that legal entanglements may be so great that the retention of the funds would be possible at Telluride, thus making Waggoner's manipulation a "perfect financial crime."

On the other hand, the committee working here, headed by Controller D. C. Borden of the National City bank, is said to have learned from Colorado bankers who are now in charge of the Telluride bank that they have no intention of keeping any of the money transferred there.

The Continental bank of Salt Lake City and the First National bank of Pueblo, Colo., which received part of the funds to meet Waggoner's obligations, are both said to have agreed to surrender the certified checks turned over to them by Waggoner.

Waggoner Glad It's Over.

Waggoner, however, safe behind the bars in Newcastle, appears to be unperturbed and has said repeatedly, according to dispatches that he "was glad it is over."

His insistence that he alone is responsible for the amazing swindle has led the authorities to search all the more diligently for possible confederates.

Dispatches from Newcastle today indicated the possibility that Waggoner may plead temporary mental derangement when arraigned on the criminal charges. Persons who visited him at his cell last night said Waggoner informed them that the events of last year were hazy in his recollection.

He said he had been worrying for some time over the condition of his bank and that he felt his obligations to his lifelong friends and depositors were greater than the penalty he might expect from the courts—hence the fraud, planned and executed by him, he insisted.

Meanwhile federal warrants for Waggoner's arrest on a charge of using the mails to defraud were speedily by airplane today to the United States attorney at Cheyenne, Wyo., and to the sheriff at Newcastle.

Push Hunt for Accomplices.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 12.—[U. P.]—Hunt for persons suspected of aiding C. D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, to carry out the scheme whereby he obtained half a million dollar credit from New York banks by means of faked telegrams sent from Denver was intensified here today with additional information obtained in papers found on Waggoner following his arrest in Newcastle, Wyo.

Preston T. McAvoy, county attorney of Weston county, Wyo., where Waggoner is held, started for Denver last night with clues to aid local investigators.

McAvoy said he would attempt to locate N. M. Bruckner, whose name was listed in Waggoner's note book, and whose residence and telephone number were given. What, if any, connection Bruckner may have had with the case McAvoy said he did not know.

Private detectives working on the case here said Waggoner had six aides in Denver, though they may have been unwittingly assisting the Telluride banker in his manipulations.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman's Son Reaches Her Bedside

Santa Barbara, Cal., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Loring Coleman of Chicago arrived here today to be with his mother, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman of Chicago, who is seriously ill. Mrs. Coleman is at the home of her stepson, Joseph G. Coleman Jr., in Montecito. It is understood that Mrs. Coleman is suffering from the rather rare malady, sleeping sickness.

PIGGOTT NAMED HEAD OF ILLINOIS INDUSTRIAL BODY

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Four of the five members of the Illinois industrial commission were appointed tonight by Gov. Emmerson. Clarence S. Piggott, Chicago attorney, was named chairman.

The other members are: Clayton A. Fosse of La Grange, and William F. Kramer, Oak Park, who will represent labor; and H. W. Willoughby, Staunton attorney, representing the employers. Fosse is a holdover, having been chairman of the commission under Gov. Small. The fifth member of the commission has not been named.

J. Barney Cohen, director of the department of labor, earlier in the day announced the appointment of the following arbitrators of the industrial commission:

C. C. Obrock, Quincy, to succeed E. M. Sorrell of East St. Louis; Harriet M. Reid, Chicago, reappointed; John M. Pico, Springfield; Max Broderick, Peoria, to fill a vacancy; Sellac G. Graham, Chicago, to fill a vacancy; W. A. Davis, Chicago, to succeed Charles A. Townsend of Aurora.

PETITION ASKS BUS LINES ON TWO STREETS

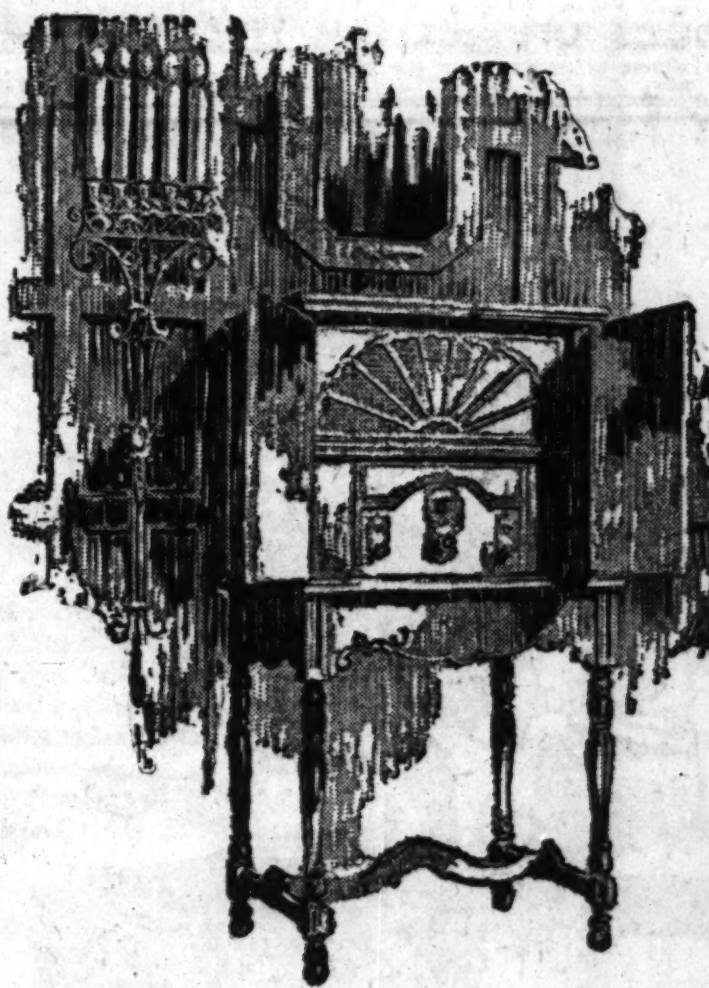

Establishment of feeder bus lines on Diversey and Belmont avenues is requested in a petition filed yesterday with the Illinois commerce commission by Attorney Henry M. Ashton, representing the Central Northwest Business Men's association. The petition asks the commission to order the Chicago Railway company to purchase the necessary busses to operate the system.

The controversy dates back to Jan. 26, 1927, when the commission entered an order making it mandatory for the street car company to run busses on Diversey and Belmont. The Chicago Motor Coach company then appealed the case to the Illinois Supreme court.

This action was followed by the issuance of a rescinding order by the commission which ruled the Chicago Railway company was not empowered by its franchise to use feeder busses.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

In "musical hits of the talkies" column, last night, I put a spin on the ordinary program. "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" was the start-off, and I am inclined to believe it is the talkies' classic to date. "Louise" and "The Pagan Love Song" (a waltz) are in the plaintive class. "Let Me Have My Dreams" (a waltz) may be rated as acceptable. "Song of the Nile" was in the original class. "I've Got a Feeling for You" and "Welcome Home" were thoroughly banal.

Quite a bright little star flashed across the radio firmament at 8:45 when Tsumaki Nambu, well known soprano, sang from New York through KTV. Two Japanese songs, short and true to Japanese song character, were the gifts from this artist. They were sung so charmingly that they made a very pleasant impression.

Later the bass cleft had a short shining all its own, when WLS at 10:15 Emil Gatterfeld played the slow movement from a "Concerto for Violin" by Rorich. This was the first time I had heard a double bass over radio, and though the interest in it as a novelty was considerable, the musical results were not overly gratifying.

SOVIET'S ARCTIC SEARCH FOR LOST AMUNDSEN FAILS

ON BOARD THE SOVIET ICEBREAKER SEDOV IN THE ARCTIC by wireless to Moscow, Sept. 12.—Any hope that the heroic expedition, led by Roald Amundsen, or the Alessandria group carried away with the wreckage of the Italian dirigible Italia in 1928 might have taken refuge on the Russian island of Franz-Josef was dispelled today by the Russian scientific expedition on this icebreaker.

Prof. Schmidt, Russian scientist and geographer, announced that no trace had been found in any of the seasonal ice formations on the huge island of the heroic Norwegian or his companions. If Amundsen or any others who went in search of the Noble expedition landed anywhere on Franz-Josef, they undoubtedly would have made their way to one of two supply depots left by former expeditions on Cape Flera and Rudolph islands.

Ronald Colman's Mother Dies Suddenly in Australia

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Sept. 12.—[U.P.]—Marjorie Colman, the aged mother of Ronald Colman, movie actor, died suddenly today. At the first showing of "Bulldog Drummond" in Sydney several days ago she was intensely excited on hearing her son's voice for the first time in eight years.

CREATES COLONY IN PALESTINE TO HONOR MARSHALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, Sept. 12.—The name of Louis Marshall will be perpetuated in Palestine by the establishment of a colony named "Marshallia." The administrative committee of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, whereof Marshall was chairman, reached this decision today at a meeting in London specially convened to pay tribute to his loss.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, who was the chief mourner, said Mr. Marshall was one of the notable Jews in the United States who to the last upheld the old ideals of Jewry. David Goldsmid, president of the board of deputies of British Jews, said Jews the world over have sustained a severe loss through Mr. Marshall's death.

Friend Tries to Kill Self. New York, Sept. 12.—Alphonse Frank, head of the insurance firm of A. Alphonse Frank & Co. and a close friend of the late Louis Marshall, attempted to take his own life today by shooting himself over the heart with a revolver. He was taken to Flower hospital in a critical condition. Financial worries and grief over the death of Mr. Marshall were said to have been the cause of his action.

Will Ship Body to U.S. ZURICH, Sept. 12.—Arrangements were made here today to ship the body of Louis Marshall to New York on a steamer sailing Sept. 18. It was decided there should be no public funeral service in Europe. Formalities of sealing the coffin and mailing the passport took place today at the Friedberg Jewish cemetery in the presence of American consular officials. A strictly private memorial service was held in the cemetery. The body was then taken to the University of Zurich, where it was embalmed.

Giant Plane Lands in Cuba on 7,000 Mi. Hop from U.S.

HAVANA, Sept. 12.—The giant Amphibian plane Manatide of the New York-Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires airlines, alighted in Havana harbor from Tampa, Fla., at 10:30 a. m. for refueling. It is on a 7,000 mile journey through the West Indies and along the east coast of South America to Buenos Aires. The plane left Washington early yesterday. R. H. McGinnis is in command.

Funeral Today for First President of Broadview

Funeral services for Jacob Mueller, 72 years old, 1813 17th avenue, Broadview, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today at St. Eulalia Catholic church in Broadview. Mr. Mueller was the first president of Broadview, serving from 1912 to 1914. He died at his home Tuesday after several months' illness.

CARL A. COBELLI, CHICAGO TEACHER FOR 39 YRS., DIES

Carl A. Cobelli, for thirty-nine years teacher of physical education at Hyde Park High school, died on Wednesday at the West Suburban hospital of bronchial pneumonia. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Cobelli was widely known in physical education circles. He often officiated at national gymnasium meets in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Denver and other cities, and at many university meets. Among his former pupils are Maj. Reed Landis, Judge Daniel Trude and Walter Bokros of The Nation.

His widow, Mrs. Lucy Cobelli, and two sons, Edwin, of Miami, Fla., and Walter, of Hinsdale, survive. The funeral will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at Kamp's chapel at 318 North Central avenue. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

UNITED STATES INSURANCE CO. RITES TODAY FOR J. A. MORRISON

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. today at Rosehill cemetery, chapel for John A. Morrison, for many years prominent in the casualty and group life insurance business in Chicago. Mr. Morrison died on Tuesday at Hennrich hospital. He lived at 1120 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. Morrison was one of the founders of the Chicago Casualty Underwriters' association and of the National Association of Casualty and Surety Agents. He was a dollar a year man with the war industries board during the war and served for many years as a councillor of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elmyra Caine Morrison.

Funeral Rites Are Held for Miss Agnes McCarthy

Funeral services for Miss Agnes McCarthy, born in Chicago 75 years ago, were held yesterday morning at the Surt hotel. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil officiated, assisted by priests of the parish. After the services the body was laid at rest in the family vault at Calvary cemetery.

ARABS ATTACK JEWISH COLONY; STEAL CATTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] JERUSALEM, Sept. 12.—Arabs last night raided the Jewish colony of Mishmar Hayarden on the frontier between Palestine and Syria. They stole 20 head of cattle and broke into a farmhouse. At Mahanyim, a nearby village, two Jews were wounded by shots. The Arabs are said to have held a secret conference in this neighborhood and decided to resume the raids if British continue raiding Arab villages for stolen loot.

Arab students in Jerusalem today issued a circular demanding an Arab boycott against the Jews. "Buy nothing but land and sell them everything but land," the circular demands. Another circular, issued by the Arab executive committee, is intended to calm the feelings of the Arabs throughout the country. It denies that the Moslem holy places were violated by the Jews in the recent riots.

Double police protection will be provided tomorrow, the Moslem sabbath, for Jerusalem, which is still occupied by the 6 p. m. curfew order. The Hafia curfew order has been extended until 9 p. m. Reinforcements have been sent to Gilead and Jammeh near the frontier over the Jordan river, where new Bedouin concentrations have been observed. The British are reorganizing protection for isolated colonies and are arranging regular patrols.

Lawyer Indicted with His Clients on Liquor Charge

DANVILLE, Ill., Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Michael Constable, Chicago Heights attorney, today became a codefendant with three of his clients when he was indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. He was ordered to appear Saturday and show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court for alleged intimidation of a government witness. He pleaded not guilty on the indictment. The contempt charge is based on Constable's alleged refusal to testify before the grand jury.

Funeral Rites Are Held for Miss Agnes McCarthy

Funeral services for Miss Agnes McCarthy, born in Chicago 75 years ago, were held yesterday morning at the Surt hotel. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil officiated, assisted by priests of the parish. After the services the body was laid at rest in the family vault at Calvary cemetery.

WEEKS PROPOSES A SOLUTION FOR BRIDGE PROBLEM

Would Base Clearance of Low Water Level.

Col. W. C. Weeks, resident government engineer, yesterday offered a solution to the traffic congestion problem caused by tugs forcing bridges to open during the closed periods fixed by city ordinance. He advised the council committee on harbors and bridges that he has wired to Washington for authorization of his plan, which the council may adopt as an emergency measure.

High water in the river has lowered the clearance of nine of the loop bridges to less than 16 feet above the water. Such bridges, under terms of the ordinance, must open at any time for harbor tugs.

Provides 16 Foot Clearance.

Col. Weeks proposed to base the clearance on the fixed low water level, which would give the bridges a clearance of more than 16 feet, no matter at what level the water is. This would exempt them from opening for the harbor tugs during the periods when they are supposed to be closed for the benefit of the traveling public.

"I believe that the war department would look upon closed bridge hours as the time when the bridges are not permitted to open for boats," said Col. Weeks.

It is desirable to have the river craft go under the bridges when they can, and considerable traffic can be carried on without opening them. The low railroad bridges and some of the city bridges which have a low clearance, however, should open at any time.

Hearing to Be Held Sept. 15.

Acceptance of Col. Weeks' plan

PRESS WIRELESS, INC., WANTS PERMITS TO BUILD 26 STATIONS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—

The Press Wireless, Inc., a company organized by a group of American publishers, applied to the radio commission today for permission to construct 26 stations throughout the country.

The stations would use twenty frequencies set aside by the radio commission on June 20 for the American press for point to point communication within this country. At that time the commission indicated that construction permits would be issued to the corporation, the organization of which already had been approved.

Press Wireless, Inc., was organized by the American publishers' committee on radio communication.

The stations would be located at Upper Newton Falls, Mass.; Little Neck, N. Y.; Washington, D. C.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Cleveland, O.; Detroit, Mich.; New Orleans, La.; Atlanta, Ga.; Dallas, Tex.; Miami, Fla.; Memphis, Tenn.; Chicago, Kansas City, Mo.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Los Angeles, Cal.; San Francisco, Cal.; Denver, Colo.; Seattle, Wash., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

There will be two stations in each of seven cities, Washington, Upper Newton Falls, New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, Little Neck, and Los Angeles.

would exempt the loop bridges from opening for the tugs, forcing them to proceed at other than the closed hours periods or to lower their stacks and superstructures. A hearing on it will be held Sept. 25, when it is expected that a reply will have been received from Washington.

The high water level may reach its peak next spring, according to M. A. Oettershausen, harbor engineer.

Reciting the history of the delays in the Calumet harbor plan, Ald. Guy Guernsey (4th), chairman, announced that he is in favor of proceeding with the harbor development.

YOUTH OF TURKEY AIDS PASHA TO MODERNIZE LAND

Fights to Rid Nation of Ancient Sloth.

[This is the fourth of a series of articles on the new Turkey.]

BY LARRY RUE.

ANGORA, Turkey, Aug. 21.—(By Mail.)—The new Turkey begins with the treaty of Lausanne. This treaty confirmed the victory of the Kemalists and provided peace based upon the originally believed preposterous demands of the national pact.

Capitulations were abolished; the complete sovereignty of the Turks to Smyrna, the French and Italian zones of influence, even to the "international waters" of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus.

Wiseacres shook their heads. Dark prophecies were made. Abuses of foreigners, a reversion to religious fanaticism, economic, financial and political catastrophes were predicted. But despite this propaganda, even at the threat of another war, the Ghazi remained true to his original principles.

The minimum he had decided was necessary for the rebuilding of Turkey into a modern nation.

Outlines New Turkey Plans.

It was at this time the Ghazi outlined for the first time his plans for the modernization of the new Turkey. He declared that everything was in favor of ridding the country of its traditional sloth.

"From my own experience, from what I've studied of the experience of others, I have learned that no revolution is permanently successful unless they conform to the wishes, sometimes incoherent, of the people," Kemal Pasha said. "I know the heart of Turkey. It is prepared to shed the cocoon of superstition, tradition, fanaticism, and blossom forth as a civilized, modern nation."

He predicted opposition to this westernization, not from the peasant of Anatolia, but the aristocratic families in Constantinople. They, he said, enjoyed benefits of European civilization, but also wished to retain the harems and sensual pleasures of the orient.

Youth Saved Turkey.

"These people will die with their old beliefs," the Ghazi said. "Nothing can change them. They oppose the freedom of the Turkish woman. They will resent all innovations. But the youth of the nation is on our side and it is the youth that saved the nation."

He said he thought high culture of America was sufficient answer to the skeptical belief that the culture of a people is so imbedded in their character that it takes generations to change them. Environment, not hereditary influences, he declares, is the basis of civilization and culture. By changing the environment, both physically and culturally, the modernization of Turkey could be achieved, he says.

This insight on the political philosophy of the president of the Turkish republic is invaluable in a proper comprehension of the progress already achieved and projects for the future in transplanting a western civilization on an eastern soil.

BOMBERS CARRY FAKE POLICE STARS. Revolvers and fake police stars were found on Eugene Moore, 55 years old, 106 South California avenue, and John Shurran, 21 years old, 1530 West Lake street, who were arrested yesterday morning as they loitered near the Hotel Sherman garage. They confessed to a robbery on Sept. 5.

ATWATER KENT RADIO SCREEN-GRID

Wins every test! including the supreme test—TONE

CLOSE your eyes. Forget all about tubes and coils and condensers.

Just follow the delicate shadings and overtones of the voice, the "singing" quality of the cello, the faintest vibration of the violin.

Drink in the rich harmony of orchestra or organ. Listen for naturalness when someone whose voice you know speaks to you through the microphone.

Thus you will understand why hundreds of thousands of families—with the whole wide world of radio to choose from—have already chosen the new Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Set for their homes.

Put it to every other test you can think of. Ask it to separate programs so close together on the dial that you know what we mean by needle-point accuracy—to bring in stations you never heard before, away off in the distance—to respond to your every whim with power that knows no limit—yet no power noises—no hum!

Only a radio expert fully appreciates the exquisite precision of Atwater Kent engineering, but it is this advanced engineering that has found a way of using the new Screen-Grid tubes to give the world a new conception of how good a radio set can be.

Make your own personal tests at an Atwater Kent dealer's or under your own roof. You'll find that the new Atwater Kent Screen-Grid leaps to pass them all.

Why this SCREEN-GRID radio is so much better

Walnut lacquered finish. Hand rubbed—four way matched butt walnut doors. One of the finest cabinets obtainable. Complete with tubes and model 55C, $173.75.

On the Air—Atwater Kent Radio Hour—Sunday Evenings, 9:15 (Eastern Daylight Time), WEAF network of N. B. C. Atwater Kent Mid-Week Program—Thursday Evenings, 10:00 (Eastern Daylight Time), WJZ network of N. B. C.

Special Screen-Grid circuit, perfected by Atwater Kent to make complete use of the new Screen-Grid tubes.

Many times more amplification and sensitivity with new Screen-Grid tubes.

Needle-point selectivity, made possible by Atwater Kent method of using Screen-Grid tubes.

Plate detection, purifying tone quality by eliminating distortion.

First audio stage resistance coupled, permitting full use of two "45" power tubes in push-pull to reproduce rich, low tones.

Maximum undistorted output, more volume than you can use, controllable at will.

Electro-Dynamic, of course.

Enormous, regulated power, with no power hum. Stable, at all wave lengths. All parts matched, balanced.

All metal parts protected by cadmium-tin plating or lacquering. Power units hermetically sealed against moisture.

752 tests in course of manufacture. Also tested under extremes of temperature and humidity.

Precision workmanship, with variations as little as one-half of one-thousandth of an inch.

Completely shielded.

Illuminated dial, marked in kilocycles.

Can be used with short indoor antenna.

Widest choice of exquisite cabinets.

Distinctive designed highboy of genuine Karvut walnut. Complete with tubes and Model 55C, $222.00.

The Rising Generation Has a Lesson in Chic

On the Juvenile Floor—the Fifth

Two and two make four, the Juniors know—but that's only one item of their knowledge in these advanced days. On "what to wear and how to wear it" they have very definite ideas of what is right. Simplicity and comfort they demand—and they're quite right when they see no reason why their frocks and suits shouldn't be becoming and individual as well. They know, too, that the Juvenile Floor selects their clothes with just as critical an eye as they do—and that is why it's their favorite shopping place.

What do little girls wear?

Printed challis in green, brown or blue, with wide pleated collar and cuffs of fine white batiste. This frock comes in sizes 6 to 10, $12.50, and there is a matching big sister frock at $15.

What does "growing up" mean?

Growing up means taking an increased interest in clothes—and a jersey frock with stripes on blouse and sleeves is a good excuse for indulging it. Green, red, navy. Sizes 12 to 16 years. $17.50.

Are modern patterns smart?

Modern patterns attract the youthful eye, and when they are attractively worked out in smaller designs are smart, as in this wool crepe frock in navy, red or green with contrasting two-tone triangles. 6 to 10. $11.50.

What's new in hats?

Gay arrows of contrasting felt point the way to close-crowned smartness on this little felt hat for the Junior Miss. It is only one of ever so many attractive youthful styles which come in all the colors that are becoming to little girls—brown, red, green, blue. Priced at $3.25.

What fabric is best for suits?

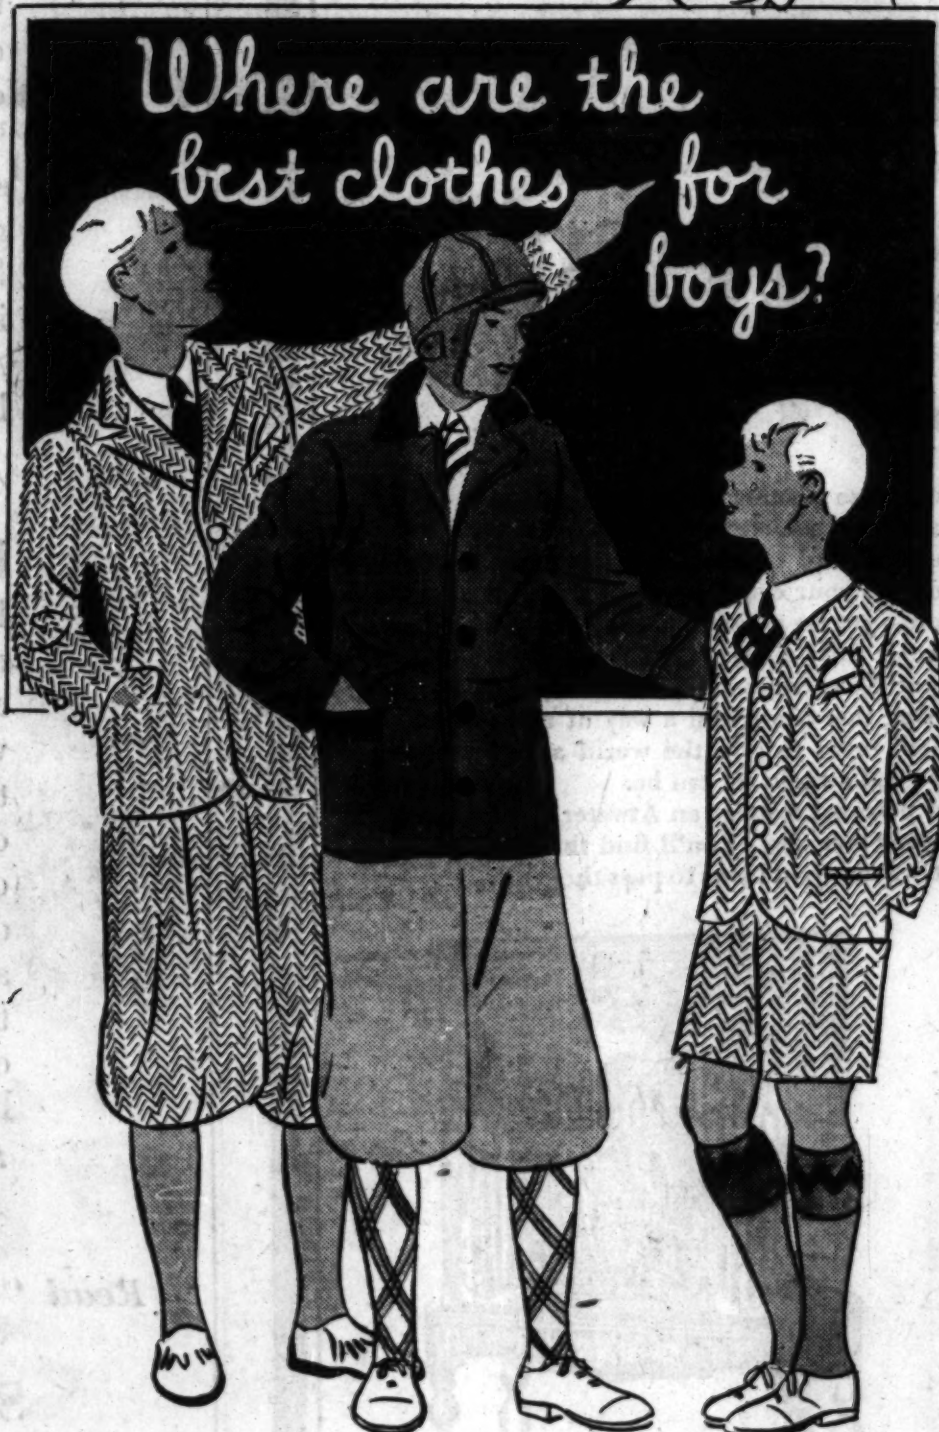

Herringbone mixture for the school suit, says the boy who knows what he likes best to wear. Here is one that may be had in grays or browns, either single or double-breasted—and there's a choice of two pairs of knickers (8 to 16 years), or two pairs of long trousers (14 to 18 years). $25.

What clothes are most practical?

Sports jackets are the choice of those boys who want thoroughly practical clothes, and this one has been specially reinforced with leather. Dark maroon or navy, $6.75. Plus four knickers to wear with these jackets—a large assortment. Sizes 8 to 18. $3.75.

What do little boys wear?

Eton jacket suits for the best-dressed younger boys are smartly tailored in fine herringbones or flannels. All have two pairs of English shorts. Sizes 5 to 9 years. $15.

what kind of shoes and hose?

What shoes for when?

Little girls wear patent leather shoes with round toes—or they choose them in tan, brown or "putty" elkskin, sizes 2 to 12 at $3 to $4.75. In white, $3 to $6.

When we get a little older we wear Oxfords in black or tan elkskin, with tip of darker elkskin. These have solid leather heels, sizes 11½ to 8, $6 to $8.

What shoes are smartest?

Suede is very smart, in brown, black or blue; strap or ties, trimmed in calfskin or plain. Sizes 3 to 8, $8.50 to $10.50.

T straps in blue kid or brown suede have a grown-up air to go with our best clothes. And they are imported from Switzerland! Sizes 2½ to 8, $9.50.

Socks or stockings?

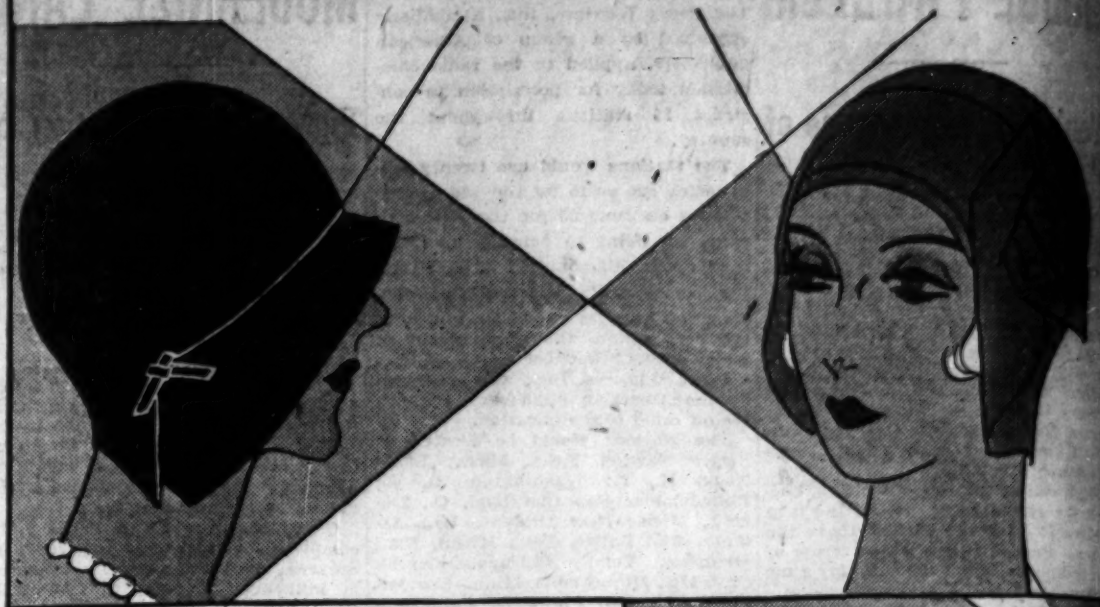

Girls' hosiery of fine cotton in ¾ lengths is trimmed with gaily patterned cuffs. $1 pair.

Full length hosiery, in colorful all-over patterns, of cotton and rayon, 75c pair.

Boys' heavy cotton hose, ¾ length, $1 pair. Imported hose, $1 pair.

CUBS LOSE, BUT NEED ONLY THREE MORE TRIUMPHS

Willoughby and Phils Beat

A kind to be expected of prospective champions. In the first two rounds nobody hit safely although Stephenson might have enjoyed a blow if Klein hadn't leaped up in front of the fence. They finally reached Willoughby for a hit in the third when Taylor singled. Then the Phil hurler gave them a chance to start something. He walked English to open the fourth. Hornaby forced English. Wilson died swinging. Cuyler walked and Stephenson fanned. Not so good.

There also were two out of the way in the fifth before the Phils went through the motions that added another run to their margin. A pass to O'Doul was the entering wedge. Klein then bounced a hit past McMullan who cut over in front of short. English grabbed the bounding sphere and made a desperate effort to force O'Doul at second, but the throw went wild. O'Doul taking third and Klein second. A pass to Whitney allied the corners. Then Hurst walked and O'Doul was forced to score. Bush fanned. There now to complete the inning.

Tolson Gets the Second Hit.
The Cubs put on another "big rally" in the fifth. They uncorked their second hit of the performance. Tolson did this to open the inning. He aimed a single into center, but was doubled attempting to steal on Taylor's third strike. This was followed by a rather annoying Phils' sixth. Willoughby and Thompson singled with one out. Friberg tied to Cuyler and a free ticket to O'Doul loaded 'em up. This put Bush face to face with Klein, who had already collected three blows. The home run clatter bounced gently to Hornaby and the inning ended.

What the Phils failed to do in the sixth they accomplished in the seventh. The round started with Stephenson racing back to the left field corner to pull in Whitney's wicked drive. Hurst was given a pass, and he lost no time stealing second. Taylor helped a bit by plucking Thevenow's foul off the grand stand fence. Davis walloped a two bagger down the left field line. Hurst scoring. Willoughby walked and Thompson singled to drive Davis home. Bush then let Friberg have a pass and was yanked. O'Doul induced O'Doul to close the sound by flying to Wilson.

Just a Threatening Gesture.
Wilson's homer, which kept him tied with Klein, wasn't the only thing accomplished by the Cubs in the seventh. Just after Hack clouted the ball into the left field seats and completed the circuit, Cuyler peeled off a hit to center. It was a wasted effort. He was mopped up in a double play into which Stephenson grounded. Then Tolson walked and the session was completed on Taylor's fly to center. The next outbreak was Hurst's homer into the right field bleachers with two downed in the eighth. This made the score read 7 to 1.

The Cubs did enough in the eighth and ninth to bring their hit total up to a respectable proportion. English doubled with two out in the eighth, and Hornaby followed with an every day fly ball. Then Stephenson scratched a hit to Whitney with two gone in the ninth. Tolson added a single to center, whereupon Taylor grounded into a force play to conclude the one side show.

FOGARTY ASKS JURY TRIAL FOR TUNNEY SUIT

Bridgport, Conn., Sept. 12.—(Special.)—John S. Fogarty, former Texas plumbing supplies salesman, will not trust a Connecticut judge to decide the merits of his $500,000 alienation of affections suit against Gene Tunney. Instead he wants a jury to value in terms of dollars and cents the amount of damage the now retired world's heavyweight champion inflicted upon him by "winning the love and affections of Mrs. Fogarty," who now is divorced from him.

Fogarty's attorney, Charles S. Martin of New Haven, in superior court here today, filed a claim for a trial by a jury. This procedure was considered unusual by court officials, as claims for jury trial usually are not filed until the defendant answers the plaintiff's suit. Tunney, reported due here next month from his extended European honeymoon with the former Filly Leader, steel heiress, has not yet filed an answer to Fogarty's suit.

It Might Interest You to Know That—

BOS McCARTHY doesn't agree with those who claim Guy Bush's recent jolts are due to overwork. He said Bush had plenty of stuff yesterday, but used bad judgment that kept him in the "hole" to the batters in almost every inning. The best guess probably is that after a few beatings Bush began to worry about the imposing record he had built up and thus lost some of his confidence.

No request has been made by the St. Louis club to have the Cards come here and play off the two games that were washed out by rain last Friday at St. Louis. If a formal request is filed it probably will be turned down by President Veeck on the grounds that the games will have no bearing on the pennant race.

Don Cahill, whose weaknesses are the Cubs and fire, entertained the players' wives at lunch yesterday. Smoke was furnished by a hand organ and amusement by the monkey accompanying same.

Fred Hicks has been resting since last Saturday, so he will be put to work in the final with the Phils this afternoon. Bert Shotton, the Phils' boss, may decide to let the Cubs have a look at young Harry Smyth, even though the kid is left handed.

DREYER, MACKEY TO HELP COACH PURDUE ELEVEN

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 12.—(Special.)—Two stars of Purdue's 1928 football eleven, Bert Dreyer of Cleveland, O., and Guy Mackey of New Albany, Ind., have been signed as coaches to assist Chester Wilcox with the education of the Boilermaker freshman football squad. It was announced today by Director of Athletics N. A. Kellogg. Both of the new freshman coaches were outstanding in their positions during their three years of varsity competition for Purdue.

Jimmy Phelan, head football coach, left tonight for Chicago, where he will attend the rules interpretation meeting of the Western Conference Football Coaches' association tomorrow. The coaches plan to discuss the new rules and have their recommendations ready for presentation before the meeting of Big Ten officials which will be held in Chicago Saturday.

SMITTY—IT IS NOW EXACTLY FOUR O'CLOCK

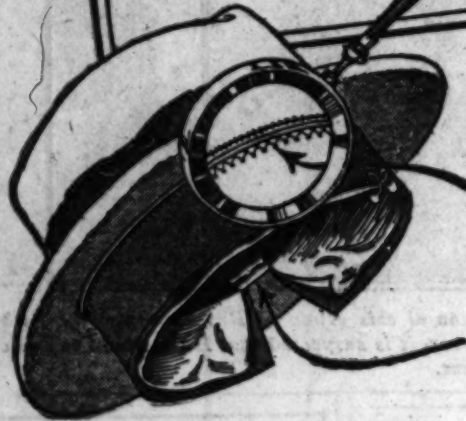

HAWKEYES WON'T BE ACCUSED OF HIRING THIS TEAM

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 12.—(Special.)—An artificial football team will be sent to the University of Iowa's gridiron drills this fall. The "team" will be made up of an array of wooden posts driven in the ground in the formation of a defensive eleven. The dummy players, guards, and tacklers will be made of straw, while the ends will be made of wood. The team will be used to withstand the charge of Hawkeye forwards, while the ends will be used so as to topple over when "knocked out" properly by opposing players. In the backfield will be an artificial "fullback," and a trick play to teach Hawkeye players the art of stiff arming and dodging. The post will carry a cross bar two feet from the ground, and Old Gold will attempt to stiff arm the dummy and escape the tripping bar at the same time.

EMERSON HATS

have the Emerson Inter-Lined, Double-Sewn Sweat Band. A waterproof inter-lining is stitched, first to the sweat band, then to the hat, keeping sweat leather and its stitching from contact with the felt. This positively protects both the silk band and body of Emerson Hats from stain or spot by perspiration.

EMERSON HATS

Ponies galloping "wide open" down the field, mallets connecting right and left, the ball bouncing across the green turf—that's Polo, the smartest of all sports. And whether it be at the polo game, the golf club, or in town, there you'll find Emersons, the smartest of all hats.

For work or play—Emerson Hats are authoritatively styled. Their zesty, jaunty shades are as beautiful and as fresh as nature's own colorings.

And built into Emerson Hats is a quality based on sincerity and integrity in workmanship founded on "hat making" for 53 years.

Added to their stubborn resistance to wear is the exclusive Emerson, (patented), sweat-proof inter-lining, which absolutely protects Emerson hats at $6.00 and up against silk band and body stains.

WALLY RUBOVITZ WINS RAVISLOE ROUNDUP TITLE

200 Compete; Kohn Has Best 18 Holes.

Less than half the field of 200 finished the 36 holes of golf in Ravisloe's third annual "roundup" yesterday, but nobody felt disappointed at the close of the day's program, which was topped off with six fast boxing contests. Prizes were awarded for best scores over the 9, 18, and 36 hole rounds.

Wally Rubovitz kept the "roundup" title at Ravisloe by shooting the low gross score of the day, with rounds of 85-88-100.

Jack Owens of Chicago Heights, C. C. who began his golfing experience as a caddy at Ravisloe years ago, returned yesterday to win the low gross for guests with a card of 85-88-100.

Penalties Protect Par.

Howard Kahn of Ravisloe had the best 18 hole round of the day with 77-78-75. The extra strokes represented trap penalties. His card, however, was not good enough to win the title. The best 36 hole card was by J. A. Cramer of Hickory Hills who shot 85-88-100 for a total of 273.

Low net for members went to R. M. Schiller, 184-185-194. President J. C. Straus presided at the dinner and C. S. Lederer awarded the prizes.

MOON MULLINS—HE'S GOT A FEELING, HE'S GOT A FEELING HE'S FALLING

Woods and Waters by BOB BECKER

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—I read your article a few days ago stating that the duck season in Illinois opens Sept. 24, but I note on the back of this year's hunting license that opening day is given as Sept. 16. Could you tell me which date is correct? HAROLD J. WILBER, 4040 Oakdale av.

Answer.—Wisconsin and Michigan hunters may start their duck shooting Sept. 16, but in Illinois the season opens up Sept. 24, irrespective of what your license says. Consider that date as your license an error and reserve your shotgun fire until the 24th, because arrests can be made in Illinois if ducks are shot before that date.

While the grain markets advanced to a new high for the week as the result of continued strength shown in wheat abroad, the upturn of 5 1/2 c in the low of Tuesday brought in free profit taking yesterday and disclosed a weakened technical position. Wheat, reacted 3/8 c from the top and finished around the low point, although showing net gains of 1/8 c. Buenos Aires was unchanged to 1/8 c higher. October futures in the latter market at the high point showed an advance of over 5 c in three days. There was rather persistent selling of corn futures by commission houses and spreaders, and the close was 1/8 c lower. Oats were strong early, only to ease with corn, and closed unchanged to 1/8 c lower. Rye gained 1/8 c.

Argentine News Rules Wheat.

Argentine news is the dominating influence in the wheat markets both here and abroad, and it is now generally admitted that under the most favorable conditions the crop in that country will be materially short of the 307,000,000 bu harvested in 1928. Broomhall's agent estimates damage in the provinces of Cordoba and Santa Fe already amounts to 20 per cent, which was a big factor in causing an advance of 20 3/4 c in Liverpool for the day, and even with rains the crop is not likely to be above 250,000,000 bu, suggesting 140,000,000 bu for export. Argentine acreage is officially estimated at 8.5 per cent less than last year, and a local house expresses the belief that the total crop based on prevailing conditions was somewhat under 300,000,000 bu. The forecast was for continued fair weather in Argentina.

Expectations that the yield of wheat in the southern hemisphere will be considerably short of last year's have been the main factor in advancing prices in all of the leading markets during the last two days, with Liverpool up 3 1/2 c and Chicago up 1/2 c. The close on Tuesday, while Chicago gained 1/8 c and Winnipeg 1/4 c, 4 c during the same period. Export demand at the seaboard remains decidedly slow, although offerings abroad from Argentina have advanced sharply. Cash wheat in American markets is in better demand with a car of No. 2 red sold on track here at 1/4 c over the September, the first time at a premium over the current delivery month.

Wheat Strength Helps Corn.
Outside interest in corn was less in evidence, but the strength in wheat led to local buying and prices averaged higher early, with selling on resting orders checking the advances, the finish being well toward the bottom. Good rains were reported over part of the corn belt, but so far there has been little tendency shown to raise estimates on the prospective yield. The fact that hogs are now selling below a 10 to 1 ratio as compared with corn tends to temper bullish enthusiasm, as it suggests reduced farm feeding operations. Hogging down of corn has started on a small scale in parts of northeastern Iowa.

September and May oats sold at a new high on corn in the result of commission house buying, but a reaction followed due to profit taking. Trade was fairly good at times. Argentine cables indicate that a smaller crop than last year will be secured

CASH GRAIN NEWS

There was a moderate export business in hard winter and Manitoba wheats at the seaboard with sales estimated at 200,000 to 300,000 bu in all positions. Local handlers sold 2,000 bu wheat; 100,000 bu corn; 25,000 bu oats, and 5,000 bu barley to the domestic trade, with 50,000 bu rye sold to go to store. Deliveries on September contracts were 134,000 bu wheat; 3,000 bu corn, and 11,000 bu rye. Characters were for 100,000 bu corn to Georgian bay.

Cash wheat in the local sample market was in good demand and the basis 1/4 c higher, with red winter showing the most gain. No. 2 red was 8 1/4 c under; No. 3 hard, 3/4 c under; and No. 1 northern, 5/8 c under. Basis on corn was 1/4 c higher, with No. 2 grades 1/4 c under, and No. 3 grades, 1/2 c under. Basis on oats showed little change, with No. 2 white, 1 1/2 c under, and No. 3 white, 3/8 c under September.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Thursday: Wheat, 37 cars; corn, 148 cars; oats, 114 cars; rye, 7 cars; barley, 18 cars.

Stockholders of the Capital State Savings bank voted to increase the

LARD TRADE INCREASED

Trading in lard was more interesting, with cash interest buyers of September and October and commission houses taking December and January. Packing grades of hogs were higher and the early advances in grains had a good influence. At the close lard futures were 7 1/4 c higher, with bellies unchanged to 1/2 c lower, the latter on January. There were deliveries of 50,000 lbs of lard and 200,000 lbs of bellies. Cash trade, aside from supplying branch houses, was moderate. Liverpool lard was unchanged except for spot, which declined 1/4 c. American cut hams were 2 c lower.

Hog prices were 10 to 15c higher on packing grades and 10c lower on light. Receipts at western points were larger than last year and also for the two preceding years. Prices follow:

Mid-Continent and California fields, is producing, refining and marketing companies. Through its subsidiary companies, the Corporation has a net daily production of approximately 47,785,000 barrels; has refineries in the Gulf coast, in the Mid-Continent and in East Chicago, with a combined capacity of 1,000,000 barrels per day.

BUSINESS: Shell Union Oil Corporation, organized in 1922 as a consolidation of substantially the entire Royal Dutch-Shell and Union Oil Company of Delaware interests in the Mid-Continent and California fields, is, through its subsidiaries, one of the largest producing, refining and marketing companies in the oil industry of the United States. Through its subsidiary companies, the Corporation owns and operates oil properties having a net daily production of approximately 135,000 barrels, and in 1928 a net annual production of 47,788,000 barrels; has refineries in California, in the Houston and New Orleans districts on the Gulf coast, in the Mid-Continent field at the Red River near St. Louis and at East Chicago, with a combined capacity of 290,000 barrels of crude petroleum a day and a total intake of 53,536,000 barrels during 1928; owns or controls trunk and main pipe lines aggregating 3,570 miles; and has concrete and steel storage capacity together amounting to more than 34,000,000 barrels. Sales in 1928 were in excess of $179,000,000.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Proceeds of this issue will provide funds for additions to and the further development of the Corporation's properties, more particularly its marketing facilities, and for general corporate purposes.

ASSETS: Net assets based on consolidated balance sheet as at June 30, 1929, adjusted to give effect to the issuance of the securities now to be outstanding, after deducting all liabilities other than funded debt, are $437,524,296 or more than 54% of the net assets of the Corporation's total funded debt now to be outstanding. Total assets of the Corporation are more than 5 1/2 times total current liabilities of $26,423,854.

EARNINGS: For the year ended December 31, 1928, consolidated net earnings, after depreciation, depletion and drilling charges (amounting to $44,012,082) and before Federal Income Taxes, available for interest, were $25,409,507 or approximately 4 times the $6,361,295 interest requirement on total funded debt. For the 5½ years ended June 30, 1929, average annual consolidated net earnings after depreciation, depletion and drilling charges and before Federal Income Taxes, available for interest, were $25,536,832 or approximately 4 times this requirement. For the 6 months ended June 30, 1929, such consolidated net earnings were $11,466,452, substantially in excess of those for the EQUITY: Preferred and Common Stocks of the Corporation representing the equity following the funded debt have an indicated market value at present quotations of more than $400,000,000.

Application will be made to list these Debentures on the New York Stock Exchange.

Debentures and Warrants offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel. It is expected that delivery in the form of interim receipts with subscription warrants attached will be made on or about October 1, 1929.

SELLING WAVE
BEATS DOWN
CURB STOCKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 12.—A wave of selling orders that became pronounced after the start of the final hour wiped out early gains on the curb exchange today.

Prices in the main succeeded in holding firm prior to mid-afternoon. With the first signs of unsettlement in certain of the leaders traders scrambled to dispose of stock. The start of the closing hour found prices generally 2 to 5 points below previous levels.

The movement was without explanation, since early transactions had indicated that the upward trend of the previous day would be continued at least until after figures on brokers' loans were published later today.

Late declines were fairly large when compared with high prices made earlier in the day. Against previous closing levels, Electric Investors showed a loss of 7 points, Electric

Bond, 3%; Capital Administration A,

2%; Associated Gas A, 4%; American

Superpower, 2%; St. Regis, 5, and Newmont, 1/2.

In the investment trust section National Investors added 50 points more to recent phenomenal gains, the warrents were proportionately strong and the affiliated National Investor stocks

all showed gains but of varying amounts. Trans-America reached a new high in the afternoon. Shenandoah and Haygart continued heavy;

Blue Ridge was stronger.

RAILWAY BONDS
DAY'S FEATURE IN DULL MARKET

New York, Sept. 12.—(Special.)

The listed bond market did little more than back and fill all day today, prices showing considerable irregularity. Trading was light, even with the convertibles which have been active of late selling in much numbers. The slightly higher market rate did not appear to have much effect, but with the stock market pressed in spots there was some incentive to bid up the market bonds.

International Telephone and graph convertible 4 1/2s dropped 1/2 point, and American Telephone and graph convertible 4 1/2s sold off 2 points for fractionally low 3/4s sympathy with stock and Commercial Union

Trust convertible 5 1/2s slipped 1/2 of a point.

word" that the local bank had received a communication of some nature from the board authorities at Washington. Before anybody realized it a flood of stock selling had been precipitated with prices breaking violently all down the line.

The liquidation gained momentum rapidly as frightened traders hastened to throw their holdings overboard and carried many of the leading shares down from 3 to 10 points.

Steel Declines Sharply.
The sharp decline in U. S. Steel common seemed to confirm recent reports that "powerful banking interests" are determined to prevent any runaway market in the stock. It has been rumored that these interests were seeking to stabilize the stock "around current levels."

As a matter of fact, U. S. Steel at today's low was about 28 points below the recent high and Wall Street was wondering whether the "stabilizing movement" had not been overdone.

The market, it is realized, is more sensitive to movements in steel than to those in any other stock. For this reason the stock's action at this time is being watched with more than ordinary interest.

Some support was forthcoming for the so-called pivotal stocks toward the last, however, but final prices in a majority of cases were at or near the low levels of the day.
The selling spasm lasted for the better part of two hours and was reminiscent of that of last Saturday, when millions of dollars in paper profits were wiped out in a final hour push to get from under—for no sound reason that market observers have yet been able to determine.

Rumor Proves Groundless.
The total turnover amounted to more than 5,000,000 shares. As it turned out there was no basis whatever for the rumor, the redoubtable being left undisturbed—as usual—at the late afternoon bank meeting.

As in the case of last week's reaction, a disconcerting feature of the flurry was the ease with which such old line leaders as United States Steel, American Can, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, Bethlehem, and Westinghouse yielded to pressure. Steel broke more than 8 points from its forenoon high within an hour's time and was still off 4½ points at the finish. American Can dipped nearly 5 points and was still off 3½ at the close. Westinghouse closed at 257, off 3 points after being more than 12 points below the divide at one juncture.

Scarcely a group escaped the slaughter. Some of the utilities held out comparatively firm, but such usual stalwarts as American Telegraph, American Waterworks, and American Power and Light were off 3 to 4 points when the going put an end to the bear raid. Columbia Gas annexed a gain of some 4 points, while its fellows were in heading retreat and Consolidated Gas managed to stick within a fraction of yesterday's close.

W. J. T.—What is believed to be the largest charter ever filed with the state department in Delaware was filed May 23, 1929, by Commonwealth and Southern corporation, with an authorized capital stock of $2,000,000 shares without par value, of which 2,000,000 shares were preferred stock and 800,000 common stock.

The business of the corporation is to acquire and hold securities of companies engaged in the managing of operating public utility companies and companies doing a general construction, engineering or contracting business with public utility and other companies.

The corporation has been formed by Bonbright interests to acquire working control of three public utility systems whose assets exceed $1,000,000. At the outset it was stated that the new corporation would own more than 40 per cent of common stocks of Commonwealth Power corporation, Southern Power and Light company, and Penn-Ohio Edison company.

Bonbright & Co., Inc., are the predominant interest in the corporation, and American Superpower corporation, which Bonbright interests control, is the largest stockholder of the corporation.

Stocks were acquired in large blocks as a result of arrangements made with the American Superpower corporation and certain other large holders of the stocks of the three utility systems. At closing prices of May 23, 1929, stock holdings of the corporation, based on exactly 40 per cent of common shares of each corporation named, were valued as follows: Southeastern Power and Light, $79,604,889; Commonwealth Power, $104,553,520; Penn-Ohio Edison, $24,438,783; total, $208,597,192. In addition the corporation had at the start $45,000,000 in cash, giving it an initial worth in excess of $250,000,000. The bonus sheet as of July 21, 1929, showed total assets of $740,016,343, of which $693,795,276 represented securities owned.

Stock dividends are being paid on the common at the annual rate of five per cent.

The common is medium grade and somewhat speculative at present.

Incorporated Investors.
Miss M. B., Rochester, Minn.—Incorporated Investors was incorporated in Massachusetts in 1925. It operates a management investment trust of the general type. Funds are invested under the guidance of directors upon whose discretion the articles of incorporation place no restrictions.

It is, however, a fixed policy of the company to acquire for permanent investment only stocks of leading United States corporations and to place not more than 5 per cent of the fund in any one security.

The investments as reported by the company as of Jan. 3, 1929, represented high grade stocks of leading American companies.

Dividends are reported paid regularly at the annual rate of $1 per share. The company reported net earnings of $216,667 in 1928, $59,427 in 1927.

Can Opener Is Idle as Women Crowd Markets

Farsighted Housewives Fill Shelves.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Those who jestingly accuse the modern housewife of feeding her family at the point of a can opener would find their jest ill-timed, indeed, were they to saunter down the busy fruit and produce market places of Chicago any day of the present flush marketing season.

Pears, peaches and apples by the carloads and the truckloads are making their orderly way into the Fulton, Randolph, State and South Water markets. In company with huge loads of other seasonal fruits and vegetables, these select products of thousands of farms and gardens are quickly hauled and motor fleets hurry them to the store windows, where housewives wait their arrival with basket or bag.

It may be as truly said of the city housewife today, as of her grandmother on the farm, that she has a garden and an orchard. But hers is many miles away. And she depends on expert gardeners to sow the seeds, clear the weeds, and deliver her family's needs while she turns her attention to her babies, her bridge or her golf.

Largest Crop in History.

Illinois and Indiana peach growers have harvested their largest crop in peach history. Michigan is now picking a somewhat lighter crop than usual. Yet the quality and prices to peach consumers have enticed many a farsighted provisioner to fill her shelves with jars of large golden fruit for the coming winter. The nation's peach crop will probably be some 15 per cent less than last year, C. E.
Durst, secretary of the National Horticultural council believes. Prices both to producer and consumer have reflected this.

Apple growers of the middle west were less fortunate than those growing peaches. The fact that peach trees bloomed in good weather, while adverse climatic conditions followed as Truck farmers in most sections of Chicago and are occupied with the business of harvesting, grading and marketing large yields of grapes. They say the weatherman hasn't impaired the progress of well managed vineyards in the country surrounding Lake Michigan. Varieties well adapted to this climate are of good quality, with heavily set bunches that soon fill the usual seventeen pound baskets.

Pears Bring Good Prices.

Small fruits, berries of all kinds, were sent to the city by the truckload at good prices to producers.
Housewives who were not on vacation during the peak of this season have a winter's store of canned berries, jams, and jellies as a result. The pear crop, also past its marketing peak, brought good prices to orchardists of the west, partly due to its being somewhat below normal in size yet of good quality.
Increased consumption of fruit and vegetables, plus the development of good roads and a demand for uniformly graded and ripper fruit, has caused the gasoline motor to replace the freight engine in transporting the bulk of Chicago's needs, according to O. W. Sandberg, transportation expert of the American Farm Bureau federation. Producers within a radius of 100 to 150 miles of the metropolitan market use trucks almost entirely now, he says.

Highways Help Gardeners.

"In the good old days truck farmers on the fringe of the city loaded their carts before daylight, and old Dobbin spent many weary hours on the road to market," he says. "But with the development of highways, the area of truck gardening has been steadily advancing outward. Today a farmer from Sterling, Peoria, or southern Michigan can pick his products within two days of full ripening, send his man with a truckload to Chicago, and supply the market a ripper, fresher fruit or vegetable. He can do it more economically, too, because he doesn't have to load a car, ice it, and unload at the train's destination."

Refrigerated cars for moving the perishable products are in more demand than ever before, in spite of this change in transportation. Areas best suited to producing highly specialized crops in large quantities, such as melons, lettuce, or potatoes, undersell local markets constantly by shipping products of high quality in tremendous volume.

SAYS MAN CAN MAKE DIAMONDS; SHOWS PRODUCT

Result of Pressure on Pure Table Sugar.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 12.—(AP)— Prediction that "large and beautiful" real diamonds can be made by man was made to the American Chemical society today by Prof. J. Willard Her-shy of McPherson college, McPherson, Kas.

He laid on a glass slide a tiny crystal the size of a grain of sand. He said it was a real diamond, produced in his laboratories at McPherson. It was made from ordinary pure table sugar, subjected to pressure estimated at ten tons to the square inch. He said further that it was the largest map made diamond in the world, four times the size of the biggest stone produced in the '90s by the French scientist, Moissan, whose method of manufacture he copied. He cited tests to show the audience that the diamond was real.

Chemists Long Skeptical.

Chemists have been doubting Thomases about making real diamonds. None of those who questioned Prof. Hershey spoke of doubt as to whether he is making real gems. Their attitude, disclosed in conversation afterward, was that the Moissan method is unpromising for making large diamonds.

Despite their doubts of commercial practicability, the age-old lure of the word "diamond" apparently was strong in their imaginations, for they lined up to have a look through a microscope at the object on Prof.
Hershey's slide. It was a clear, transparent crystal, somewhat irregular, with evidence of reflecting light here and there from its uncut, unpolished surface.

Prof. Hershey said he melted iron filings and sugar in graphite crucibles the size of fists. They were cooked in an electrical furnace, at temperatures up to nearly 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit. When white hot they were plunged into ice cold brine, the theory being that the immense pressure created by fast cooling would turn the sugar into diamonds. Sugar is one form of pure carbon, of which real diamonds are made.

Next he dissolved the iron balls with various acids. After a week he had dissolved everything except some dust, which was the sugar carbon product.
Some of this dust was graphite, another form of carbon.

Confident of Success.

It was searched with microscopes as Prof. Hershey said:

"Hundreds of microscopic particles and some larger diamonds so far have been produced at McPherson college. The largest diamond so far made is four times as large as the largest made by Moissan or any one else so far recorded. So far as I know, no other genuine diamonds were ever made in the United States.

"I believe that the artificial construction of diamonds, from the scientific point of view, is no longer an unattainable goal and that the difficulties that prevent the preparation of large and beautiful diamonds are only technical.

"The production of artificial diamonds large enough for commercial use at a reasonable expense is one of the hopes of those who are making them at McPherson."

Prof. Hershey said his assistants are his students and that he embarked on the work six years ago simply to try to prove that it could be done.

He said the pressure rather than the temperature of the process appears to be the important factor. He obtained no change in his results by varying temperatures. He used nickel, steel, manganese, and even the iron from meteors in search of something that would cool at greater pressure than the liquid iron, but found no difference. Next, he said, he intends to try melting tungsten and sugar. Tungsten is one of the elements of earth, well known in electrical light filaments.
He thinks it may yield greater pressure.

Royal Doctor's Book on Foods Is Entertaining

19th Century Volume Gives Old Lore.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

There are encyclopedias, in discussing medicine, the Greek physician, Galen, dates are about 130-201 A. D. He gained a great reputation in all branches of medical skill, and was a writer on this subject. His dissections, and his commentaries on the medical skill, they prove beyond doubt that he was a practical as well as a theoretical scientist. For many years they formed the basis of the world's medical knowledge. Galen had not been a practical man. Galen would not have been a physician to the emperor, Marcus Aurelius, and what do you suppose he would have done? Yes, foods, and his prodigious writings on this and other subjects—no writer perhaps has ever more profusely—have been back to back during the year 1677 to 1743, and was a sometime physician to the French king, honored otherwise, etc. Or rather I want to talk about his book, "The Royal Doctor's Book on Foods," which is one of the most entertaining of all the rare old books on foods in my possession, though it has rivals or equals.

Foods That Make People Dull.

For some thousands of years now there has been some strange, and not a few rather obscure, theories as to what foods put certain kinds of people and what foods do the opposite. Some of these old ideas are just as true today as ever, while others are like huge jokes. Of all the things I have not read every word—I read in Dr. Lemery's book, which is so endlessly entertaining, I have been the most impressed with the variety of the following [the old time writing is followed here]:

"It is lawful for us to mix Sacred things with Profane; we should also say in this place, that the Law of Moses forbade the Jews to eat of some sort of unclean Animals, and such that were naturally Fat and Heavy, lest their Flesh being hard and Idle, should make them Lazy and Idle, and divert their Minds from the Worship of GOD; and this was the reason why the Jew must not eat the Fat of Oxen, nor as much as the Swine's Flesh."

If this quotation is not text for a whole book on food, I do not know where you will find one, admitting that modern science will present the soundest of reasons on the opposite of this question.

Prescribing Foods on Principle.

Dr. Lemery, who tells the nature and properties of all the foods in use today—practically all we have and say besides—found good moral reason for his food prescriptions, as we have from the start, for his preface tells thus:

"The Machine of Man's Body, ought to be considered as a whole, and the several Parts of it, which by the mutual Help they afford one another, concur altogether to perform and support the life of this Composition. Each of these Parts, having a considerable Motion, undergoes a continual dispersion of their Substance, and consequently, stand in absolute need of Food, to repair and restore them. . . . All of which being set together, we may easily see, that the preservation of our Preservation, consists chiefly in a Knowledge of the nature of every Constitution, as it agrees with it; and so the Knowledge we ought to be the most desirous of should be that of Foods." See! Dr. Lemery believed that more than 200 years ago, and there is nothing of us believe so earnestly today as just this, that we ought to be most desirous of food knowledge as a first step to self-preservation.

Health and Food Pleasures.

Perhaps it was because he was a Frenchman that he could say, in non-asserting our needs of acids and liquids, the nature made us sensible of our need, by hunger, "and has connected a kind of pleasure with our satisfying it, so that we might more readily look out for that which so necessarily concerns the preservation of our lives." That is putting eating pleasures in a nice and reasonable way, is it not? And then Dr. Lemery says that if you have an appetite the digestion is more easy, and the great Pav-

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Chutney.

A very earnest and sincere correspondent, thinks I am somewhat unfair to mention something she has never heard of, wants me to fix up a section of a cook's dictionary, now and then, in which shall be explained all the unusual condiments, seasonings or foods of which the average cook is ignorant. At least you could define and describe those things which you have referred in previous articles.

As my "previous articles" have numbered about eight thousand, this would be some task, yet many of these articles have been nothing but explanations of something or other. But her idea inspired a long letter to me in which she says: "Now here is the rub. Sunday you had an article on curry and some of the dishes really got me excited. But when I started to plan them I found I did not know anything at all about some of the things used for seasoning for flavor. For instance, chutney. I haven't an idea what it is."

Since answering this correspondent's letter, first going out to find out

lov, who has presented the effect of the hunger juice so vividly, can say no more. This is true, true, true, with good appetite, better use of food, and with far less waste and safety first for the body.

Ancient Food Principles.

Dr. Lemery is modest, and says many times over that he does not wish to be tedious, but how charming are some of his prescriptions, while some seem humorous today, and a little too explicit for common talk. He tells how many diseases oranges are a remedy for, and how good the juice is, and how figs are much used for physic. Peaches, he says, clean the bowels among other things. There is a charming picture of how the little foxes in autumn become fat and good eating on grapes which serve as remedy for humans and benefit them by raking the nerves of all food. Some food give "megrimas," and work violently "both upwards and downwards." Ye! You can live on honey and how pretty and wonderful it is, but it can hurt you, too. Dr. Lemery shows both faces of all food.

Dr. Lemery is always illustrating a fact he puts thus: "The foods which animals live upon causes also a great difference in their flesh," but it is the temperament of man that he most considers, even claiming that if he eats the flesh of patient animals he will be patient. And he says, "Every animal serves for food sometimes," nevertheless he thinks it would have been just as well or better for man if he had been a vegetarian.

It is hard to choose items of description from this book. To such an item as onions he ascribes a long list of medical virtues. Duck is supposed to make the voice "pleasant and agreeable," and even makes the voice "loud and pretty." It is better to eat upon than cook, and you can eat pumpkin seed—one of the "four grand cold seeds."

Indorsements of This Treatise.

It is a pity not to have space for the extremely comprehensive title pages of the second of the two English editions of this book. I have been fortunate enough to secure, by purchase, each of them—the first put out in 1704, and the second in 1745. This second has the indorsement of the College of Physicians in London which begins, "The Treatise of Foods of the learned Dr. Lemery is very entertaining, useful and worthy to be printed."

Dr. Lemery was a member of the French Royal academy, and it went on to their register that the book should be printed [reprinted with additions of the author's] because it was very instructive to all who have a regard for their health and "the printing of it will be useful and even agreeable to the public."

"Acid Gold" Is Chief Feature of Minton Ware

Cobalt Blue and Green Also Characteristic.

BY SALLY LUNN.

Have you ever stopped to realize that most of the chinaware of established quality and name that we use today is the product of china factories that were founded more than a century ago?

Until almost the middle of the 18th century there were no china factories in England, which had until that time been dependent on the orient, France, and Germany for its chinaware. At that time, a determined effort to establish factories was made, with the result that a great number of potteries were established, and a great period of experimentation in porcelain pottery at Burslem, the Staffordshire district, where Spode, Wedgwood, Enoch Wood, Clews, Ridgway, Mason, and many other master potters established themselves, was rich in mineral wealth, and has been since that time, the center of the English pottery industry.

Little to Tell of Early Days.
The Minton china factory was established at Stoke-on-Trent by Thomas Minton in 1798, about nine years later than the first Spode is thought to have been made, and some years later than Josiah Wedgwood's founding of the Wedgwood pottery at Burslem. There is little of history to recount concerning the early days of the Minton factory, as the experimental stages of porcelain production were past, and there were no spectacular events in its development. The best traditions established at that time were adopted by the factory in the making and decoration of the china, and have continued to this day.

Old Minton can be identified readily, as it was plainly marked, the mark adopted being an adaptation of crossed script L's, with a snail's M beneath. The chief characteristic of Minton china today is what is known to china experts as its "acid gold."

Specialize in Tableware.
A great deal of gold and ivory china is manufactured by the Minton factory, and it has always specialized in tableware, although it has manufactured some purely decorative ware. There is no particular characteristic design decorating the ware, but floral, conventional, and scenic designs are used in a variety of colors, and a practiced eye can usually detect Minton by the heavy and definite quality of the gold decoration. Cobalt blue and green combined with the gold and ivory are also used.

In the accompanying illustration, a modern reproduction of an old tea set is represented. The shape of the set is similar to the original, although the design has been adapted to modern style.

50,000 EXPECTED IN NIGHT CLASSES IN CITIZENSHIP

Registration for evening Americanization classes in twenty-two public schools will open today. It is anticipated 50,000 will be enrolled by Monday, when the fall term begins. In the three standard high school evening classes of the Crane, Englewood and Schurz evening schools, the registration began yesterday. In these classes the same credentials are necessary as for the regular day high school courses.

Day classes in Americanization and citizenship will be conducted in fifty elementary schools and 24 factories, stores and settlements.

Charles Farwell Edison, Chicago vocal instructor and composer, told a meeting of school principals yesterday that the United States is the only nation with no love for its language.

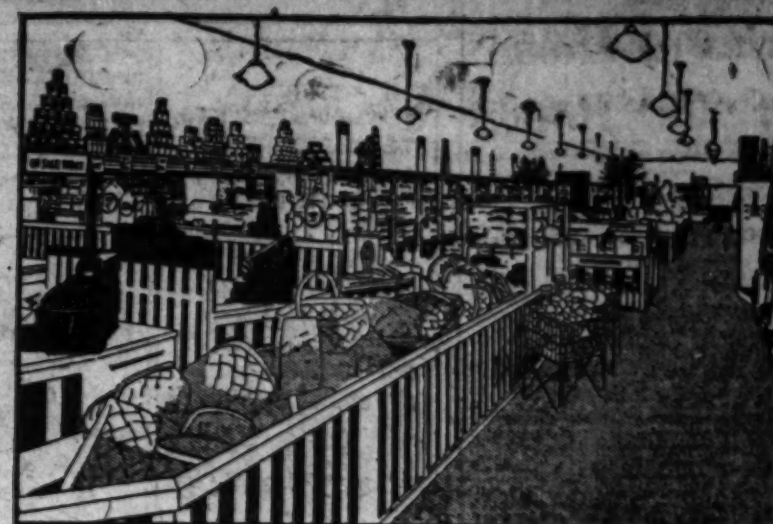

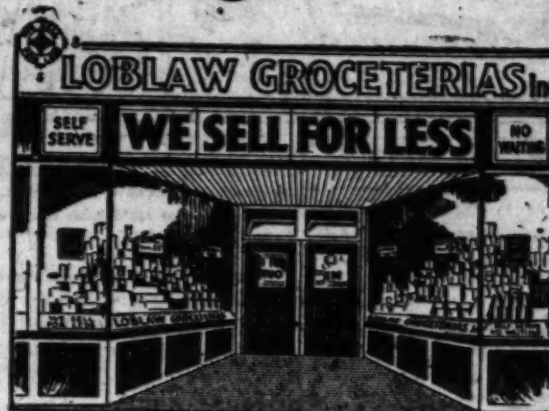

They had to be different to change the breakfast habits of millions. And they are different. A particular flavor and a precise health property to be found in no other cereal food.

British Prince Shies at Home of 200 Rooms

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, Sept. 12.—Why Marlborough house, that imposing red brick palace in the Mall where Queen Alexandra spent her last years, stands empty and deserted is explained. It's been ready for months for the prince of Wales to occupy, but he doesn't want to live there. He insists, according to court gossip, on remaining at his favorite York house.

After Queen Alexandra's death the interior of Marlborough house was reconditioned and decorated in readiness for its occupation by the prince of Wales.

The great state rooms, with their magnificent chandeliers and ornate hangings; the famous drawing rooms, hung in scarlet and green damasks, and the private apartments where King Edward VII. and King George V. lived as prince of Wales were carefully prepared for the present heir.

New ceilings were constructed and the windows of the room that was to be the prince's study were fitted with glass to admit the sun's ultra-violet rays. The study was paneled in pallard oak and new walnut, a massive wood burning fireplace was rebuilt, and several large bookcases added to complete its studious atmosphere.

Extensive modern garages, capable of accommodating 20 cars, replaced the old stables, and the layout of the gateways was completely altered to suit modern requirements.

It is whispered that one of the reasons why the prince did not want to make the change was a financial one. There are over 200 rooms in the great palace, and the cost of their upkeep these days would be tremendous, even for a future king's purse.

Something like $10,000 a week was estimated as the amount needed to maintain the house in the simplest possible style, and it is reported that the prince considered that a little steep in these days, when even royal watches its budget.

Rumors that the mansion might be turned into a reception palace for distinguished foreign visitors are discredited at the office of works. In the meantime the palace remains forlorn and unoccupied.

Actor Tells His Union J. J. Shubert Hit Him

New York, Sept. 12.—[U.P.]—Problems continue to pile up on the Actors' Equity association. It was disclosed today that Guy Robertson, musical star, had filed complaint with Equity that Producer J. J. Shubert had struck him on the nose during a rehearsal of the "Street Singer." Shubert had become annoyed at something in Robertson's portrayal of the role, it was said.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover and her son, Allan, who left the White House Tuesday by motor and spent Tuesday night in Richmond, Va., for several days' visit. The president had guests at dinner last evening with Mrs. J. H. Large, sister of Mrs. Hoover, acting as hostess. Mrs. Large and her daughter and son are making a visit at the White House and were joined there yesterday by Miss Florence Wardwell of New York. Dr. Work still is a house guest also. The other dinner guests were Mrs. Longworth, wife of the speaker; her two brothers, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, new governor of Porto Rico; Kermit Roosevelt of New York, and Mrs. Hughes, Republican national committeewoman from Tennessee.

The secretary of war and Mrs. Good have accepted the invitation of the committee to be in the driving line on the Mendota for the President's cup regatta tomorrow afternoon. The regatta will be held also Saturday afternoon.

The secretary of commerce, Robert P. Lamont, has returned to the Wardman Park hotel from a visit in his home in Evanston and in his farm in Wisconsin, which is his summer home, where Mrs. Lamont and Miss Gertrude Lamont have been nearly all summer.

Mrs. James R. Mann, widow of a representative from Chicago, returned this week to her apartment at 2400 16th street after spending two months at Lenox, Mass., in the Berkshires, where she has spent her summers for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Belknap of Chicago arrived today at the Mayflower from New York, where they landed from Europe early this week. They will be here three weeks and then return to Chicago.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Lady Cynthia Tothill of London has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Burton the last few days at the New Weston.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Judson Baker gave a dinner party last evening at the St. Regis roof garden in honor of Brig. Gen. Sir David and Lady Kinloch, who are sailing tomorrow on the Majestic for their home in Scotland.

Mrs. Russell G. O'Connell has returned from Saratoga Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Prime and their daughter, Miss Cornelia Prime, will return to the Plaza from Garden City on Sunday.

Mrs. Wendell Townsend, who with Mr. Townsend and their baby daughter, has spent the summer at Rye, sailed today on the Bremen for Europe.

Lake Forest Is Scene of Two Pretty Debuts

BY THALIA

Such pretty parties these debutante affairs are! Rooms filled to overflowing with floral offerings sent by well-wishing friends, pretty girls in dainty frocks flitting hither and yon among the guests, music, and the pleasant hum of conversation mingled with the clink of tea cups and punch glasses.

Such were the receptions given yesterday afternoon for two Lake Forest debutantes, Miss Barbara Poole and Miss Christabel Wheeler. The fashionable first went to the Ralph H. Poole's stunning French house on Green Bay road near Lake Blue to greet the Poole's daughter, and then motored to the Wheeler residence, or vice versa.

Miss Poole, who generally is considered to be one of the best poised and attractive of the year's crop of debutantes, received with her mother in the lovely drawing room. She wore a white tulle gown with white tulle applied in a flower pattern of the tulle. She had a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and held a prim paper filled nosegay.

The tall Helen Bell, who looks so much like her mother, Mrs. Laird Bell, in a flowered green frock; the Ruffner girls, Marianne in a ruffled orange and Virginia in figured rose; Miss Betty Durham in tan, and Miss Jane Twyford assisted at the tea table in the green walled oval dining room.

Among the numerous guests were Mrs. John T. Pirie, Mrs. Scott Brownell, Mr. and Mrs. Van Wageningen, Mrs. William A. P. Pullman, Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, Mrs. Vaughan Spalding, the David Adlers, Mrs. Edward Litsinger and her daughter, Miss Edwina Litsinger; Mrs. Bernard Schrauff, the former Miss Katherine Putnam, who is here from New York City visiting her aunt, Mrs.

WEDDING

New York, Sept. 12.—Miss Louise Winterbotham, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Hall Winterbotham, formerly of Chicago, was married today to Mr. George McKay Schieffelin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. D. Schieffelin of New York and The Gables, Morristown, N. J.

The ceremony took place in the private chapel on the country estate of Mr. Schieffelin's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner, at Convent, N. J. The Rt. Rev. John Insley Blair, suffragan bishop of Long Island, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Julius Walter Atwood, formerly bishop of Arizona, now retired and living in New York, and Archbishop Victor W. Moor, rector of Grace church, Madison, N. J. Both the marriage and the reception were attended only by members of the two families.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph Winterbotham, was unattended. She wore a gown of ivory satin, a princess model, finished with a bateau neckline and made with long, tight-fitting sleeves. The long skirt formed the train, which was lined with pale pink tulle, and her veil of tulle was held in place by a band of pearls.

James O. Hinckley, and Mrs. Ezra J. Warner.

Mrs. Wheeler, who also is one of the "stars" of the year's debutante aggregation, wore flowered tulle in rose colors, with an orchid boutonniere, for her party, and Mrs. Wheeler wore cream colored lace. The guests proceeded through the living room, after greeting the bride and her mother, to the crescent shaped garden terrace, which was all afire in bright pink petunias and blue flowers.

Assisting at the tea table, which was decorated with yellow roses and blue larkspur, were Miss Narcissa Swift, Miss Anne Small in pale blue chiffon, Miss Janet Kirk in orchid tulle with a jaunty sash, Miss Grace Dewes, Miss Phoebe Logan, and Miss

Miss Dorothy Read, daughter of the Joseph P. Read, and Thomas G. Wheelock are to be married today in New York City, with only a small group of their family and friends present at the noon ceremony at the Church of Paul the Apostle and at the wedding breakfast following immediately.

Mrs. Wheelock and her bride are to sail, presumably on the S. S. Majestic, for a honeymoon in Europe, after which they will return to Chicago.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick is to open her residence this afternoon for a tea for the members of the American Opera society. Mrs. McCormick's gift to the American Opera company, whose two weeks' season will open on Oct. 7 at the Majestic theater, and that of Ira Nelson Morris will go largely to the production of the new American opera, "Yolanda of Cyprus," to make its premiere in Chicago. Clarence Loomis, composer of the opera, will be present at the tea this afternoon.

Miss Margaret Emily Lynde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corneille Lynde of Winnetka will have as assistants this afternoon at her debut tea to be given by the Lyndes at the Indian Hill Country club, Miss Helen Bell, Miss Elizabeth Durham, Miss Joy Fairman, Miss Grace Dewes, Miss Ruth Fisher, Miss Elizabeth Parker, Miss Anne Small, Miss Clare Gerry, Miss Eleanor Cushman, Miss Lois Truesdale, Miss Janet Kirk, Miss Emily Pope, Miss Catherine Noyes, Miss Frances Van Duser, and Miss Helen Bloomer of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Fauntleroy of Geneva, N. Y., and Mrs. L. B. Baker of Chicago, are among the Chicagoans at White Sulphur Springs for the late season at the Greenbrier.

Mrs. Charles M. Kittle, who has had the Boynton house in Highland Park this summer has moved back into town and has departed for a motor trip to New York, and then to White Sulphur Springs.

Vincent Bendix Sails; Will Receive Honors from Sweden's King

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bendix of 219 Lake Shore drive have left to sail today on the S. S. Majestic for Sweden, where on Sept. 23 King Gustaf V. is to confer on Mr. Bendix the title of Knight of the Order of the North Star. This distinction, which is the greatest that Sweden can bestow, is to be presented to Mr. Bendix in recognition of his philanthropic interest in the land of his grandfathers.

One of his outstanding contributions has been to the fund financing the Swedish scientific expedition to China, which is being sponsored by the royal family. The Bendixes are being accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Aagaard of 220 East Walton place, who will be in attendance on the occasion of the ceremony. Both the Aagaards and the Bendixes have been at Lawsonia at Green Lake, Wis., during the summer.

Students Sending Autos Home at U. of Illinois

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Hundreds of automobiles driven by students intending to enter the University of Illinois this fall were being sent home tonight, as the no car ruling goes into effect tomorrow morning. Only students having permits may drive cars. Freshmen registration takes place the next two days. A total of 4,516 permits to enter the institution have been issued, an increase of 611 over the number granted at this time last year.

Ohio, Indiana Governors Guests of Hoover Sept. 18

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[U. P.]—President Hoover has abandoned his tentative plan to go to Texas next month for its celebration commemorating the Gadsden Purchase, R. B. Cramer, Republican national committee man for Texas, announced today after a White House conference. Premier MacDonald's projected visit and congress tariff deliberations were given as the President's reasons for deciding not to visit Texas at this time. As far as known, Mr. Hoover still is planning to visit Ohio as announced.

HERESY TRIAL IN S. AFRICA MAY SPLIT CHURCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 12.—Churchgoers from all parts of South Africa are flocking towards Stellenbosch to witness the trial before the Dutch Reformed Presbytery of the charges of heresy which have been directed against Dr. J. D. du Plessis, professor at the Stellenbosch Theological college.

The trial follows the publication in a journal which Dr. du Plessis edits of articles declaring that much appears in the Scriptures which is inconsistent with its claim toward divine inspiration. His thesis is that the Bible is inspired in its motive but not in its details and that people should no longer let themselves be bound to dogma which is obsolete and outgrown.

The case threatens to split the Dutch Reformed church in South Africa, and the church's whole conception of Biblical truth is jeopardized. It was stated during the first hearing today that Dr. du Plessis is still teaching in the college. In reply to the charges, Dr. du Plessis said "It is clear that the Scripture was not laid down as dogma though its inspiration has supplied power and there is profit through its instruction. Unity of creed is essential but in a Protestant church conformity on all points cannot be obtained."

Hoover Too Busy to Make October Trip to Texas

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—[U. P.]—President Hoover has abandoned his tentative plan to go to Texas next month for its celebration commemorating the Gadsden Purchase, R. B. Cramer, Republican national committee man for Texas, announced today after a White House conference. Premier MacDonald's projected visit and congress tariff deliberations were given as the President's reasons for deciding not to visit Texas at this time. As far as known, Mr. Hoover still is planning to visit Ohio as announced.

SENATOR TO ASK INVESTIGATION OF AIR LINER CRASH

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 12.—[U. P.]

A resolution asking for senatorial investigation of the wreck of the Transcontinental Air Transport plane City of San Francisco, in which eight persons were killed, will be introduced next Tuesday by Senator Sam Bratton (Dem., N. M.).

Mr. Bratton announced today that he will introduce the resolution, not solely to determine whether any mistakes were made, but principally to determine how similar disasters in the future can be avoided.

Airplanes doing an interstate business should be subject to congressional regulation the same as railroads and steamship lines, he said.

The investigation should be conducted by the senate committee on interstate commerce, of which Senator

James Couzens (Rep., Mich.) is chairman, in Mr. Bratton's opinion.

T. A. T. to Resume Service.

New York, Sept. 12.—[U. P.]—Col. Paul Henderson, executive vice president of Transcontinental Air Transport, tonight announced the line would resume full east and west service next Monday. He said the service was discontinued only so that all company ships could engage in the search for the liner City of San Francisco, wrecked on Mount Taylor, N. M., on Sept. 3.

Preacher-Sculptor Dedicates Ericson Bust on Sunday

A minister who also is a sculptor will dedicate his own piece of workmanship on Sunday. A bust of Leif Ericson, explorer, sculptured by the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, 3533 North Albany avenue, will be dedicated at the church during the morning service.

BARGES HELD UP BY LOW STAGE OF MISSISSIPPI RIVER

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—

The low stage of the Mississippi river, the lowest it has been for years, has put a crimp in the barge line service. With the river stage at around three feet or lower, river traffic virtually has been abandoned until a higher stage is reached.

From St. Paul to the Illinois river, fleets of barges have had to be abandoned and where five or more barges were towed up and down the river, one or two barges have constituted a load now.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

A Year Makes a Great Change with Tiny Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

This letter has a general enough application to give it in question and answer form:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I find your daily column very helpful and now I am writing for advice in the case of my little son, 21 months old.

"When something goes a bit wrong with his toys or his playmate he throws his fits and cries almost screams, sometimes. It takes a very little thing to precipitate one of these 'spells.' If he is playing on the porch and I suggest that it is time to come in and get ready for his nap, down he goes, weeping copiously.

"He has not seen any one else do this and I don't know what to do to stop it. I feel that it is a bad habit and that I would be horribly embarrassed if it should happen in public. I tried ignoring him at such times, but the habit has persisted for six months, so I feel that it is time to do something more than ignore it.

"I find lately that a good hard spanking is effective at the time, but that does not deter him from doing the same thing the next time something goes wrong, and besides I don't approve of spanking, and I know you do not either.

"He has always played with some one older than himself and it seemed to me that he began having tantrums or spells shortly after he began playing with a little boy who is a year older than he. At the time this seemed to be his only way of protesting against being imposed upon by the older child.

"Any suggestions you can give will be appreciated."

Not knowing details or causes, suggestions sometimes are a "shot in the dark." In the first place, he is virtually a baby and your explanation of a possible reason for the beginning of these spells seems a likely one. He was powerless against the older and stronger child a year at that age is a great difference) and his protest against being imposed upon took the form of a tantrum. The reaction probably became a habit and the habit once formed is persistent. Now it is directed against other things he doesn't like—such as his toys not behaving or your suggesting something he doesn't want to do.

"Isn't there some way you could arrange for him to have playmates his own age? Or even younger ones would equalize things a little for him, so that he is not always the weaker?"

Well, however, being sure of the cause, if he were my baby I would try to be as soothing with him as possible. When an engine topples over or a horse just won't build I'd go and sit on the floor or grass and help him to get straightened out, talking about anything except him and his tears. Why you want him to come for his nap, don't "spring it on him." This suddenness is often the only element involved which makes a child balk at naps and meals and baths and bed time.

Electric Needle in Heart.

Brings Life to 'Dead' Child

STONEY, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A device from which it is claimed extraordinary results have been obtained in the restoration of persons apparently dead was exhibited today at the Sydney medical congress. The device is based on the principle of stimulating heart muscles by plunging a needle charged with an electrical current into the heart for a period of ten seconds. Its designer said it is one case of an infant it was possible to revive the child after usual methods proved futile. It is expected the new treatment will prove of value in cases of supposed drowning.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

The grouped, shirred panels of the skirt of this charming frock give a fluttering flare to the hemline. Printed silk crepe in capricious tones will be a good choice for immediate and all fall wear. The wide crushed girle that hugs the hips with shirred sides is cut from a blending tone in plain silk. Shirring is repeated at the front shoulders, providing a becoming fullness across the bust. The deep V collarless neckline is becoming and chic. The pattern, 2879, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 40 inch material, with 1/2 yard of 36 inch contrasting.

To Keep the Mouth Tidy, Don't Forget That Final Rinse

In the hygiene of the mouth, leaving off the final rinse is considered an unwholesome habit. The powder after the toothbrushing is left behind to decompose and taint the breath.

Certain dentists hold that warm water swished back and forth between the teeth is all that is needed. But generally speaking, oral hygienists recommend some antiseptic agent to be used along with the water.

The antiseptic agents may be just as simple as boracic acid added to the water. And a good old reliable that has stood the test of years is a salt solution. A teaspoonful of salt to a pint of warm water is the usual recommendation but a half teaspoon to the same amount of water may be more agreeable for a beginner.

There are good mouth washes on the market, however, but it isn't the wash itself but the thoroughness with which you rinse the mouth that counts. And more than anything else in the way of preventing the devastating happenings that a mouth can reveal. The mouth should be rinsed thoroughly before retiring. Salivary secretion is at its lowest ebb at night.

The use of special astringents is urged for persons suffering any of the well known pyorrhea symptoms, such as soft, swollen, or bleeding gums. Where this condition is apparent brushing of the teeth and gums must be attacked with more vigor—not less.

Brushing the tender gums is one way to harden them against further ravages. A recommendation made by Dr. Bernard Panus, associate professor of clinical medicine at Rush Medical college, is to add a few drops of glycerite of tannic acid to warm water for a gum hardening effect.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

D. H. MILK USED EXTERNALLY to improve the complexion does not cause the growth of hair. After the skin is thoroughly cleansed apply the milk liberally and allow it to dry on. In the morning wash off with tepid water, then give the face a cold rinse.

D. K. EXERCISES WILL NOT correct bowed legs. An operation is the only means of correcting that condition.

Football Game on Oct. 12 to Benefit Infant Asylum

St. Vincent's Infant asylum will benefit from the proceeds of a football game to be played on Columbus day, Saturday, Oct. 12, at Soldiers' field, between De Paul university and Michigan State Teachers' college. William D. McJunkin is chairman of the committee sponsoring the game, and Mrs. George D. McLaughlin is vice chairman. Others working on the arrangements include Gen. Frank R. Schwengel and Gen. George V. Clinlin as co-chairmen of boxes, and Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy as vice chairman, and Mrs. George V. McIntyre as chairman of patronesses. A meeting of committees will be held at the orphanage next Monday afternoon.

Hundreds of Indians Expected Here Sept. 27

Hundreds of Indians are expected here Sept. 27 to take part in the fifth annual celebration of American Indian day by the grand council fire of American Indians in Fullerton hall of the Art Institute. Through cooperation of Supt. Bogan of the public schools exercises will be held in the schools and a radio program will be broadcast.

"Rinso for safety—and for whiter clothes!"

say 32,000 washing machine demonstrators

The makers of these 38 washers recommend Rinso

WHEN 32,000 demonstrators of washing machines say, "Rinso!"

When the makers of 38 of the best known washers say, "Rinso!"

When millions of women all over the country say, "Rinso is best in washing machine or tub!"

You can be sure there's good reason why YOU should change to Rinso, too! This granulated hard-water soap gives rich, creamy suds even in hardest water. You don't need a softener. The dirt loosens, and clothes come from the washer snow-white, without a bit of hard rubbing anywhere. Even boiling isn't needed!

In tub washing, Rinso soaks the clothes whiter than they can be scrubbed. That saves the clothes; hands, too. Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—it's so compact. Get the BIG package.

Recommended by the makers of LUX—Lever Brothers Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Egbert and Eldon are twins and look so much alike that I am at a loss to tell them apart. One day in speaking to Egbert I called him Eldon. On his correcting me, I apologized.

"O, that's all right," was his answer, "sometimes I wonder if I'm me myself."

A. A. A.

We were visiting grandma in the country for a few weeks. Little Lester, accustomed to a varied diet, was disgusted when grandma served soft-boiled eggs for breakfast for the third time in succession, and so he said,

"Gee, granny, I wish your hens laid something besides eggs."

"Invaluable" Says Lovely Baroness

I would not be without new MELLO-GLO Face Powder because it prevents large pores... it is longer... it spreads more smoothly and is absolutely pure," says Maria Baroness de Gracia, concert and radio singer, 108 Lexington Ave., New York City. MELLO-GLO Face Powder is made by a new French process that produces an exquisite youthful bloom. No pastiness, salacious or greasy. No more shiny noses. Try MELLO-GLO Face Powder today.

Pictures Show Chicago's New $20,000,000 Opera House Will Be Ready for Opening on Nov. 4

STANDARDS FOR MAIN FLOOR SEATS ALREADY IN PLACE AS FINISHING TOUCHES ARE PUT ON. Looking from near the stage toward the golden circle of boxes on the mezzanine floor and the balcony above. The seats, which are ready, are finished in rose color with a touch of salmon, the whole decorative scheme being in rose, green, leaf gold and white. (Tribune Photo.) (Story on page 1.)

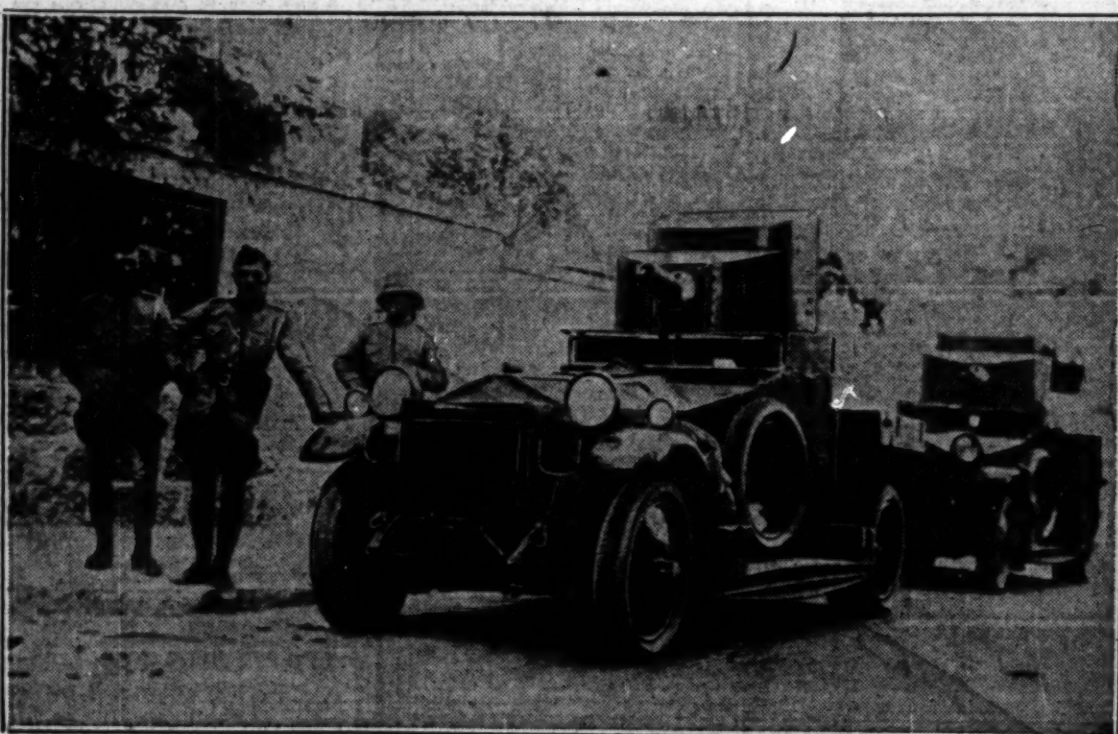

LOOKING TOWARD STAGE OF THE NEW CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE FROM MAIN FLOOR OF AUDITORIUM. The picture shows the deep proscenium arch, its grilled bronze shielding the heavy organ pipes. The top of the arch is hidden by the overhanging mezzanine balcony, where the golden circle of thirty-one boxes is located. The steel curtain is decorated with figures from famous operas. (Tribune Photo.) (Story on page 1.)

VICTIMS OF RECENT RIOTS IN PALESTINE. Homeless Jewish family from the outskirts of Jerusalem. The father and provider was killed by the Arabs. (Story on page 22.)

GIVE UP HOPE FOR LAKE VESSEL AND 28 ABROAD. R. A. Brinkman, superintendent of Construction Materials company (seated), showing A. C. Small, purchasing agent; route he took in airplane search for the long overdue sand carrier Andaste. (Story on page 1.)

CORINTHIAN PILLARS MAKE FOYER OF NEW OPERA BUILDING IMPRESSIVE SIGHT. There are six of these pillars on either side, 50 feet tall, and supporting a rectangular domed ceiling from which hang three massive bronze chandeliers. (Story on page 1.)
